

February 11, 1927.

Mr. Nathaniel W. Stephenson,
522 Fifth Avenue,
New York City.

My dear Mr. Stephenson:

I want you to know that finally I have written the six hundred words on your "Autobiography of Abraham Lincoln" that Mr. Jameson asked of me for the Historical Review. I had real pleasure in going through the book. It is quite amusing. What a sense you give of a personal narrative and I was much interested in the connecting lines. They have the same carrying effect as the titles in the movies. It was an admirable idea and I envy you the pleasure you must have had in doing the book.

With all good wishes,

Sincerely yours,

IMT BWR.