My dear Miss Tarbell

Your letter of the 9th Inst is just now at hand. Availing of your kind suggestion if I discover other errors you would have the corrections made I enclose two more it would be better to have made. Since writing the manuscript I sent you I have learned there was at a very early day a "Log-Cabin House" at Decatur in Macon County that Mr Lincoln may have seen. One of the corrections is in reference to it as you will see from the enclosed papers. The other correction is merely verbal and is not of much importance but I would rather have it made. If you will kindly see that these changes are made it is not probable I will ask to have any others made. You know that when we edit our own manuscript we make many changes in the "galley proof" and quite often in the "page proof". Even then ofttimes work has been completed many things are then discovered we wish had been different

Very Respectfully
