MODEL EXPERIMENT STATION IN FRANCE USES HIGH SCHOOL BOYS.

An agricultural experiment station in France showing results so satisfactory that commissioners were sent from England to get data for use in the British Isles, is reported by the Foreign News Bureau, organized by the Publicity Department of the Woman's Committee, of the Council of National Defense. The farm/started only the beginning of this year at Bagneux. Many thousand kilos of vegetables have been taken from it. The place is equipped like a regular farm. One most suggestive feature is that it is manned by the pupils from five high schools, with some other helpers. In May there were over one hundred and sixty at work. During vacation the hours were from 8 to 11:30 and 2 to 5:30.
