

February 25, 1932

Dear Miss Chandler:

to publishing

Would there be any objection as an Appendix to the O. D. Y. book the entire pamphlet on the Fundamental Library of English Literature? I mean by that not only the catalogue per se but Doctor Gaines' "Explanatory Address" and possibly, I am not sure, "The Tentative List of World's Books."

The American Magazine in its February article offered to send the catalogue to readers interested. They have had to send out close to Five Thousand already and the inquiries are coming in numbers, and from foreign shores - Japan - Australia.

Putting the entire thing in the book would be an invaluable addition. May I do it?

I saw Mrs. ~~Spang~~ ~~yesterday~~ and was amazed and rejoiced to find her so much better.

De

Faithfully yours

Miss Gertrude Chandler
120 Broadway
New York City