Miss Tarbell:

Mr. Fitzpatrick, my father-in-law by marriage 9 years ago, lives at the Sharry-Netherland Hotel with my wife's mother and my wife and daughter who are visiting them. He has often expressed a desire to have you as their dinner guest some evening.

I know you would get some interesting slants on the economics of the oil business should that meeting come about. As he is not in sympathy with my researches into history, it might be well to keep that phase of my activities out of the conversation. He is skeptical of all history, believing there is much untruth. There is some degree of fact in that belief, but it is inconsequential.

I trust you are well and rested from your sojourn in Atlantic City.

Sincerely,

Thos M. Galey
