My dear Dr. Gay:

Some little time ago the newspapers reported that two hundred business executives, meeting in the Harvard School of Business Administration, had voted that Owen D. Young was "the greatest business man in America."

I have no quarrel with this judgment but I should like to know the reasons given, if reasons were given; that is, I should like to know why these gentlemen believe Mr. Young the greatest business man in America.

I hope I am not imposing upon you in asking this information. I shall appreciate thoroughly the trouble you take in replying.

Very sincerely yours

Dr. E. P. Gay
