Dear Mr. Murphy:

mu
I am sorry there has been so long a delay in replying to your letter you were good enough to write me on February 27th. As my secretary wrote you I have been out of town, in fact have only just returned to my desk.

I am glad you wrote me about that misprint, careless enough on my part, in the quotation from Mr. Young's talk on the changing ~~of~~ character of business. What he really said was, "Old methods disappear over night - new ones come in, etc."

It was a kind thing for you to do. I am always grateful when people call my attention to a mistake I have made.

And thank you for saying you shall look out for my next book. I hope it will be along in a few months and be something that may be of interest to you.

Very sincerely yours

Mr. De Edward Murphy
