My dear Miss Tarbell:

Your letter of the 7th only reached me this morning, partly due, of course, to the fact that yesterday was a holiday here.

I shall be very glad to talk with you about Mr. Young, and only hope that I may be able to be of some assistance to you in the task before you.

On the 17th, 18th and 19th, I must be in New York; but, on the 20th, I expect to be here all day and can give you as much time as you may desire.

Would it be a convenience to you if you came to my house on the morning of that day? We shall there be undisturbed, and, as I say, I can give you as much time as you desire. The address is 240 Beacon Street, which is just opposite the end of Dartmouth Street, and possibly may be quite near your hotel.

If this office would be more convenient for you, I can see you here at almost any time during that day.

With kind regards,

Very sincerely yours,
