

Talking to the directors of the new Radio Corporation of America in November 1921 Young said - (See No. 8 Vol. I of speeches - Page 4)

It is in this talk that Young said that the companies joining undertook for twenty years to turn their inventions in to the Radio Corporation of America and it is in this talk that he asked, "Has America the courage - the far-sightedness - the skill - to take advantage of her geographical position in this new art? (See Page 3 - #8 - Vol. I)