Dear Miss Tarbell:

I am terribly distressed to learn of your illness and I hope you are completely repaired by this time. Under the circumstances, I am most reluctant to press you, but it was our plan to run the first of the Young articles in the September issue. Confidentially, our fall newspaper advertising campaign begins with this issue and it seems to me that it would help to get the series off to a good start.

My notes on our last conversation indicate that you planned to complete the entire serial early in June. However, if this is impossible, can't you deliver the first article sometime in May?

I am sure you will have a very pleasant time with the Young family. In the meantime, I am looking forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Summer Blossom
