Dear Miss Peck:

Pardon my delay in acknowledging your cordial letter of December sixth. I have been waiting to receive the material which you said you were sending - material which would give me a picture of the League's contribution to the general welfare. It has not come. Will you please see that it is sent immediately as I am obliged to leave town early next week and wish to take it with me.

It is understood, is it not, that I am to speak only for a few minutes? Miss Lippitt told me that five to ten minutes would be all that would be expected of me. Certainly I cannot give an address - that is too important a title, quite beyond my ability and my time.

Possibly you better send the material by messenger on receipt of this letter.

Very sincerely yours
