My dear Miss Tarbell:

It was most kind of you to reply so attentively to the intrusive query of a stranger. In the circumstances I am loth to appear insistent, and hope to be pardoned for saying only that if Mr. Young, in the equivocal position described in my letter, did not in fact fail those to whom he owed a duty, that circumstance does not help me to revise an opinion formed upon his willingness, for gain, to be in that position.

With my best wishes for your welfare in all departments, believe me

Yours very truly,

John W. Farquhar
