OMICRON DELTA KAPPA ELECTS NINE SENIORS

ATTAINMENT IN ACTIVITIES IS RECOGNIZED BY TAPPING CEREMONIES

Omicron Delta Kappa tapped nine members of the senior class Friday in chapel, following the regular religious service in charge of Prof. O. P. Akers. The following men were honored with officers of membership:

Robert Burr, Youngstown, Ohio; Harrington Smith, Townville; Harry Smith, Steubenville, Ohio; Ralph Grimm, Ashtabula, Ohio; Howard Plate, Erie; James Hamilton, Tarentum; Harry Rassel, East McKeesport; John Rumsey, Meadville, and John Gregory, Meadville.

Warner White, president of Omicron Delta Kappa, opened the exercises with a short talk on history of the organization, and objects of the honorary activities fraternity. Among the 24 chapters of the brotherhood, Psi Circle at Allegheny, founded in 1928, is among the younger groups, but it has already proven itself a powerful influence in campus affairs. Its primary purposes are the recognition of attainment, and the stimulation to others of such recognition, and also the creation of a representative organization that will help to mould the sentiment of the college on questions of local and intercollegiate interest.

Its elections are semi-annual; in the spring two or three juniors are selected to carry on the fraternity into the next year; and in the fall, membership is extended to a larger group from the senior class only. The prospective member must qualify according to a point system, achieving distinction in one of five fields of activity laid down by the fraternity, and being active in two others. These fields include scholarship, athletics, social leadership — including distinguished service to the school, publications, and general activities. The members of the active chapter must also pass upon the candidate.

The tapping was conducted by Warner White and Robert Bates, who were initiated last spring.

The fraternity claims among its present members four men of the faculty, Prof. Charles Hammett, Dr. Chester A. Darling, Dr. Oscar P. Akers, and Dr. Frederick G. Henke.

The new members were chosen on the basis of these activities:

Ralph Grimm; general manager of publications, production manager of the Little Theatre, and member of Pi Delta Epsilon and Pi Tau Epsilon.

John Gregory; editor-in-chief of the Kaldron, a member of the Student Senate, and of Pi Delta Epsilon and Alpha Chi Sigma.

John Rumsey; vice-president of the Senior Class, department editor of the Kaldron, director of the band, captain and manager of swimming, and a member of Pi Delta Epsilon and Alpha Chi Sigma.

Robert Burr; business manager of the Kaldron, news editor of the Campus, chairman of the senior dance committee; member of Pi Delta Epsilon, and was treasurer of his freshman class.

Harry Smith; letterman in football, was president of his junior class, treasurer of his senior and freshman classes, president of the Block A Club, and a member of Pi Tau Epsilon.

James Hamilton; manager of track and cross-country, department editor of the Campus, member of the varsity debate team, has received class honors in scholarship, is a member of the Phi-Franklin Forum, and of Phi Beta Phi, Delta Sigma Rho, and Pi Delta Epsilon.

Howard Plate; varsity debater, winner of the Philo-Franklin Oratorical Contest and of the Delta Sigma Rho Extemporaneous Speaking Contest, and a member of Delta Sigma Rho and Kappa Phi Kappa.

Harry Rassel; editor-in-chief of the Campus, associate editor of the Kaldron, member of the Glee Club, and a member of Pi Delta Epsilon.

The initiation banquet for the new men is to be held this evening at six o'clock at the Kepler Hotel.

QUILL CLUB CELEBRATES WITH CHRISTMAS PARTY

Tuesday evening, December the sixteenth, the Quill Club celebrated the spirit of the season with a Christmas party, held in the parlor of Hullings Hall, which was very well attended. The formalities commenced shortly after seven o'clock with the initiatory service for new members. Following the initiation, a delightful program of various readings and recitations ensued. At the conclusion of these, the more informal festivities began, refreshments were served, and the very enjoyable meeting was brought to a close.

Liberal Club Will Be Hosts to Experts on Disarmament Question

After an extended period of inactivity, during which time arrangements were being made for a program concerning "Peace Movements", the Liberal club is now ready to announce the preliminary plans for one of the most ambitious and unique projects ever attempted by any student organization at Allegheny College.

Beginning in the second week of January (probably January 12), a series of meetings will be held under the auspices of the Liberal club. At each meeting a different speaker will present his views on some phase of the "Preparedness or Disarmament" question. These three speakers, each of them especially fitted to discuss the subject, and being provided by the organizations whose doctrines they advocate.

The first speaker, either Mr. John M. DeChant (a young Methodist minister of Philadelphia, and a deeply convinced pacifist) or Mr. Maynard C. Krueger (professor of Economics at the University of Pennsylvania, and one of the Vice-Chairmen of the organization he will represent), is to be sent by the Pennsylvania Committee for Total Disarmament. He will discuss the desirability of a constitutional amendment which will make armed intervention on the part of the U. S. illegal.

Second in the series will be a talk by a man who served overseas during the late World War, a member of the American Legion, and therefore highly qualified to present the militarist's point of view.

Following the Legion speaker will be Mr. Raymond E. Wilson, sent by the Intercollegiate Student Council of the L. I. D. It was quite fortunate that the Liberal club was able to secure Mr. Wilson for this final meeting. Mr. Wilson is travelling secretary for the Committee on Militarism in Education and has devoted several years in an effort to drive compulsory military education out of the schools and colleges of the U. S. He has met with such student support and made such progress that his organization is ready to present in January a bill to Congress for the outlawing of compulsory military training from the colleges. Mr. Wilson will discuss the disarmament question from the student's viewpoint and bring the series of meetings to a fitting conclusion.

The meetings are to be open to members of the Liberal club, to all students of Allegheny College, and to members of the Women's club of Meadville. All in all, the attempted project is a huge one and gives much promise of being the great success that it deserves to be.

ALLEGHENY SINGERS HOLD CAROL PROGRAM

PROGRAM HELD ON SUNDAY IS BROADCASTED OVER
STATION WLBW

On Sunday afternoon, December 14, the Allegheny College Singers gave their Annual Christmas Program in Ford Memorial Chapel. The program was broadcasted over station WLBW, Oil City. The chapel was crowded with the many college students and town people who attended the affair. The auditorium was extensively decorated with Christmas trees and stately candles which aided in giving the program a setting in which the true Christmas spirit was prevalent.

The program was delivered by a group consisting of members of both the Men's Glee Club and the Women's Glee Club. The Allegheny Brass Quartet also took part in the program giving a group of three selections. The voices of the singers were blended to perfection, and it was the general opinion that this music was the finest heard around Allegheny College for many years. Due credit is extended to the Glee Clubs, and to Mr. M. J. Luvass, who ably directed the presentation of the program. Dr. H. W. Church assisted as organist. The program was as follows:

MORSE

GARBARK

GARBARK AND MORSE TO LEAD BLUE AND GOLD NEXT SEASON

Two Stars Receive Co-Captaincy as Result of Tie in Vote Cast by Nineteen Letter Men

Allegheny College's 1931 football team will be under the leadership of two captains, according to a vote recently among 19 letter-men from the past season, which resulted in the naming of Robert Garbark, fullback, of Edgewood, and Frank Morse, center, of Salem, Mass., to share the captaincy.

The election followed immediately the naming of letter winners for the 1930 season, and the ballot cast by these 19 men produced a deadlock between the two leading candidates. Rather than attempt a further ballot to eliminate one or the other from the honor, it was decided to place the captaincy jointly with these two players.

Participating in the election were the following: Brown, Boylan, Horn, MacManus, Francis, Pichitino, March, Knapp, Waite, Bugbee, Morse and Jones, linemen, and Balser, Berger, Varano, Anderson, Smith, Dennison and Garbark, backfield-men.

Garbark, just completing his third year on the grid eleven, was captain of the team during the past season. So outstanding was his work through the course of the campaign that he has been virtually unanimously rewarded with the fullback position on various all-Tri-State small-college eleven, including a poll among district coaches. His performance in every game in which he played—he was unable to appear against Dartmouth because of an injury—was little short of sensational, carrying the ball off the ends, past the tackles and through the line with equal effectiveness, tossing and receiving forward passes, punting when such a task fell to his lot, and, with equal brilliance, playing a fine brand of defensive ball.

Morse, also a junior, was understudy to Art Koeniger during his freshman year but has played the regular snap-back post the past two seasons. Although not of the flashy type of player, his work the past year was such as to bring him recognition as one of the best centers of the district. His best work is done of the offensive, although on the defensive, especially when playing in the line, he has been exceptionally strong.

The partnership between Garbark and Morse should prove satisfactory, giving the team two particularly capable leaders.

MR. J. EVANS DISCUSSES INDUSTRIAL EXPERIMENT

The students were honored by an address which Mr. J. Evans presented in chapel on Wednesday, December 10. Dr. Lackland, the pastor of Stone Church, who is a well-known friend of the college, presided at the occasion and directed the questions at the close of the speech.

The subject on which Mr. Evans spoke was of the foremost industrial experiment of today, that of the Columbia Conserve Company of Indianapolis, Indiana. This company has for thirteen years been conducting an altogether new type of business management. The firm is owned, controlled, and profited from by the workers themselves, and the apparent success of the endeavor is the significant factor. In 1917, when the experiment was first adopted, the Columbia Conserve Company was a firm employing twenty-five men at steady work throughout the year, and a hundred more during the "rush" season, or time of best business. At the slumps in activity, these men were dropped, and had to wait until the next business season in order to work some more, generally for only a few weeks. Today, the firm employs 150 men the year around and provides them with 52 pay checks per year. There is no seasonal unemployment under this policy.

The wages of the employees are on a definite scale according to need. Single men draw about twenty-two dollars per week, that being the minimum wage. Married men draw fifty per cent. more, and if there are children, there is an allowance of two dollars per week per child up to a maximum of six dollars. This makes the maximum wage thirty-nine dollars, and is deemed entirely satisfactory for living conditions. Thus the wages earned are not dependent upon the perfection of the work alone, but upon the need of the individual.

The company assumes a definite obligation for the health of the workers. All doctor bills and hospital bills are paid by the company, and this service alone amounts to twenty or twenty-five thousand dollars per year. The average health of the employees of the Columbia Conserve Company would compare favorably with that of any group of high paid workmen elsewhere in the country. The improved standards of living are recognized factors in the study of this progressive company.

The standard by which the outside world generally judges this experiment is by the dollars and cents earned by the stockholders of the company. There is two hundred fifty thousand dollars worth of stock issued; one hundred fifty thousand dollars in common stock at ten per cent, and one hundred thousand in preferred stock at seven per cent. At the close of the last fiscal year, after paying off the stock dividends, wages, and bonuses, it was found possible to send one hundred and two thousand dollars in the buying back of some of the stock from the stockholders. This has been going on for five years, and even now the company itself owns fifty-one and three-tenths per cent of the stock value. It is estimated that in 1933 the company will own the entire amount of stock. It is by this surplus that the company is demanding more and more attention of its competitors, interested scholars, and human relation seekers in industry.

Even as Lincoln deemed it important that a nation's government be for the people, and by the people, Mr. Evans deems it much more important that industry be installed on that basis. Destiny itself will demand it.

At the close of his speech in chapel, Mr. J. Evans, of the Columbia Conserve Company, answered a few questions which were raised by the students. Dr. Lackland, of the Stone Church, directed the questioning.

In reply to a question regarding a worker's loss of individuality in such a plant, Mr. Evans said, "No". It would be more likely that he lose his individuality in the Ford plant. The workers themselves retain a genuine interest in the business, since they control it and derive profit from it.

Another question was asked about who paid the losses of the company's operation when they occurred. Mr. Evans said that the workers did. In (Continued on page 4).

Speech Class Holds Handicraft Exhibit in Arter Hall Tonight

On Wednesday, December 18, the student playshop exhibit in the playshop room of Arter Hall will be open to all those who care to witness the results of the handicraft of the Speech IV class. The various stage models, correct to the most minute detail, are reproductions of many well-known play settings.

Two of the models are exquisite in their presentation. The Blue Room of Barrie's "Quality Street" is staged to perfection, and the setting is completely painted in a delicate blue which is very appealing to the observer. The model of Eugene O'Neill's play, "The Moon of the Caribbee," is also very picturesque, and portrays a scene aboardship with the blue skies and water clearly visible.

The stage model presentations are as follows:

Quality Street	Barrie
Dorothy Webb	Erskine
Hearts Enduring	Lorraine Jeffreys
Eugene O'Neill	Margaret Cough
Clara Schoenfeld	The Twelve Pound Look
Barrie	Violet Troutman

German Club Holds Christmas Party at Last Regular Meeting

In the midst of a typically Christmas atmosphere, with a gaily decorated Christmas tree and a real German Weihnachts celebration, the Allegheny German Club held its last regular meeting of this year at the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity House last evening, December 16, President Alberta Argow presiding.

During the business meeting, plans for the rest of the school year were discussed and announcements made. Hans Merx will be here about January 16, his visit being the feature of the next meeting of the club. It was announced that all members in good standing will receive free tickets to the concert which Merx will give. Others will pay fifty cents admission.

It was also announced that the local club is now affiliated with the national Federation of German Clubs and ranks with the clubs of all the first class schools.

After the business meeting, a Juhl-Klapp was held, each member contributing a fifteen-cent gift with an original German verse attached describing the gift. This proved to be very entertaining and enjoyable if noise is any indication.

Songs were presented by a group of the new members of the club. Carl Kricka having charge. German Christmas carols and songs were then sung. Dr. Ellingworth Spang sang a group of carol numbers, being joined in the refrains by the Club Quintette, composed of Alberta Argow, Ruth Severn, Donald Kent, William Roetke, and Carl Leshar. Hot chocolate and imported German cookies were served in true German style.

The exact date of the next meeting of the club will be announced later.

MATIAS CUADRA SPEAKS BEFORE THOBURN CLUB

On Thursday evening, December 11th, the Thoburn Club held its regular meeting in the French Seminar in the Library with Miss Loraine Jeffries in charge of the devotional exercises. The club business was dismissed in order to approach the main topic of the evening with more celerity. Senor Matias Cuadra, a Philippine who was a guest of the club, delivered a lecture, using as his subject, "Present Your Body as a Living Sacrifice". In the general discussion which followed, the members inquired as to the situation in the Philippines, and were much enlightened on this subject by the distinguished visitor.

This will be the last issue of The Campus until Wednesday, January 14, 1931.

HOWARD PLATE WINNER IN ORATION CONTEST

JAMES HAMILTON WINS SECOND PLACE; WILLIAM ROOS
TAKES THIRD

Presenting in a most able and entertaining manner his subject, "News Stand Brains," Howard N. Plate won the first prize of $40.00 in the Wakefield Oration Contest at the Allegheny Playshop Theatre. The contest was held on the evening of December 10. Second place was awarded to James B. Hamilton, who received a prize of $15.00; and third prize of $10.00 was awarded to William E. Roos.

This year's contest was under the revised rules recently formulated by the committee on debate and oratory. Five speakers, representing each of the three upper classes, delivered their speeches. From among the three prize winners, the committee is to select for competition at the National Intercollegiate Forensic Meet at Albion College next May the man who by that time has developed the best speech. As anticipated, the increased prizes and the new way of choosing the school's representative in further competition added an extraordinary incentive for the entrants, all of whom delivered excellent orations.

Mr. Plate spoke on the power of the press and its ability to sway public opinions and ideals. He decried the fact that people accept what they read in the paper without any individual thought regarding the subject. The speech was admirably presented and showed that the speaker had his well-chosen subject perfectly in hand.

Speaking on "The Road's End," Mr. Hamilton showed in an able manner the futility of war. He traced throughout history the many great wars down to the World War, and showed that the sacrifices made for war are not warranted by the proportionate gains. The end of the road he defined as the time when war would be a thing of the past, and peace would predominate.

William Roos received the third prize for his address on "Fortune's Inequalities". He cited the present business depression and unemployment problem and advocated the need of unemployment insurance.

Macklyn E. Lindstrom spoke on "Our Modern Goddess," and Franklin C. Williams had as his subject, "A Plea for Analysis of Morals". Mr. Lindstrom pointed out the influence of the modern theatre on the individual and of the morals and ideals which are derived from them. Mr. Williams argued the necessity for an analysis, and perhaps a revision, of present-day morals. Morals have come to the stage where they need consideration. Both speeches were well delivered and the subject matter was very selective.

Acting President Clarence F. Ross presided at the contest, and Wesley B. Best, R. A. Henderson and Leland J. Culbertson were judges. The decision was rendered immediately following the speeches.

Doctor Schafheitlin Author of Article in "Das Deutsche Echo"

In the current issue of Das Deutsche Echo, a monthly published in New York and read by students of German all over the English speaking world, there is an article by Dr. Anna Schafheitlin, head of the German department of Allegheny College, entitled Heimatspiel in Westfalen, telling about outdoor plays given during the summer months by other German villagers besides those of Oberammergau. The article dwells particularly upon plays of this nature seen by Dr. Schafheitlin during her last two trips abroad, among them the Play of Wittekind given last summer on a hillside stage near the village of Nettelstedt in Westfalen. This play tells the story of the ancient Saxons and their leader Wittekind, who dwelt in this very part of Germany eleven hundred years ago and who for many years bitterly opposed the efforts of Charlemagne to convert them to Christianity and incorporate them into his vast kingdom of the Franks. It begins with a Saxon celebration to Baldr, the sun-god, and ends with Wittekind's conversion, his reconciliation with Charlemagne, and his appointment by latter as the Duke of the Saxons so that he may continue to rule, though now, it is true, as representative of another, over the people who idolize him.

A TIME FOR ACTION!

While we, the college students of today, are immured in our warm and comfortable fraternity houses and dormitories, little do we realize the terrible suffering that is being undergone by over a million of our brothers, hit by one of the worst periods of depression in our economic history. We understand that there is very little work, that hard times are with us, but undoubtedly we do not comprehend the scope of its devastating influence. It has been talked about for months; it is inevitable that a discussion of it find its way into every journal in the country, whether college or public, and an attempt be made by all who can to help alleviate the suffering.

In two days we will leave a place which, according to us is characterized by drudgery and tiring labor to seek the comforts of our homes and the pleasure of a happy Yuletide. A big dinner will be awaiting us, a tree covered with presents will be in practically every home; but on the water front wharves and the dilapidated barns, others will be celebrating the birth of our Savior, trying to keep warm and survive, unconcerned by presents and beautifully decorated trees.

We cannot avoid the problem; it has been avoided too long. Selfish capitalists and unintelligent administrators of industries have been unconcerned with the worker's welfare until not only has the worker been reduced to absolute poverty, but the employer has realized the result of his folly. And now philanthropic and altruistic benefactors are doing their part by staging charity benefits, by rank collection, by any feasible means. Years-old enmities between schools have been forgot in teams meeting each other for the first time in years to provide a bite to eat for a few thousand unfortunates. Men and women are sacrificing additional luxuries in order to help some obtain only the atmosphere of Christmas. The nation has partly awakened!

But wherein lies Allegheny's part? To be sure, her students cannot arise from their seats and grasp the reins of industry to cause an adjustment in industry. They cannot bring an end to the depression by their efforts. But they, as college students, as the youthful intelligentsia, as the representatives of one link in the chain of educational institutions of America, can give their support to every move which will result in aid to the unemployed.

Allegheny's basketball team is playing a game with an out-of-town team, and the proceeds will be turned over to charity. As a unit Allegheny is showing her spirit in that way. But that is not enough. More money than one can realize is needed to help the poor. We have strong, wealthy, and influential alumni, who should be glad to help those in distress by their gifts. Our students have influence over friends, parents, and associates, and by their presentation of the problem, they should be able to do much.

It is our duty to help! The situation has been caused by the incapability of supposedly educated men like ourselves. We have opportunities that the workers have been denied, therefore, we should pay for our opportunities by helping others.

Let's get up from our armchairs, students and alumni! Let's do all we can to make this Christmas a merry one and the New Year a happy one!

WHY?

Are two captains really better than one? Is there no one letter man on the squad capable of leading the team? These are questions which have arisen numerous times since the recent election of co-captains for the 1931 football squad.

It is easily conceivable that with either the co-captain system or one of having a different captain for each game, that such captain merely becomes the coach in the lineup by proxy, and a player to be introduced by the referee as leader of the squad. No two minds can run in exactly the same channel, and in a tough spot in a hard game which calls for quick and accurate thinking, there is no time to compromise on ideas. To effect strict cooperation and unity there must be some final authority. If the co-captain system is adopted permanently, it only gives rise to differences of opinion and no definite responsibility.

Several letter men of this year have received recognition on all-district teams in this section. No one can deny that there is a possibility of any one of several men being capable of leading the 1931 aggregation through a successful season. These men have proven themselves to the public as well as to their own teammates.

In past years the rule has been to have the manager of the team vote in case of a tie. This rule seems to have been mysteriously abandoned in the recent election. Several of the players themselves, not in the least suspecting such action, have voiced their disapproval of adopting the co-captain plan. At least the letter men who voted should have been informed of any change in system before ballots were cast.

The question of who the captain should be is one to be settled by the players themselves, but from previous experience at Allegheny with more than one captain during a season, and from reported results of such systems in other schools, it is obvious that one man, or none, should be chosen for the captaincy of next year's outfit.

Allegheny students ran somewhat counter to the expectations of the faculty in being very eager to quiz the guest speaker, Doctor Lackland hit the men rather hard by his last remark, but maybe it was deserved.

With two football captains, Allegheny's football season should be twice as successful as last year's.

Hellenic activities were at their height during the past week-end with the center of the Fall Party season as the interest-drawing feature. Three fraternities, Phi Delta Theta, Alpha Chi Rho, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and two sororities, Alpha Chi Omega and Delta Alpha Theta, entertained. Alpha Chi Omega pleased their guests with a dinner party on Friday evening, while the other Greek organizations enlivened the next night. Kappa Alpha Theta and Alpha Xi Delta will give their dinner parties tomorrow evening. On the first Saturday following the Christmas vacation the two fraternities who have yet to give their Fall Parties, Delta Tau Delta and Phi Kappa Psi, will entertain. On Thursday night of this week Phi Delta Theta will be the hosts to Delta Tau Delta with a smoker.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

Sigma Alpha Epsilon held its annual Fall formal dinner-dance on the evening of Saturday, December 13. The dinner was served at the LaFayette Hotel, and the chapter house, which was elaborately decorated in red and green streamers of crepe paper, was the scene of the dance. Futuristic throughout, from the indirect illumination to the modernistic harmony of George Silver's Kentucky Club Orchestra, the party was a big success. Chaperoones were Dr. and Mrs. Richard E. Lee, Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Ling, and Professor and Mrs. Harley Morris. Guests at the party were the Misses Helen Witherspoon, of Beaver Falls; Virginia Silverthorn, of Edinboro; Hilda Duncan, of Beaver Falls; Alice McQuiston, of Wilkesburg; Alice Lynch, of Meadville; Marjory Schmuck, of Beaver; Ethel Deeter, of Meadville; Kitty Harper, of Butler; Katherine Moritz, of Meadville; Ruth Lyman, of Jamestown, N. Y.; Frances Lyman, of Jamestown, N. Y.; Dorothy Ogg, of Sharon; Dorothy Chestnut, of Edgewood; Muriel Povall, of Cleveland; Katherine Mackinac, of McKean; Dorothy Deemer, of Delaware, O.; Norma Duncan, of Pittsburgh; Jane Gallup, of Wilkesburg; Margaret Squires, of Oakmont; and Winsome Fleming, of Meadville; and the Messrs. R. K. McCleary, of Beaver; Clare Jackson, John Yeany, Martin K. Howes, Gilmore Minnis, Hurst Anderson, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Colley, all of Meadville; and Charles Bair, of Hickory, Pa.

PHI DELTA THETA

Amidst novel and profusely scattered decorations, Phi Delta Theta held its annual Fall formal at the Chapter house Saturday evening, Dec. 13. The entire lower floor of the house was brilliantly dressed in gay decorations, and a special distinction was Denny Thompson and his University Revellers, of Akron, O., who furnished the music for the party. Dr. and Mrs. O. P. Akers were the chaperones, and the Misses Dorothy Evans, of Ithaca, N. Y., Florence Wheelock, of Cambridge Springs, Pa., Betty Miller, of Oil City, Pa., Mary Eckles, of Sharpsville, Pa., Myrl Dunlap, of Conneautville, Pa., Mrs. J. E. Springer and Lucille Mackinac, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Mr. Fred Haberman, of the class of 1930, of Harbor Creek, Mich., and Agnew Bliss were the fraternity's guests at the party.

ALPHA CHI RHO

At the Bartlett Hotel, Cambridge Springs, was held the delightful Fall party by Alpha Chi Rho on Saturday evening, December 13. Chaperones were Professor and Mrs. W. J. Wagner, and the popular Pennsylvania Nighthawks of Sam Campagna and Charles Sullivan furnished excellent music. Guests at the formal dinner-dance were the Misses Frances Lowers and Jean Hamilton, both of Oil City; Edna Stambaugh, of Meadville; Martha Rizutti, Katherine Bauer, and Berdina Reed, of Bradford; Lillian Tamplin, of Wooster, O.; Ruth Becker, of Youngstown, O.; Margaret Smith, of Syracuse, N. Y.; Elizabeth Kelley, of Meadville; Elizabeth Bunner, of Corsica; Helen Hauffenberger, of Russell; Dr. E. J. Werle, of Meadville, and the Messrs. Ray Furney, of Sharon; Arnold Partiss, of Oklahoma City; Archibald Cunningham, of Meadville, and Ross Carey, of Meadville.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Delta chapter of Alpha Chi Omega held its annual Fall Party at the Hotel Bartlett, Cambridge Springs, Friday evening, December the twelfth. The chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. O. P. Akers and Dr. and Mrs. L. D. McClean. About thirty-five couples danced to the music of Les Daniels' orchestra from Sharon. Miss Marjorie Poole and Miss Helen Hopkins were the committee carrying out the arrangements. The guests of the chapter at the dinner party included Miss Catherine Welsh, Meadville; Miss Catherine Mackinac, McKeesport, and Miss Marjorie Schmuck, Beaver.

Literary Magazine to Contain Several New Distinctive Features

One of the distinctive features of the second number of the Allegheny Literary Magazine, which comes out today, is the article by Clifford Lewis on "Early Man in Crawford County". This is the first of a series of three articles on the early history of Crawford County. The first one deals primarily with the life and conditions in the county before the coming of the white men.

There is also another interesting article by the "Old Professor" who, in the last issue, wrote a light satire on the low salaries of teachers. In addition to a little poetry and light verse, the Literary Magazine has a few Christmas notes which add a touch of the holiday spirit.

Beginning for the first time in this issue a new department, under the name "Post Mortem", will continue for the purpose of criticizing the preceding number of the Magazine. Students, in particular, are requested to send in their criticisms to the staff.

FORMAL DINNERS AT HALL ARE POPULAR

Last March the girls of Hulings Hall voted to have formal dinners occasionally. So now, on the first Thursday evening of each month, the girls in formal attire enjoy a three course dinner with all the accessories.

In spite of the fact that there are some who cannot attend because of late classes, and that there are others who would rather eat crackers in their room than get ready for dinner, there are still enough who attend to make the meal seem like a real dinner party. And it serves to break the monotony of the regular meals.

Although many schools have had this custom for a long time, it is still a comparatively new experiment at Hulings. But from the enthusiasm of the girls who attend the dinner it seems likely to become a permanent custom here.

Chemistry Fraternity Elects Officers at Last Regular Meeting

On Tuesday evening, December 9, Alpha Chi Sigma, National Honorary Chemical Fraternity, elected its officers for the coming year.

The meeting was in charge of the retiring officers and after all business was taken care of the following officers were elected: President, James Vensal; vice-president, Hasson Rockey; secretary, Thomas Lawry; and treasurer, Homer Moody.

Under the last administration many new activities were entered into by Alpha Chi Sigma which placed it in a prominent place on the campus. The retiring officers greatly increased the interest in the meetings by showing moving pictures of various industries that are dependent on chemistry for their existence. Besides these educational pictures, pictures of a humorous nature were also shown.

After the tapping exercises at chapel last Friday one of the freshmen girls wanted to know when the O. D. K. fall party was to be.

"Let us have brotherly love," sighs one young man after having a date with his fraternity brother's girl.

Kid Brother: What do you mean by saying you take Eco 3 at college? College Student: When the prof calls on me I try to echo what three of my fraternity brothers whisper to me.

One of life's greatest disappointments: To break a date to one fall party to go to another and then find out that the favors of the first one were nicer.

In reply to a questionnaire issued to the members of the Freshman class at Rutgers University asking why they had selected that institution to be their Alma Mater, sixty six members of the class said that the chief reason was "the spirit of the college". A skull two inches thick, presumably from the skeleton of a human or once human head, was recently found by geologists in one of the western states. Naturally someone had to remark about the high rate of mortality of professors who wander off, forgetful of where they are going, and die. Then the teachers come right back with the quip that they find an average of twenty such skulls every morning in their classes and still they don't brag about it.

Wenzel A. Raboch, professor of music at Theosophist University, California, was conducted into Phi Beta Kappa recently, fifty-seven years after his graduation from City College, New York. The notification, mailed to him that year, had been lost in the postoffice department since then and has just come to light.

'GATORS HOLD FIRST FULL-GAME SCRIMMAGE OF YEAR SATURDAY

Varsity Wins Over Reserves by 56-20 Count; Both Regulars and Reserves Show Good Form.

Allegheny student basketball fans received their first taste of floor competition this year on Saturday when the varsity engaged in a full-game scrimmage with the reserves. The game ended in a 56-20 victory for the first team, but in spite of the overwhelming score, Coach Baker was delighted at the showing of the men who will be put in to relieve the regulars during games.

The first team lined up with Conn at center, Berger and Garbark on guards, and the mates of high school days, Dennison and Massing, at forwards. Opposing them were Kerr, prominent freshman recruit from Butler, at center, Brown, erstwhile center, and Horn at guards, and Roos and Mills, two veterans, at forwards.

The scoring for the varsity was practically evenly distributed among Dennison, Garbark, and Massing, the first two scoring fourteen points and Massing registering thirteen markers. Berger and Conn each sank three buckets. Roos and Mills led the scoring for the subs with two field goals and two fouls apiece, the rest of the points going to the other players.

Several changes from last year were noted in Saturday's practice. Massing has been placed at the forward position and is doing excellent work. Brown went back on guard, and Kerr is now playing center. Outside of the few changes, the team will probably remain intact for the rest of the season.

Those who will probably be picked to represent the college this year are: Berger, Garbark, Conn, Dennison, Massing, Brown, Horn, Kerr, Mills, and Roos.

Captain Berger

With only a week of practice completed, the team played exceptionally well, and will vie for honor with any team in the district.

PHI GAMS BEAT DELTS IN SWIMMING FINALS

GROUP A LEADERS BATTLE WAY TO VICTORY IN CLOSE CONTEST

A two point lead determined the margin of victory of Phi Gamma Delta over Delta Tau Delta in the finals of the Intramural Swimming meet Monday night. Not until the last race, the 160-yard relay, was the contest decided. With the score 31-28 in favor of the Delts, the outcome of the entire contest hinged on the last race, and the Phi Gam anchor man crossed the finish line a scant yard in front of the Delt for the deciding five points, making the score 33-31.

In the first event, the 40-yard free style, Showers, Phi Gamma Delta, took first; Leibendorfer, Delt, second; Rumsey, Delta Tau Delta, third. Time, 21 seconds. Event score: Phi Gam 5, Delt 4.

The 40-yard breast stroke was a dead heat, Kemble, Phi Gam, and Beighley, Delt, tying in 30 seconds, with Brown, Phi Gam, third. Event score: Phi Gam 5, Delt 4.

In the 220-yard free style Kemble was first; Duncan, Delt, second, and George, Delt, third. Time, 3 minutes. Event score: Phi Gam 5, Delt 4.

In the next event, the 40-yard back stroke, Brown, Phi Gam, placed first; McCracken, Delt, second; Monroe of the Delts, third. Event score: Phi Gams 5, Delts 4.

The 100-yard free style was won by Showers, Phi Gam, with Leibendorfer, Delt, second, and Duncan, Delt, third. Time, 1 minute, 7.5 seconds. Event score: Phi Gams 5, Delts 4.

The 120-yard relay was won by Delta Tau Delta, represented by McCracken, Beighley, and Monroe in 1 minute, 26 seconds. Phi Gamma Delta was represented by Brown, Kemble, and Pore.

In the diving contest Rumsey, Delt, was first; Blair, Phi Gam, second; Engroff, Delt, third. Event score: Delta Tau Delta 6, Phi Gamma Delta 3.

This brought the score of the meet to 31-28 in favor of the Delts, with one event, the 160-yard relay, yet to be swum. It was agreed before the meet that scoring in the relays was to be five points for the winner, and no consolation points. Therefore, a Delt victory would make the final score 36-28 in their favor, and a Phi Gam win would make it 33-31 in favor of the Phi Gams. Blair and Wallace entered the water first, and swam a practically dead heat; Green and Pore caused a small lead for the Delts, swimming against Duncan and Leibendorfer respectively, but in the final sprint Showers, Phi Gam, overcame the lead, and nosed out Rumsey, Delt, for the deciding points, and the meet ended Phi Gamma Delta 33, Delta Tau Delta 31.

The right to compete in the final meet was decided by semi-final matches, for which the competing groups were divided into two leagues. League A was won by Phi Gamma Delta with a total of 39 points, with Alpha Chi Rho second with 14 points, the Non-Fratts third with 11, Beta Kappa fourth with 5, and Phi Kappa Psi fifth with 2 points. The Non-Fratts were represented by Ronald Gregg as a one-man team. Gregg took first in diving, 40-yard breast stroke, and third in the 100-yard free style for his 11 points. League B was won by the Delts with a total of 36. Phi Delta Theta took second with 22, Sigma Alpha Epsilon third with 14.

Freshmen and Junior Girls Open Basketball Season with Victories

The girls' basketball season was officially opened by the Freshmen-Sophomore game Tuesday afternoon in Hulings Hall gym.

The final score was 21-12 for the Freshmen. They kept a steady pace throughout the whole game maintaining a consistent lead of 6-2, 10-8, 18-12, 21-12 for the four quarters. This was due on the one hand to the outstanding scoring of Dorothy Holsinger, who made eight baskets and five free throws, and on the other hand to the weak defense and continual fouling on the part of the Sophomores. The other Freshmen scorers were Ola Rex, Lois Stark, and Virginia Smith.

The Sophomores were captained by Carol Moore, who made the most points for her team and displayed the best floor work. Cleo Duffield, being the only other scorer for the Sophomores, contributed three points.

To the onlookers the game appeared fast and full of action, and the Freshmen clearly showed the benefit of previous practice. But being the initial game of the season, the players were not able to work as well together as they probably will in future games.

The following afternoon there was a game between the Junior and Senior girls, which ended in a score of 34-13 for the Juniors. The scores for the quarters were 12-4, 22-8, 26-11, 34-13. The Juniors took numerous chances at the basket and the shots were close, but there were many times when the ball failed to drop through the net. A well-developed passing system between the two Junior forwards, Dorothy Fritz and Claire Rodkey, and the center, Peggie Herr, was directly responsible for their high score. The Juniors were handicapped by the successful passing of their opponents, and were unable to get the ball into their own section. Alice Luther was the most outstanding of the Senior players, and she made the majority of the baskets.

C. W. Johnston Picks Grid Team Composed Of All-Time Stars

C. W. Johnston, Sports editor of the Meadville Tribune-Republican, has recently innovated the novel idea of selecting an All-Allegheny team composed of outstanding players in the Allegheny lineup for the past eight year period. Since the time of his selection's first time in print, many interested persons have contributed changes in accord with their personal ideas. Below you will find the lineup of Johnny's All-Allegheny team. We would appreciate any contributions of a similar nature from readers of The Campus. Maybe this selection is all wrong—who knows?

The present economic depression the company is only ten per cent behind in its normal sales, that 'n itself being a significant thing, and the workers bear the loss. In 1921 twenty-five per cent of the company's capital was lost, yet in the next year the workers won it all back and had a surplus of seventy thousand dollars. Now the company sets up reserve sums, to cover such fluctuations in the business cycle. Mr. Evans said that the company has no fear of not being able to handle such problems.

There were other questions, the last one being, "How is the unfit worker eliminated?" Mr. Evans said that he is not eliminated but treated. As unfit, it is meant that a worker will not work. The individual is sent to a doctor and is examined for physical defects, which may be seriously hampering him. The unfit are made fit, and then they are willing to devote themselves to the company's interests. The fundamental point of view which is introduced by this policy is that the custom in business be to provide for the individual, and supply his need. It is the only way on which to base the future success of industry.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Douglas ('01 and Marian Bemis, '03) have moved from Dubuque, Iowa, to 1443 Heilman St., Long Beach, California. Mr. and Mrs. Douglas were callers at the college a few weeks ago.

Best Wishes for a Merry, Merry Christmas and a Glad New Year!
