IN REPLY REFER TO _____

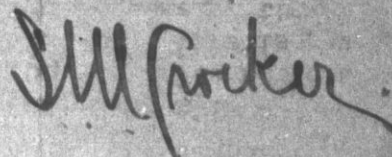

MISS GERTRUDE CHANDLER,
25th Floor.

Dear Miss Chandler:

You have shown me Miss Tarbell's letter to you of January 25th. I have no objection to her using, as illustrations in her book, the drawings listed in her letter to you. There is just one thing that her publishers will have to determine, namely, these were drawings by Derso and perhaps due credit should be given to him.

I do hope that Miss Tarbell will give me the same privilege that I gave her, namely, that of permitting me to read her manuscript - she has had the advantage, or disadvantage! of looking over my manuscript of the Dawes Plan and the only reason I have not published it (although I have been urged to) is that I have a commitment outstanding with Mr. Young to the effect that I would not. Obviously, therefore, I think the only way that I can protect Mr. Young's wish in this matter is to see Miss Tarbell's manuscript of her book. I am sure I will not find anything wrong with it, but I would rest more comfortably if I could see it.

Sincerely yours,

SMC:EW
