

Hon. Robert Lincoln,

Present Secretary of War.

I have thought it well to say that I was at your grandfather's wedding. I thought him an honourable man and still think him so.

He was greatly persecuted but for righteousness sake. I have a great deal of good but no harm to relate of him. These are my last and dying words and I have nothing to deny of what I stated. I am a Democrat and a Southern man with intense feelings of moral right and wrong.

C. C. Graham, M. D.

February 3, 1895. 1-20 P. M.