Hanks

In Pusey's "Wilderness Road", quoting from Call's journal, there is mention of an Abram Hanks that in March of 1775 joined Call's Kentucky exploring party. The references are as picturesque as the spelling. "Abram had trouble with his ~~pig~~ (dug) (?) and awful time with his horses." He stuck it out for nearly a month and then became frightened because of the news that reached them of hostile Indians and went back.

Where this Hanks came from the journal, so far as quoted by Pusey doesn't make out. See Speed's.
