Mrs. Henry E. Wing
Rowayton, Conn.

My dear Mrs. Wing:

The contract with McMillan is signed, and half of the royalties will go to you - you certainly should have them. They will not be very much so don't plan any grand expenditures.

The book will appear next February, after the articles are published, and there is an advance then of a small sum. After that the sum comes annually.

I am just off for a piece of work in Italy. When I come back I hope I may have the pleasure of seeing you. If I get time I shall send you the Wing papers. I still have a copy of Mary Livermore's reminiscences at the Farm, I think, and if my people don't find it and send it to you from there, I will see to it when I return. I hope you won't mind this delay.

With all good wishes,

Faithfully yours
