

Security:

The world is made tolerable for great groups of people who value their inner security higher than their material security. To preserve this inner security they are willing to struggle for achievement of mind and soul, strive to keep the mind untainted and the soul clear. To do this they are not shirking the command to earn their bread by the sweat of their brow. one thing we must learn if we are to have anything like the better/^{material}world which occupies us.