Dear Miss Chandler:

It is good news that the pictures are coming in so satisfactorily. Macmillans tell me that they can give sixteen pages to illustration. I am anxious, of course, that these be the best possible sixteen so if you have suggestions please be good enough to make them.

^{two} Too, and in the case of the boyhood pictures ~~can be put~~ be put on a page if this is thought advisable. That will rest with the art editor.

I should be glad if I could have whatever has come to you by Monday morning, as I have promised to turn in a selection - not necessarily complete - Monday afternoon.

With appreciation of your co-operation

Cordially yours

Miss Gertrude Chandler
