Dear Anne Chambers:

Your letter to the Venango Inn followed me here. I am glad that "All in the Day's Work" reached you promptly. I hope it did not bore you to read it.

Of course I appreciate enormously your promise to help out on the Lincoln project. I have the building of the collection into a practical working unit very much at heart, but it can only be done by the co-operation of those who feel that Lincoln has something very especial to give to the building as a healthy and sound thinking America. Anything that you do you can be sure will be deeply appreciated both by the Library authorities and by me. cf

I hope I shall soon be able to see you again. Give me a ring when you are in New York. I am here some times if not regularly.

It was so nice to see your beautiful home. I have been boasting of your good sense in going out onto those lovely hills ever since I came back. I did not realize that Northwestern Pennsylvania was such a noble and beautiful spot.

Love to you
