Dear Mrs. Samuelson:

I am sorry that there should have been so long a delay in replying to your letter of January 22nd. I have been ill - all my correspondence has been neglected. I am only just back at my desk.

You ask if I could help interest Mr. Young in your project. No, I am afraid I cannot. I should consider it highly improper for me to try to influence Mr. Young in such a matter. He has many good causes - which he aids and he is conscientiously making a selection. It is obviously impossible for him to help everybody who has an interesting suggestion.

Apologizing again for the delay in replying to your letter, believe me

Very truly yours
