Manuscript: Panic of 1893. McClure's R-formula

Tarbell, Ida M.
Jim's are all ears to this. We need to tailor the B-25's because if this doesn't go down, we are sunk. The crew needs to change out the engines. Be sure to keep an eye on the lights in the cockpit. Take care of your weapons. I hate to leave you alone, but I have a few other duties to attend to. We need to run an armament check. I'll be back as soon as I can. Stay safe and keep the morale up. We are counting on you.

P.S. Keep the flak down. The Japanese aren't worth the shot.
Lee's. We are a little cooler than we were before. My heart still beats a little quicker now. It is as if I had a new soul within me.

In the early days of the war, I was not sure if I would survive. But now, I am happy to be alive and to see you again.

The sun is shining brightly today. I hope you are well, and that things are as they should be.

Yours truly,
