Prominent in public affairs, and a private wit to all classes, it was natural that he should find enough to make him busy and to keep him busy and be seen in fact to have been active for the beginning to evolve a civilization. When William Cullen Bryant visited Springfield in June of 1832 he found that the houses were not as good as at Jacksonville, a considerable proportion of their being 'ugly, cuskis, dirt and discomfort.'

Mails were carried on horseback from central post offices by 4 to 6 horse post-coaches, family trading. The mail reached Springfield in 3 weeks, N.Y. in 11 to 12;

Of course, no mail to St. Louis.

A splendid time
Dear [Name],

I'm sending my love. I hope this letter finds you well, whatever your current state of health may be. I've been reflecting on our past conversations, and it seems like we have a lot to talk about.

In the winter of 1875, I found myself in a state of mind that was quite contrary to my usual self. I was contemplating the idea of a new project, perhaps something that would be beneficial to society. I've been thinking about the impact of the industrial revolution on the working class and how we can improve their lives.

I've been reading up on the topic and have come across some interesting articles and books. I think we could start a small group to discuss these ideas and see if we can come up with some practical solutions.

Please let me know what you think about this idea. I would love to hear your thoughts on the subject.

With love,

Enthusiasm for making the most
His calmness, self-control and objectivity were me now for a moment shaken by the dreary, the applause, the platitudes he received. He went about as if he had all his life been the center of national life. Suddenly I thought of all his fine, fine literature, humanity, sense of humor and his great steady spirit. I had the eyes and heart of the literary artist and had a purely intellectual way of thinking. It must be human and great in the thing, in the thing. This quality did not exist. Human.
