PHI DELTA THETA GIVES DINNER

SPLENDID BANQUET HELD IN CHAPTER HOUSE.

Decorations a Feature of the Occasion—Excellent Music by Quartet.
Chrysanthemums as Favors.

The Phi Delta Theta fraternity entertained friends Saturday evening at the chapter house on Highland avenue. The main rooms and the halls were decorated in a way that only college men can decorate. The guests spent the earlier part of the evening in informal reception. Later on all adjourned to the chapter rooms, where the tables were tastefully laid, and enjoyed to the full the elaborate banquet served under the efficient management of the caterer in charge. Covers were laid for 60. After the banquet, the Phi Delta Theta quartet, Messrs. Lick, Gehr, Thomas and Glesey, rendered some very acceptable selections. Chrysanthemums were presented as favors to the young lady friends. The Young Northwestern orchestra furnished pleasing music for the occasion.

ALLEGHENY LOST TO WESTMINSTER

MEN OF GOLD AND BLUE PLAY-ED A STURDY GAME.

Game Was Spectacular at Times—Forward Passes and End Runs Used.
Rooting a Feature—Coach Lewis Leaves.

In the last game of the season, Allegheny lost to Westminster by a score of 17 to 0. But it was the sort of a defeat which is the next best thing to victory. From the first blow of the whistle to the last Allegheny was in the game, fighting her hardest and best.

The game was spectacular at all times. Forward passes, end runs, straight bucks, punts and fakes were all employed. Stewart was steady in covering punts and showed great speed in running them back. Capt. Ginn and Nelson figured in a number of pretty tackles. Benedict played his usual star game. Marks for Westminster was easily their star and in fact the head of the team. He seemed to be everywhere at once and the results of his efforts were to be seen in every scrimmage.

The rooting was a feature of the game. With some rival enthusiasm on the sidelines, Allegheny redoubled her lusty yells. The college band kept the air vibrating with martial strains. New antics and marches were performed between halves.

The first half started off with a rush. Westminster received the kickoff and in two end runs advanced the oval 30 yards. After a fumble and a false kick Westminster punted to Allegheny. Stockton rammed through the line for repeated gains of 5 and 10 yards. On a fumble Westminster recovered the ball. After a 40 yard run around right Scott crossed for Westminster's first touchdown. Time—7 minutes. Marks kicked goal.

Westminster received the kickoff. After bucking right and circling left and right for a total of 20 yards, she punted to Allegheny. Stockton and O'Connor failed to make the distance on two downs. Benedict booted. After end gains, Westminster attempted forward pass. Nelson received it for Allegheny. Allegheny was penalized five yards for off side. O'Connor advanced five yards. Ball went to Westminster and Parks crossed for second touchdown. Time—8 minutes. Marks kicks goal.

Allegheny kicked to Westminster in turn. Westminster punted to Stewart. O'Connor in three bucks

PROF. FRANK C. LOCKWOOD ISSUES BOOK ON BROWNING.

One of a Series on Modern Poets and Christian Teaching, Published by Eaton & Mains.

Technically Very Attractive—Subject Treated in Simple Scholarly Manner.
A Boon to the Uninitiated Reader of the Great Poet.
Means Much to the College.

Eaton & Mains, of New York, have just issued Prof. Frank C. Lockwood's book on Robert Browning. It is one of a series on Modern Poets and Christian Teaching that are being written by men who are known to have made a specialty of their subject.

The volume by Dr. Lockwood is a neat 12 mo in form and has an excellent steel engraving of Browning as a frontispiece. Technically, it is altogether a very tasteful and inviting book.

In treating his subject Dr. Lockwood has divided the work into seven chapters, tending to give the things fundamental in Browning's work. The topics are: The Man Browning, Browning's Way to Truth, The Path to God, The Human Highway, The Upward March of Nature, God's Message to Man, and Browning's Influence. It has not been the author's purpose to enter into any technical and exhaustive study of Browning's poetry, but rather to give a simple lucid account of the vital things that lie deeply bedded in Browning's life and work. In this Dr. Lockwood has been entirely successful. He has in a straightforward and scholarly manner revealed the stores of spiritual truths that abound in Browning's poetry.

To the uninitiated reader the work will be most welcome. It paves the way to an understanding of this man who is so worthy of being understood.

The style of the book is simple and direct in its appeal. By the skillful use of quotations Dr. Lockwood has been especially happy in illustrating his points. Occasional touches of a singularly humane and delicate humor add interest to the work.

The appearance of such a book from a member of the faculty of Allegheny college is heralded with gladness by the students and friends of the institution. It means much to the college. It will be of invaluable worth to the school.

THE SOCIETY OF APPLIED SCIENCE

IS THE NAME OF THE NEW EN-GINEERING CLUB.

Meeting Held Last Saturday Evening
at Delta Tau Delta House—Mr. H.
M. Nelson Acting as Chairman.
Programs Arranged.

The civil engineering students met last Tuesday evening at the Delta Tau Delta house and came to a definite organization. The name adopted for the society is "The Society of Applied Science." H. M. Nelson had been chosen as temporary chairman; the chairman will be chosen every meeting. The regulations of government, which had been presented the week before, were finally adopted. Programs will be arranged from time to time by the executive committee at the next meeting.

Mr. G. G. Martin will read a paper on "Reinforced Concrete."

The meetings will be held the fifth and twentieth of each month. The following permanent officers were chosen:

Secretary—H. D. Hilborn.
Treasurer—A. W. Donaldson.
Executive Committee—F. T. Fish,
Wm. Cappeau, and W. T. Dutton.

RECEPTION GIVEN BY PHI GAMMA DELTA

AT THEIR HOME ON PARK AVENUE.

On Monday Evening—Twenty Couples Present—A Visitor from Syracuse and Dr. Breed—Light Refreshments Served.

On Monday evening of last week a very pleasant reception was given by Phi Gamma Delta at their home between the hours of 8 and 11 o'clock. Twenty couples were present, among whom were C. M. Thompson, '02, of Syracuse, who now resides at Oil City, and Dr. Breed, a member of our faculty. A jolly time was spent around the punch bowl, which was visited at frequent intervals during the evening.

Many forms of amusement were indulged in and light refreshments were served, which added much to the occasion. In every respect it was a delightful reception and characteristic of the boys of Phi Gamma Delta.

KALDRON BOARD IS CHOSEN

A SUCCESSFUL YEAR IS PRE-DICTED.

Editorial Board Ready for Work.
"Booze" Russell Chosen Editor.
Popular Contributions Desired—Glesey is Manager—Perry, Assistant.

The Kaldron board has been chosen and the pot is ready to boil. R. R. Russell is the editor and with his associate, W. A. Cappeau, predicts great things for the new year. The board is very anxious that the work begin early as in this way only can a good volume be produced. The personnel of the new board is as follows:

F. L. LaBounty, Stanley X. Bright, Thomas A. Colter, Charles W. Gill, L. Sherwin, R. P. Andrews, Miss Hayward, Miss Henry, Miss Beebe, Miss Watson, and Mr. McDonald, Prep editor. Manager, Earl Glesey; assistant manager, Archie Perry.

It is desired by the editors that every student take an interest in this work by handing in material. The book can only be made representative of the college by popular contribution.

MISSION STUDY.

An enthusiastic and well attended Mission Study class inaugurated the work for this year Wednesday evening. Prof. Rowe, of India, the leader for the year, was absent.

Mr. C. A. Hartung presided and after opening the meeting introduced Dr. Coburn, who spoke tellingly on the subject of Missions. Expressions of appreciation of the Doctor's enthusiastic and forceful appeal for missionary activity, were voiced by everyone present.

Prof. Rowe will be with the class at the next meeting.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON ENTERTAINS AT DINNER

A SEVEN COURSE DINNER SERVED AT THEIR CHAPTER HOUSE.

Delightful Occasion—Pleasant Social Hour After Dinner—Faculty Members Present.

The active members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon very pleasantly entertained their lady friends on Wednesday evening at the chapter house.

A seven course dinner was served while the Young Northwestern orchestra furnished very delightful music. The house was very tastefully decorated with pennants, flowers and the fraternity colors. After the dinner a pleasant social hour was spent by all.

The members of the faculty present were Dr. Ling and Prof. F. S. Breed.

Oratory.

There has been a slight change made since last year in the time of college forensics. That is, last year, the debate came first; this year the oration comes first. This change has been made in order to make it possible for a student to take part in both departments. Oratory was so much neglected last year that it seemed wise to the Oratorical Association to make this change.

We believe in the change and we believe also that there is not a phase of college life that ought to appeal more availingly to a college student than oratory. Oratory is an art, and as an art ought to appeal to every student in the college. To foster the growth of this institution, to keep it fresh before the minds of all, to check it from drifting away, as a lost art, is a duty which devolves upon every student his hearty co-operation with the association under whose direction the contests are carried on.

Allegheny and the Press.

Alumni and others interested in the best welfare of Allegheny have been constrained to comment in the past on the almost unfriendly attitude assumed by the press of Pittsburgh towards the gold and blue.

The leading journals of that city, says popular sentiment, maintain a strangely hostile attitude towards Old Allegheny and rarely give her athletic teams their just dues in the respective sporting columns.

Just why such relations should exist is a question. Yet, the fact remains. More than this it is very noticeable that any story not creditable to our institution rarely fails of being thoroughly aired in the metropolitan newspaper columns.

At least three of our prominent alumni are actively concerned in the papers of the city mentioned, and we see no reason why our interests should not be amply cared for. At any rate we are convinced that some amicable compromise is possible and that such an understanding would result in untold benefit to this college.

H. K. D.

"It's up to You."

The attitude of the freshman class, has been gravely misrepresented. We appreciate fully the fact that a college without traditions and customs is a dead institution, as far as real, true spirit is concerned. For such a college there can be, in the heart of the graduate, no such real love for Alma Mater as there thrills the heart of those who have quit the halls of a college alive with tradition.

We deny most emphatically that there is any air of importance assumed by the new men, corresponding to the dormancy of the upper classmen. The truth in a nut shell is this: The Senior class has two men at its head representing two parties; the spirit of rivalry is such that what one head does is scorned and opposed by the other; thus there is no one man to take the initiative and "rush things" as in former years. It is not for a Freshman to say in this editorial column which party is in the right, but it is for him to say that the Senior class is in the wrong and that the delay in observing such college customs as the wearing of green caps, etc., is caused wholly by the negligence of the upper classes, who should always take the initiative, at least until such customs are firmly established in the school.

"He has nothing to do but obey."—I quote this from an editorial which appeared in this paper last week. That phrase rings of the wrong spirit. The Freshman is a man as other men are and driven to the well, he will not drink. However, he believes in the school he has selected from all others for his education, and he will observe its customs and traditions, not because he must, but because he believes in those things which make for college life and spirit. He is waiting until his elder and wiser sages settle their family scrap so that they can tell him what he is to do. And his parting words to the upper classmen are these: "It's up to you."

LIBRARY NOTES.

The government documents which the Library receives from time to time will be placed on the table in the small room at the left of the reading room for inspection, and students are invited to look them over that they may become familiar with the publications which the largest printing establishment in the country produces.

At intervals other books which are of interest to book lovers and not frequently consulted will be placed in a convenient place in the reading room for the pleasure of the students.

Recent additions to the Library by gift and purchase are a complete set of Lessing's works in 13 volumes, Goethe's works in 24 volumes, Life of Wesley by Winchester, Life of Gladstone three volumes, by Morley. Here and There in the Greek New Testament by Potwin, a gift of the author, 11 volumes of Little's Living Age from Mrs. McCoy, several volumes of The Literary Digest, and back numbers of the Campus, and separate numbers of various magazines from Miss Heydrick, and The Literary Monthly for 1905-6 from Mr. Main. Through the kindness of the editors all the Meadville morning papers are now on the reading tables, and the Cleveland Plain Dealer is contributed by Miss Jean Melville.

LEW WALLACE AND HIS BOOK.

INTERESTING LECTURE BY DR. EDWARD A. SCHELL.

In Ford Memorial Chapel Friday Evening—Entertaining Discussion of Author of Ben Hur.

Dr. Edward A. Schell, of Crawfordsville, Ind., gave a most entertaining lecture in Ford Memorial Chapel Friday evening on "Lew Wallace and His Book." Dr. Schell is a very pleasing speaker and held the undivided attention of the audience from the start. He said in part:

"General Lew Wallace was a diplomat, a soldier and an author. He was the minister to Turkey. Along with Grant, Sheridan, Sherman and Hancock, Gen. Wallace stands with imperishable honor. He was game. He was replaced at Shiloh, but had he been allowed to have his own way there, he would probably have become the most successful general of the war. He was in flesh a soldier and in spirit a writer. From the political failure of Grant and the military routine of Sherman after the war, Gen. Wallace was happily preserved.

General Wallace's father was at one time governor of Indiana. His mother was one of the best women in the world. She died when he was thirteen. The son's religious development was thus suddenly checked. He spoke with Ingersoll about the great question. Later he said: 'I have come to the deliberate conclusion that Jesus Christ is the Messiah of the Jews, the Savior of the world and my own personal Savior.' Again, 'Let no man say I am not a Christian; I believe in God and his son, Jesus Christ.'

General Wallace never expected to be a preacher, but he was. Down in Mexico, where he wrote his great book is as much a pulpit as any. He preached to people and they didn't know it. He didn't look like a preacher.

'Ben Hur' is the fourth greatest book. First is the Bible, the Pilgrim's Progress, Robinson Crusoe and Lew Wallace's 'Ben Hur.' This book is the call of the Eternal. There is no doubt of its spirituality. The book is a summons to follow in the footsteps of the 'Man of Galilee.' Here is a call to millions of shepherds and kings and royalty. The mightiest men of the generation read it. This book is the most widely circulating sermon in existence.

'Ben Hur' has lucidity, directness and dramatic power. It cannot be kept off the stage. These sentences of Wallace are mighty. It has an eloquence of mighty lift. It is one of the greatest novels of the age because it possesses that great dramatic quality, it has an elevated subject.

Only one man in a million lives beyond his century. Such a man was Lew Wallace. He has left behind him a great book and succeeding generations will love to tell of 'Ben Hur.'

kept alive, cherished and confirmed." A student's reading comes under two heads—what he must read and what he wishes to read. The former his instructors decide for him and the latter he may entirely neglect or make a delightful and valuable addition to his college course and leave his school days behind with confidence that he has the habit of reading firmly established. "When I get out of college I am going to read," is a chimera and it will lead to neglect of reading in school because the student thinks there will be more time for it when the regular course is finished.

Shall the student read the newspaper? Most assuredly if he is to keep in touch with the march of daily events and history in the making. The current magazines must not be neglected but the power of selection must be exercised lest the merely ephemeral usurp the well written article or story. "Old books to read" is a wise saying, but read the new as well. If your studies require heavy reading, then the light or amusing book has as legitimate a place in your resting hours as any recreation and may be as important in your development as is the heavy or learned book in another's education.

The library has on its reading table over 100 periodicals including the exchanges. The best English and American critical reviews, literary, scientific and technical magazines for each department are here for your delight and profit and the methodical student will set apart some time each day for his reading. A book on his table to be picked up while waiting for a class or the dinner bell, a few moments for the daily paper and one hour a week for the magazines will give an amazing amount of cultural training in a year. If you have but five minutes per day and read regularly and persistently for those five minutes, but read somehow.

Below are Mr. John Cotton Dana's twelve famous rules about reading:

1. Read.
2. Read.
3. Read some more.
4. Read anything.
5. Read about everything.
6. Read enjoyable things.
7. Read things you yourself enjoy.
8. Read, and talk about it.
9. Read very carefully—some things.
10. Read on the run—most things.
11. Don't think about reading but.
12. Just read.

BASKETBALL OUTLOOK IN THE PREPARATORY SCHOOL.

Now that the "pig-skin" will soon be laid away for another year, all eyes are turning towards basketball. Although still an infant in age as far as athletics are concerned, the Prep teams have more than held their own against old and experienced opponents. Last year, Coach Taylor developed a fast team, from a squad of comparatively green men. This year he has Capt. De Arment, French, Hines, Bailey and others of last year's squad. There are quite a few of the new men who have played before and, these will strengthen the Prep team.

There have been two practices already and both were marked by the enthusiasm which the fellows entered into the game. Fitzgerald, Stratton, Lowing and Ughlinger are showing up to good advantage. There is no doubt that the team this year will be fast. The management has succeeded in forming an Interscholastic Basketball Triangular League. The schools in this are Erie High, Edinboro State Normal and the Preparatory School. This league will cause much friendly rivalry and great interest will be taken as to the outcome of these games.

The team which holds first place, when the league schedule has been played, will be presented with a beautiful banner suitably inscribed. Now let every Prep, who has any spirit at all get out and play basketball. If you cannot play come out and watch the boys. Show them that you are going to support the team. If you do this, they will play harder, go into every game with greater confidence and when the season is over that banner will adorn our walls. Coach Taylor and Capt. DeArment are both sure that we will have a winning team. The following is the league schedule:

Jan. 5. Erie at Edinboro.
Jan. 21. Edinboro at Meadville.
Feb. 8. Erie at Meadville.
Feb. 16. Prep at Erie.
Mar. 2. Edinboro at Erie.
Mar. 9. Prep at Edinboro.

Manager Wilds has also scheduled a game with the fast Rayen High at Youngstown for January 26. Other games will be played with some of the following schools: Warren, (Pa.) High School, Oil City or Sharon High. A game will probably be played with the college team December 21. "The prestige gained by the red and green in football will doubtless help a great deal in the scheduling of games for the winter sport. The main object of the Preparatory School Athletics is not to win, although this is most acceptable, but to establish a record of cleanliness, manliness and the good treatment of visiting teams in all branches of sports. There is no doubt that with such men as Coach Taylor, Capt. De Arment and Manager Wilds at the head, the school will surely succeed in this."

How would you like to Graduate with a $1,000 Bank Account?

You can do this even while earning your own college expenses, and at the same time acquire

A PRACTICAL BUSINESS TRAINING,

Which will Open Your way to a Successful Career.

A college course needs supplementing by Business Experience. Do not neglect this phase of your education until you find yourself handicapped on leaving college.

Here is what one College Graduate says:

"I worked my way through college by selling Keystone views during my vacations. Moreover, on graduating from college I had a $1,000 bank account, all from selling views."
