Mr. F. R. Sites,
71 Broadway, New York.

Dear Mr. Sites:

Your messenger brought to me yesterday afternoon the notes collected by you from different friends and acquaintances of Judge Gary's, as well as the bound volumes mentioned in the letter which accompanied the package. I shall keep this material separate from other documents and books in my library, and after I am through with it return it to you, if such is your desire. All that we can decide later.

Thank you for the list of names of persons whom I should see. As soon as I have finished the preliminary work I shall make arrangements to talk with them. I may ask you to help me in arranging for the interviews.

Please, as you think of other people whom I ought to see, drop me a line. And would it not be a good plan in sending the names, to add the address? I shall be making a card index for the work and should like to include addresses.

I very much appreciate the helpful cooperation you are giving me, my dear Mr. Sites. I only wish I were free to give my full time to the undertaking.

Sincerely yours,
