Dear Miss Chandler:

I thank you for sending me a copy of Mr. Young's remarks at the dinner for International Peace. I wish I could have heard him. It is a wise, wise contribution.

You pleased me very much when you wrote a little time ago asking me if I would not send you my photograph. You would have had it before this but that I have nothing on hand that I would like to send, nothing I think you would like, though heavens knows there are enough pictures of me made.

There is a woman down in Greenwich Village who wants to try. We will see what she gets and if it is at all satisfactory you shall have one, if not I will get a copy from some past negative that seems fairly good.

With the best of wishes

Faithfully yours
