My dear Miss Reynolds:

You were prompt in sending me the material that we arranged for when I was in Canton, and I have been slow in thanking you. Please pardon me. I did appreciate your kindness.

If any particular matter comes up that is, any illustration of the points in which I am particularly interested - Mr. Young's ideas on education - his method of dealing with a boy in whom he becomes especially interested for any reason - you will keep me in mind, will you not, and let me have any material that it is proper I should have?

Please accept the little book of mine that I sending up to you to show you that I appreciate your kindness in this matter.

Very sincerely yours

Miss Louise M. Reynolds
