

Architects' drawing of new Field House.

Field House, Latest Building Addition Scheduled For Completion December 1

On your first tour of the campus the sprawling orange giant you will see behind Montgomery Gymnasium is the new field house. It is the latest addition in a series of new buildings constructed on Allegheny's campus. The other two buildings are Quigley, which contains classrooms and an auditorium, and Baldwin, the new dormitory for freshmen men.

Douglass Haskell, Editorial Chairman, Architectural Forum, has described the style of the new buildings in the Allegheny Alumni Magazine as follows:

"The architect has not been impolite to the older campus. The color of the brick is harmonious and so is the scale of the masses. Like some famous old colleges such as Harvard, Allegheny will probably gain by giving an honest account of successive eras, not yielding to imitation."

The Field House is a new type of welded and insulated steel panel construction. It adjoins Montgomery Gymnasium to the east and takes up a major portion of the area of Montgomery Field. The top of the arched roof will be 45 feet above a maple basketball floor. Permanent stands along the south wall and roll-away bleachers along the north will seat 2,000 persons for basketball games. Capacity can be expanded to 3,000 for college convocations, lectures, concerts and convention meetings. Varsity and visiting team dressing rooms are under the permanent stands. The basketball floor is full regulation size with generous out of bounds space. A large exercise room on a balcony will later be equipped for two handball and squash courts. Work was started last May and the scheduled completion date is December 1.

Baldwin Hall, the new dormitory for men, houses 133 students, including resident advisers. Besides dormitory rooms, it contains, a lobby, game room, heating plant, and service rooms. Baldwin Hall provides needed living facilities for men, but it will still be necessary for some students to live in Cochran, Beebe, Tarbell and other places. There is a small corner lounge with telephones on all three residence floors. Each corridor has a large lavatory with shower baths.

Quigley Hall houses the Mathematics, Languages, Political Science, and Sociology departments. There are nine class rooms and fourteen office rooms. The Henderson Auditorium is at the western end of the first floor and the Elizabeth McCracken Peters Forum Room is at the same end of the second floor. Quigley has been in use since February of this year.

Preliminary Classes Planned For Freshmen

To help the freshmen get acquainted with their teachers and give them a preliminary idea of the college work and the courses they will take, classes for the freshmen only will meet Friday and Saturday, September 17 and 18.

Classes will begin at 8 a.m. on Friday, and will be held at the regular times and places (see schedule card).

Dean Ross believes it important for all freshmen to attend these meetings. If there is anything about the plans for the course which they do not understand, they are encouraged to ask the teacher about it.

Classes for both freshmen and upperclassmen will begin Monday, September 20 at 8 a.m.

Exemption Tests To Be Monday, September 20

Exemption tests for G-courses will be given Monday, September 20 at 2:30 p.m. in the Counseling Center.

If a student is already proficient in the material covered in one of the G-courses, he may take an exemption test in this field. Passing the test exempts him from the requirement of the course, but does not give academic credit-hours. Tests are offered in September and March of each year.

A student who is considering one of these tests should first consult his adviser and the instructor in charge of the course, and then register for the test with Mr. Ross, in Bentley 206. Following is a list of the courses and the instructor in charge of each.

- G-1 Communication. Mr. Hulburt, Arter West Basement.
- G-2 Organism and Environment. Mr. Bugbee, Alden 109.
- G-3 Energy and Matter. Mr. Cavelti, Carnegie.
- G-4 The Earth and the Stars. Mr. Parsons, Alden 215.
- G-5 Introduction to Literature. Mr. Seely, Arter K.
- G-6 Art and Society. Mr. Neurath, Music Building 202.
- G-7 Ideas and Institutions of Western Society. Mr. Cares, Arter 103.
- G-8 Problems of the Modern World. Mr. Merrick, Quigley 113.
- G-9 The World of Values. Mr. Lavelly, Arter K.

Frosh, Faculty Advisers To Meet After Banquet

Incoming Allegheny freshmen will have an opportunity to become acquainted with their faculty advisers following the opening banquet on Sunday, October 12 between 7:30 and 8:30 p.m.

Advisers will wear nametags and will be in the Pine Room or Lounge of Brooks Hall after dinner. Upperclass students will be on hand to assist freshmen in locating their advisers. At that time faculty advisers will schedule registration conferences for Wednesday, or for Thursday morning, so as to complete freshman registration by noon Thursday.

Band, Majorette Tryouts To Be Held First Week

All freshmen eligible for the college band are to meet for tryouts on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday (September 15, 16, 17) afternoons from 4 to 5 in the music building.

All girls interested in majorette work are to report at the Monday, September 13 meeting. If any freshman boy has had drum-major experience and is interested in continuing, he is asked to contact Mr. Varrichio, the band director, or to report for the Monday meeting.

Freshmen who did not receive a letter from Mr. Verrichio but would like to try out for the band are encouraged to do so by the director.

Orientation Issue

THE CAMPUS

OF ALLEGHENY COLLEGE

Freshmen Arrive September 12

Class of '57 swinging their partners during last Orientation Week.

Innovations Introduced In Freshman Orientation

Orientation Week, designed to acquaint the incoming freshmen with Allegheny and her institutions, will begin Sunday, September 12, at 12:30 p.m. with a cafeteria luncheon for students and their parents. Immediately following the luncheon, tours of the campus will be led by the Cwens in their bright red blazers. The Cwens, Sophomore honorary service organization, will be handy all week to help any bewildered freshmen. A freshman banquet at Brooks Hall will climax the day. The president, Louis T. Benezet, will speak. At 7:30 p.m. the freshmen will meet with their academic advisers and at 9 p.m. there will be a Vesper Service at Ford Memorial Chapel.

Most of the mornings from September 13 through September 17 will be examination and testing periods for all freshmen. Examinations are designed to find strengths and weaknesses in terms of a freshman's stated goal. His faculty adviser will have these test results to use as aids in determining course choices and needed help such as in reading skills. The examinations attempt to measure study skills, level of educational achievement, aptitudes for various academic and vocational fields, and vision, hearing, and speech skills.

Most of the evenings between 9 and 11 will be devoted to house and section meetings. The freshmen will meet the various representatives of the student government (AUC) and the women's government (AWS). At this time they will also elect their own sectional officers. Any problems or questions concerning any phase of life at Allegheny will be discussed at these get-togethers.

On Tuesday afternoon, September 14, there will be Departmental Open-Houses, an opportunity for new students to get acquainted with the different fields of study offered at Allegheny. In addition, pre-professional or special interest groups will meet to give information to the freshmen concerning the requirements and the courses of studies leading to certain fields of concentration. Another banquet will be the highlight of Tuesday with Professor Philip Benjamin, Librarian of Reis Library, speaking on the traditions of Allegheny. After this dinner women will meet with their Junior Adviser with whom they have been corresponding all summer. The "J.A.'s" will help them with any questions or problems that might arise concerning their schedules or scholarship. At this same time the men will meet with the ROTC commanders for an orientation meeting.

An innovation in this year's Orientation Week is the Church Open-House Wednesday afternoon when many of the churches and religious groups in Meadville will hold open house for all Allegheny students.

At Thursday dinner John Burns, President of the Allegheny Undergraduate Council, will talk about student government at Allegheny, and the student leaders will be presented. After dinner there will be a coffee hour for the freshmen women by the Associated Women Students.

This year the freshmen will attend classes Friday morning as if regular school were in session, in order to give them a taste of Allegheny's teaching standards before the hustle and bustle of the upperclassmen and women coming back. On Friday

300 Enrolled For Freshman Class; Variety Is Distinguishing Characteristic

by Trudy Bauer

The small white and pink registration cards kept in the file in the admissions office have a story to tell—a story of the Class of 1958. It is a selective group with an enrollment of approximately 300. For every freshman who comes in September, three have applied. Scholastically the class is high, for almost a quarter of its members graduated in the top tenth of their high school class. But the most distinguishing characteristic is one of variety.

Fifteen states, the District of Columbia, and India are represented in the freshman class. Foreign students entering this fall are Miss Aei Kyong Kim, Korea, who plans to major in education; Miss Marie-Claire Morane, Paris, France, majoring in psychology; Hahn So Heun, Seoul, Korea; and Hironori Onishi, Kyoto, Japan.

Early in August over 180 Pennsylvanians had registered, 35 of these from Pittsburgh. Twenty students from the Meadville area will commute. Approximately twenty students live in New Jersey, and slightly more in Ohio and New York. Many of the Ohions reside near Cleveland. Except for the metropolitan areas around New York City, Jamestown is the best represented area of New York state with almost ten freshmen. Other incoming students live from Massachusetts to Texas and from Florida to California, with Ralph Spaulding from Springfield, Massachusetts, and Adelaide Skelly, a humanities major, from Pampa, Texas. Ronald Hicks, a pre-med who strums the ukelele in his spare time, hails from Miami, Florida, and Elizabeth Watts, a sociology major, lives in Davidson, North Carolina. Anthony Elmer Fiorentino represents West Virginia, with Jim Ryan as the lone Californian. Ruth Thoburn, now of Meadville, is a daughter of missionaries in India.

Not only are the home addresses of the students varied, but their contacts with Allegheny have also been different. A few, like Harriet Blanning of Gary, Indiana, whose sister Lynne is a junior at Allegheny, have relatives or close friends now attending this college. Others, like Ann Brown of Pittsburgh, have parents and grandparents who are alumni of Allegheny. Some like William Crofut of Cleveland, Ohio, were able to visit the campus and meet members of the faculty and student body. Others have not had the opportunity to visit Allegheny or to know past or present students but have heard of her high standards and good reputation in the world of education.

Students Welcomed To Counseling Center

Recently, the members of a freshman class reported that a number-one problem in their college adjustment was learning better ways to attack their study assignments. To alleviate this situation, the Counseling Center, which co-ordinates advising and furnishes testing information to faculty advisers, announces a continuation of its services to the student body.

Dr. William P. Wharton, Director of Counseling, extends a welcome to students to drop in to the Counseling Center in Bentley Hall for help in study skills, vocational goals, or in confidential problems of a personal nature.

Dr. Wharton stated in a recent interview: "The need for learning more efficient ways of coping with college studies is only natural. For one soon discovers that high school homework 'was never like this.' How a student takes notes, and how he goes about reading the texts in his courses, play an important part in the grades he achieves. In fact, a number of students have pulled themselves out of academic probation by learning better how to think clearly in solving problems. For freshmen, particularly, college requires many new adjustments.

"This whole business of learning to make the most of one's abilities is, in reality, a preparation for life. It is in this area that the Faculty Adviser, the Classroom Teachers, the Resident Advisers, the Counseling Center, the Personnel Deans, the Health Center, the Speech and Hearing Center, the Physical Education Department—in fact, all the facilities of the college stand ready to help Allegheny students succeed. However, at Allegheny, students will not, as a rule be called in by these college resources to be given help. Rather, it is up to each student's own initiative to seek out such faculty and staff assistance as he needs. He (or she) will find the college is happy to help with every facility as its disposal."

Attention Commuters!

Commuters and town students are urged to participate in Orientation Week by the personnel office. They may attend all meals from Sunday noon to Friday noon without charge.

Welcome

Twelve more days—and you will join the ranks of Allegheny students. For most of you this will be your first experience with college life, while for some of you coming veterans and transfer, only Allegheny will be different. In any instance, new doors are opening for all of you, doors revealing sources which will enable you to lead a richer and fuller life if you use them correctly.

The Campus on behalf of the student body, the faculty, and the administration welcomes you in its special issue for freshmen. The Orientation Edition is an innovation, but we hope it will help to familiarize you with your first week at Allegheny.

Perhaps we should tell you a bit about our college newspaper, The Campus, published every Thursday. Its main purpose, of course, is to keep those interested posted on the latest Allegheny news. Aside from this, our paper also strives to stimulate student thought concerning various issues on campus. It's "Letters-to-the-Editor" department is for your use to complain, praise or just comment upon campus happenings. It is your paper and we hope that you will use it to your fullest advantage along with other facilities offered at Allegheny. We hope that any of you interested in working on the paper will join our staff.

Allegheny has so much to offer you, and you in turn all have something to give to her—a sort of "reciprocal trade agreement." Listen carefully to President Benezet's speech, to your teachers, your Cwens and Junior Advisers and all the other "experienced hands" aiding you in your search for a liberal education.

From President Benezet

To the Class of 1958,

I am one of those who will have the pleasure of talking with you during your first week on the campus. Therefore I won't try here to short-circuit that pleasure by saying things better left until then.

It is not too early, however, to tell you that we look forward to a good deal from you, as individuals and as a class. A college class is a group of persons who share a certain four years in the history of a college that no other class has known or will know. Thus you will become a unique part of the history of Allegheny. I hope this may come to mean as much to you as you can, and very possibly will, mean to it.

Best Regards,
Louis Benezet

From the AUC

Dear Allegheny Freshmen,

In two weeks you will have completed the first phase of Allegheny College life—Orientation Week. After meeting your advisers and fellow students, we feel confident that you will be much wiser and will feel more at home.

The part I play during this week includes the explanation of the Allegheny Undergraduate Council and what it means to you. The AUC, being the top governing body at our college, incorporates under its jurisdiction the freshman class cabinet.

This cabinet represents all sections of the freshmen dormitories and acts upon issues concerning the Freshman Class. The mechanics of this cabinet will be fully explained by your counselors under the direction of Lou Scibetta, the former freshman class president, and Dave Hockenbrocht, the sophomore class president. But mechanics, I feel, are often not the most important part of democratic student government. Whether it is the major governing groups or the class cabinets, there are certain fundamental beliefs that every democratic government should have.

First, we must believe in the worth and essential dignity of every person here at school. We must then have faith in and respect for their personalities with the hope that each person can and should achieve a creative individuality. When you are deciding important issues, act on thinking rather than impulse or social pressure. Before making these decisions be sure that your constituents fully realize the choices involved, then once the decisions are made, abide by them. If you feel in time that rules or policies should be altered, study them in the light of all circumstances, then change them by methods of reason rather than by violence or deceit.

These beliefs or principles that I have mentioned cannot exist merely on a sheet of paper but must be identified with your cabinet methods or else it will be ineffective.

To sum it up as one philosopher so aptly did, "The essence of the democratic process and method, whatever the particular form, is cooperative action."

Allegheny College is looking forward to meeting the class of '58. The democratic process is now in existence in the AUC. It is up to you to carry on the tradition.

Sincerely,
Jack Burns, AUC president

Enrollment

have come from many size classes. To some, Allegheny will appear as a large college, to others rather small. Michael David Frank of Elmhurst, New York, and Lynne Crandall of Ashville, New York, were graduated from Newton High and Chautauqua Central High respectively, both in classes of 18 students. At the other extreme are Emily Holran of Midwood High, Brooklyn, Jay Borakove of Jamaica High, Jamaica, New York; and Robert Brooks Jr. of Allentown High, Allentown, Pa. who graduated in classes of 750, 766, and 770 respectively. Topping the list is James Edmund Sanford, a journalist major from a Trenton Central High class of 811 members in Trenton, New Jersey.

Although the majority are May and June 1954 graduates several completed high school in 1953, and a few as far back as 1947. Some had their education interrupted by a prolonged vacation with Uncle Sam. Raymond Eastman of Meadville, who graduated in 1949 and served in the navy, is planning to study chemical engineering this fall, and Army veteran, Richard Henry Askine, a '47 graduate of Cathedral Prep in Erie, will be studying medicine.

Heading the alphabetical list of the freshman is Audrey Alviggi of West Orange, New Jersey, who is studying merchandising and English. Almost three hundred names later is Charles Philip Zieg, an engineering student from West View, Pa. (Every letter is well represented numerically except "i" for which Margaret Susan Irish of Pikesville, Maryland, is the sole representative.) A variety of names also exists—one Brown, Green, White, and Black; a Swift, Stout, Strong, Long, and Young; one Jones, five Smiths, and two Snees from Pennsylvania, Judith Faye of Pitcairn, and Charles of Liberty; two Thoburns, two Reynolds, two Grahams; two Bells, Bateses, Howards, Peters, Johnstons, and two Dyckes (twins—Jan and Joel, both pre-meds); and four Andersons. (Donald Anderson of Pittsburgh 34, a '53 graduate, is interested in education. Lynette of Pittsburgh 28, and Marianne Anderson of Beaver, Pennsylvania, are both elementary education majors. Viola Irene Anderson, a '54 graduate from Cleveland, is also studying education.)

The registration records indicate abundant musical talent. Almost one hundred play piano; the clarinet is second in popularity with twenty-five players. Several students like Sue Hungerford of Corning, New York, fiddle. The musical assemblage also includes 13 trumpets, ten saxophones, nine drums (played by engineers and pre-theos), six flutes, four trombones, five cellos, two banjos, one oboe, one cornet, two bells, one string bass, three ukeleles, two Hammond organs, three French horns, two piccolos, four organs and two bell lyras. George Pawlikowski of Bloomfield, New Jersey, and Geneva Smith of Millerton, New York, who play the harmonica and the trumpet and fife, respectively, are individualists, too. The sole accordianist is Hildegard Groseclose of Washington, D. C. Some of these musicians, like Sandra McLaughlin of Pittsburgh, a pianist, are interested in studying music; others like Adelaide Vieth of Lakewood, Ohio, who plays the piano, ukelele and bells, or Arthur Tepper from Larchmont, New York, who plays the oboe, saxophone and clarinet, are accomplished on several. One of the most versatile musicians is Edward James Fredericks of Oakridge, New Jersey, who plays the piano, Hammond organ, saxophone, and trumpet. He is planning to study economics and mathematics!

In the major fields of interest, diversity is again evident. Many like Ann Davidson of White Plains, New York, and Robert Barkalow of Farmingdale, New Jersey, are pre-med. Slightly over one-fourth of the men students have chosen medicine. One however, Charles Myers of State College, Pennsylvania, will study the dentistry. Other fields calling the men are engineering, economics, law and theology. A larger number of girls are undecided, but almost 40 percent have decided on an education major. Most of them, like Martha Hart of Chagrin Falls, Ohio, and Stephanie Rees of Lyndhurst, Ohio, are in the elementary education field. The others are widely scattered over the other professions.

"Red" Moore, Gator Football Coach, Starts New Job With "Fighting" Spirit

There'll be freshmen of all varieties this year on the Allegheny College campus, but about the easiest to recognize of all will be the Gators new head football coach, William Roy (Red) Moore.

The new pigskin professor, whose carrot top and bolder dam frame was a signal to go the other way for opposing ball carriers, arrives at the Gator football scene after impressive records with Penn State and the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Although he inherits a legacy of 11-straight defeats, the first year coach is "determined to have a good season, the best possible." Reflecting on his new job he says he'll "be starting with a clean slate."

Early in August, Moore sent letters inviting all candidates for the team to pre-season training starting September 6, advising all Gator hopefuls "to come back in shape."

After graduation in 1940 from Rochester, Pa., High School where he captained the football team his senior year, Red divided his time between service for Uncle Sam and attendance at Penn State.

Under Nittany coaches Bob Higgins and Joe Bendenk, Moore was recognized as one of the top linemen in the nation. He played a year's frosh ball, then three years as a bulwark of the Lion's line at tackle, captaining the team in his senior year. Moore recently went back to his alma mater for a weekend's study with Rip Engle and his staff.

His extracurricular activities at State included president of the Athletics Association, a member of the all college cabinet, a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity, of the friars, organization for varsity award winners, and a varsity wrestler for two years.

His worth as a football player was recognized by his selection to several All-Star teams. He was named to both the All-Pennsylvania and to the All-East teams in 1946. He played in the East-West Shrine game in San Francisco, in the Chicago Bears College All-Star contest, and in the New York Giants All-Star game.

Moore's tenure at the Steelers was impressive. He switched to guard then, "because I wasn't big enough for tackle with the pros," and went on to become tops there, captaining the team in his last year and being selected to the All-Pro eleven.

Moore will probably install the "T" system of offense at Allegheny. Although most of his playing experience was under the single wing he says he has learned much of other offenses in opposing pro teams most of which employed "T" attacks in his playing days and from recent scouting assignments.

Schedule For Orientation Week

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1954

- 12:30 Cafeteria luncheon for parents and students—Brooks Hall
- 2:00- 3:00 Informal meeting of parents with Allegheny faculty and staff—Brooks Hall.
Tours of the campus starting from the front entrance of Brooks Hall.
- 6:00 Freshman Banquet, Brooks Hall—President Louis T. Benezet, speaker.
- 7:30 Meeting with academic advisers. Be sure to fill in conferences on appointment cards. Also note where you can reach your faculty adviser.
- 9:00 Vesper Service for all freshmen—Ford Memorial Chapel, Allegheny Christian Association.
- 9:30 House Meetings with Resident Advisers and Student Residence Counselors. These meetings will provide information concerning the next day's schedule as well as a chance to clear up questions. House governments should be set up as quickly as possible.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 13

- 7:15- 8:00 Breakfast, Brooks Hall.
- 8:00- 8:15 Explanation of Tests—Dr. William Wharton, Director of Testing.
Inventory Examinations. All examinations are designed to find strengths and weaknesses in terms of your stated goal. Your faculty adviser will have test results for your use in clarifying course choices and needed help, such as in reading skills. Further testing and counseling is available at the Counseling Center, and from your faculty adviser, if you need help in defining your educational or vocational goals. The examinations attempt to measure study skills, level of educational achievement, aptitudes for various academic and vocational fields, vision, hearing, and speech skills.
- 8:15- 8:55 Co-op. Vocabulary Test.
- 8:55-10:00 Iowa Silent Reading Test.
- 10:20-11:00 Cavelti Test (Mathematics).
- 11:00-12:05 American Council of Education Scholastic Aptitude Test.
- 12:15- 1:00 Luncheon—Brooks Hall.
- 1:30- 2:20 Foreign Language Placement Tests.
- 2:40- 4:00 O.S.P.E.—Part III (Reading Comprehension Test).
- 6:00 Dinner, Brooks Hall.
- 7:00 Meet with Faculty Advisers.
- 9:30 House Meetings.
Men in Residence groups with student counselors.
Women meet with Associated Women Students.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14

- 7:15- 8:00 Breakfast—Brooks Hall.
- 8:00- 9:00 Personal Adaptability Test.
- 9:00-10:30 Engineering Test for all Pre-Engineering students.
- 10:00-11:00 Men's Swimming Test (Men whose last name initials fall between A thru M report to Montgomery Gym).
- 10:00 Meeting of new Faculty Advisers with Personnel Staff and Dean Ross.
- 11:00-12:00 Men's Swimming Test (N through Z).
- 12:15- 1:00 Luncheon—Brooks Hall.
- 1:30- 3:30 Departmental Open Houses (4 ½-hour sessions).
The Departments are providing an opportunity for new students to get acquainted with the different fields of study offered at Allegheny College. All freshmen are urged to visit among the Departments in order to get acquainted not only with Departmental courses but to meet the members of the faculty. It is important that you visit a number of the Departments as most students will study in more than one Department during the years here.
- 3:30- 5:00 Pre-Professional or special interest groups. These meetings will be concerned with requirements and courses of studies leading to certain fields, such as, medicine, business, music, art, law, teaching, government service, engineering, psychology, social work, ministry, science, mathematics, foreign service, journalism, English, business administration and economics, foreign language, dramatics and speech.
Attendance is voluntary but you are urged to attend the meeting nearest your own interest. Your faculty adviser or student counselor will furnish you with a directory of meeting places and group meetings.
- 6:00 Traditions Banquet, Brooks Hall—Professor Philip M. Benjamin, Allegheny College Librarian, speaker.
- 7:30 Women—Meet Junior Advisers.
Men—AF ROTC Orientation Meeting, Quigley Hall Auditorium.
- 9:30 House Meetings.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 15

- 7:30- 8:15 Breakfast—Brooks Hall.
- 8:30-12:00 Registration conferences will determine your choice of courses for first semester. Your study of the catalogue and previous conferences with faculty and faculty advisers will help assure wise choice of courses.

You will complete your registration for courses with your faculty adviser. In addition, library tours will be conducted on Wednesday and Thursday. The sensory tests, music tryouts, and other individual matters will be scheduled on Wednesday and Thursday. Be sure to record all individual conferences and appointments on your appointment card. Please keep appointments and be as punctual as possible.

If you have free time, you may want to arrange conferences with faculty members in order to learn more about courses in which you are interested. Dean McCracken, Dean Knights, and Dr. Wharton are available for conferences concerning any problems which you may feel the need to discuss. Dr. Hoke, the college physician, can be contacted at the college infirmary in case of health problems. Mr. Luce, Director of the College Union, is available if you wish any information about recreational equipment or other activities at the College Union. During the next few days, you will have some free time. Try to use the time through study of handbooks, catalogues, and conferences with student leaders or faculty members.

Orientation Week

evening the College Union will be the scene of the traditional "Whing-Ding" party for freshmen. This is an informal party for the Class of '58 to get to know each other better.

Again on Saturday the freshmen will attend regular classes in the morning and go to a picnic at Bousson, the college camping lodge, in the afternoon. This is the high spot of Orientation Week. There will be hiking, picnicking, games and entertainment.

Saturday evening is the first gala all-college dance in Brooks Hall with all upperclassmen there.

Orientation Week will end officially on Sunday, September 19, with the service in Ford Chapel given by Mr. Herbert Picht, Chaplain. In the afternoon there will be an open house at the College Union to honor the new faculty.
