Dear Mrs. Sales:

I am glad you are compiling notes on Mr. Sales' life, and I shall be pleased to do anything that I can to help you. I wrote him a good many times about He Knew Lincoln. I have, I am sure, no objection to your using the letters you found in your book. Perhaps I should see them.

I am sorry that I am not in New York so that we can go over them together. I have been laid up for repairs for a year now. I have left New York to see what the country will do for me. I sent all my papers and correspondence here and it is still unpacked. I am quite certain that I have several letters of Mr. Sales and as soon as I can get a chance to go over my files I will look them up, and if there is anything that I think will be of interest to you I will be glad to let you have it.

Perhaps later I shall be so I can have a visit with you over the correspondence.

With all good wishes,

Affectionately yours,
