

James Taussig.

James Taussig, of St. Louis, Mo., tells me of the local troubles at St. Louis ~~in~~ during the war and of his interview with Lincoln in 1863. His account of this interview was published in the newspapers at the time and may be found in Raymond's "Life, Public Services and State Papers of Abraham Lincoln".

Mr. Taussig knew Gen. Fremont intimately, having been his attorney for a number of years; but owing to this professional relation he does not wish to be quoted with reference to Fremont.
