

February 18, 1930

My dear Mr. Harrington:

Thank you for your letter of February 9. It is always a satisfaction to a writer to know that a piece of work is read with satisfaction by those who know something of the subject. I tried to give a true picture, as I conceived it to be, of the life of these two young people in New Salem. I am glad it impresses you as a good piece of work.

Thanking you again
for your letter, believe me

Very sincerely yours

Conceiv
