Dear Miss Tarbell:

I do not have any record of a copy of our special edition having been sent to you, but this is not surprising, in view of the terrific pressure we have been under.

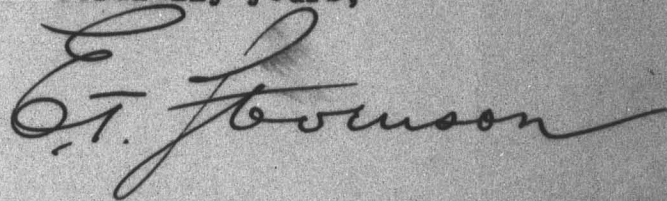

Because of your great kindness in sending us a letter for the edition, I am desirous of having some of these copies in your hands. We had a complete sell-out, but I retained a few copies for myself, and I shall be happy to supply your wants out of my precious personal store.

If personal letters and telegrams and published notices are to be taken at their face value, we have done a fine piece of work, although not realizing it at the time.

If you would be interested in seeing other issues during the Jubilee please advise me and I shall forward to you as many issues as we have.

With kindest personal regards, I am,

Cordially yours,

ETS-hh
