

Roxbury. March. 9th - 1926.

My dear Miss Tarbell,

Your letter is here with enclosed check. I need not tell you, that I am pleased that your sister was able to place her story of Mr. Wingo's recollections of Lincoln etc. at so good a financial return.
I certainly appreciate my part, and shall put it into some safe investment. I am hoping after it has been in Collier's she will put it into a permanent form to add to what she has already contributed to make more lasting the life of Abraham Lincoln, who Dean Bissell of Yale in his lecture designates as the greatest man of the 19th Century.

With what issue of Collier's does the Article start?
I am more than anxious to see it. If you have time please drop me a line, as I know a number of Mr. Wingo's friends will want to read it.
Kindly express my great gratitude to your sister.
When you write her very truly yours
Mrs. Henry E. Ching.
