Dear Miss Tarbell:

I am returning your manuscript with this note. You will see that we have ventured to offer a few suggestions, particularly on page 2. Then there is the omission of two words on page 3, and the addition of two words on page 4. With these slight changes, I think it will be perfectly acceptable to Dr. Whitney, but if you can send him a galley-proof on his return, as I infer from your letter of yesterday that you can, I am sure he would appreciate the consideration. His plan now is to be here by the third of March.

We shall all want to read your book.

Yours very truly,

Mary Christie
