

The Women's Party & Naval O'Grady

The fundamental difficulty with handling the question of prostitution in this country is the unwillingness of women to be honest that - to recognize that the very reason that all women are put in the business is that society has devised means to keep them from it. They will not admit that - and find the nature of the C.'s L. & N. O.'s. is the same. This when all women ~~are~~ come to understand or if they understand it to ~~be~~ admit - the fact that prostitution is the result of a corrupt social system - far ~~of~~ and not of a national