She is submitting to a process of medicalization. In her case, medialization and medicalization are not merely coincidental. No medicalization or even medical intervention is likely to alleviate the trauma caused by the process of medicalization. We must address these issues at all times. About 150 years ago, she died.

A failure of machinery, a failure of human nature!

This machinery can only serve a clear purpose.

In the old days, I had to work very hard.

Now we're out of control—trapped in a system.

We can't just walk away.

The displacement of men.

Unemployment.

Machinery does its work.

The delicacies of machinery.

April 19th,
In bed with Cumulonimbus

July 12th, 2004

I woke up early this morning feeling cramped and uncomfortable. I spent the morning in bed, trying to relax and sleep. By late afternoon, I felt much better and was able to take a walk in the park.

After a long walk, I returned home and

read a book.
I spent a lot of time in the library.

I will certainly work harder.
