Allegheny College

2010-2011
Class of 2011,

As I reflect on the 2010-11 academic year at our college, three words come immediately to mind: collaboration, community and character. Working together, our students, faculty and staff demonstrated time and again why Allegheny is among the nation’s finest liberal arts colleges. I am proud to be counted as your colleague, and thank you for sustaining Allegheny’s tradition of singular academic achievement in a setting that promotes integrity, involvement and inclusivity.

Our community united this year around the theme of global citizenship. I was inspired not only by the range of public events and outreach, but also the range of individuals who took a leadership role in organizing those activities. These efforts spanned the academic disciplines and all facets of campus life, a testament to the power of creative partnerships in affecting positive change.

That power is evident in the tremendous level of service that Allegheny students provide to Meadville, surrounding areas and beyond - an estimated 40,000 hours this year. You have served as remarkable ambassadors for the College by collaborating with hundreds of citizens, nonprofits and schools. You have mentored young people, assisted with economic and environmental revitalization initiatives and volunteered in countless other ways. I sincerely appreciate your resourcefulness and helpful spirit, and please know that you truly have benefited our region.

I am also grateful that Allegheny students have continued to contribute enthusiastically to our democracy this year. You have joined a rich history of Alleghenians who have made a difference by participating in the political process. To help advance that legacy, the College this year announced the creation of a national award to honor elected officials who exemplify authentic, courageous civility. The award will celebrate the ideals of expression that Allegheny seeks to instill in students: the commitment to share important ideas passionately yet respectfully, to have conviction while genuinely considering the perspectives of others.

Members of the Class of 2011, I thank you for all that you have done for Allegheny in your four years here. Your alma mater is proud of your accomplishments, and it has meant so much to me to experience your dedication, kindness and insight. As you take this next step in your journey, I encourage you to stay connected with your College and your classmates, to never stop learning and to be leaders in your career, community and country.

Sincerely,
James H. Mullen, Jr.

Students for Environmental Action (SEA) and the Eco-Reps hosted the 2nd Annual Trashion Show on Saturday, March 5th. Competitors were asked to craft unique articles of clothing entirely out of used items and several prizes were awarded to the most creative outfits. The event served as a positive reflection on consumerism and waste disposal.
Students reflect during the "Fight Back Ceremony" balloon release. Over 200 students participated, writing letters on papers tied to the balloons.

Students bit and hugged to win the frozen t-shirt contest.

Miss Relay Pageant, Kate Middleton even made an appearance.
