Fifteen Freshmen Selected As Cwens

Fifteen freshman women were recently chosen to serve as next year's Cwens on the basis of scholarship, leadership, character and participation in campus activities. Cwens, an honorary society for sophomore women, performs various services for the campus, including the adoption of incoming freshman women as little sisters and serving as hostesses to many college visitors. Those women selected are:

Joy Burt, a biology major from Ellwood City High School, pledge of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, and member of the Exchange Committee on WARC;

Carol Dahlbom, from Colts Neck, N. J., and a graduate of Harborfield High School in Greenlawn, N. Y., whose campus activities include Chapel Choir;

Campus News Editor, Julie De Francoise, from Manville, N. J., a pledge of Kappa Alpha Theta, who has also been an alternate AWS Senator;

Alpha Gamma Delta pledge Ann Gruver, from Gaithersburg, Md., is

Melodic Diversity Concert Highlight

The Allegheny College Chapel Choir will present its annual Spring Concert on Sunday, May 12, at 4:00 p.m. in Ford Memorial Chapel. The Choir's selections will present a wide variety of musical styles, ranging from the sacred songs the group sang on its recent tour, to excerpts from Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado," and other secular compositions being prepared especially for this occasion.

The sacred portion of the program will feature as guest soloists Miss Dorothy Jeanne Smith, Assistant Librarian, who will act as pianist for several numbers, and Mrs. Robert B. Lynn, flute soloist for Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring." Mr. Robert Lynn, College Organist, will also accompany several of the Choir's selections.

Commenting on these sacred compositions as presented last March in New York's Riverside Church, Riverside Chormaster W. Richard Weagly wrote:

I thought the group sounded and looked beautiful. The tone was so strong and full. I was es-

Koesling Assumes Reins of WARC

On Friday, May 3, with the approval of A.S.G., Fred Koesling, '64, became the new director of radio station WARC.

Koesling first joined the Allegheny Radio Committee early in 1962, as director of the proposed Special Events Department. In the fall, when the Special Events and Education departments merged, he became director of the enlarged Education department, which has initiated such projects as Experiment 88 and on-the-spot interviews with people in the news. In addition to this, he assumed the duties of Programming director at the beginning of the 1963 spring term.

As director of WARC, Koesling has a wide background of experience in campus activities. During his freshman year he was a member of the Philo-Franklin Debate Society and winner of the Freshman Oratorical Contest. He was elected president of his sophomore class, and served as a member of the A.S.G. Academic Committee during both his freshman and sophomore years. Now, at the end of his junior year, he has participated in a total of eight Playshop productions.

from Springfield, Pa., whose activities include past AWS Senator, membership in WAA and AWS Social Committee;

Commuter Patricia Leszek, who has served on the Freshman Council, WARC secretarial staff, and as an AWS Senator, majoring in History and secondary education;

Elementary education major Betsy Myers, from Edgewood, Pa., an AWS alternate senator, a member of WAA and a member of the circulation staff of the Campus;

Kaldron Budget Is Taken Under Advisorship By AUC

At the regular AUC meeting Tuesday night Art Rubinoff moved that the executive committee reconsider the appropriation to the Kaldron which is currently 1/4 of the AUC budget. Rubinoff recommended that a voluntary yearbook program be investigated.

The Activities, Academic, Public Events and Cultural Affairs Committees presented their annual reports to the council.

Richard Weiner of the Activities Committee recommend that IFC finance the total cost of Greek Week without aid from the Activities Board, that a direct appropriation of $350 be made by AUC to the ROTC Department for the expenses of the Military Ball rather than through the Activities Committee, and that plans should be made by the Activities Committee in the preceeding June for the Back To School Dance.

The accomplishments of the Academic Committee, emphasized by chairman Betsy Donaldson, were the investigation of the advisor system and its subsequent revision, and the tentative plans that the library remain open until 11 p.m. next year.

The Committee reminded the student body that Quigley is not open to students Saturday afternoons and evenings, and Sunday nights.

Ray MacDonald, chairman of the Public Events Committee, announced that Dr. Ross will speak at Founder's Day next year and that a tentative concert and lecture schedule is being drawn up.

In its first year of existence, the Cultural Affairs Committee under Jerry Evans has brought to the campus five foreign films. Next year the committee plans to continue the foreign film series, to expand discussion groups, and to have a brief introduction to each film.

The council approved three appointments. 1962-1963 treasurer is John Braucato, and assistant treasurer is Ethlyn Folley. Fred Koesling was appointed WARC director through the second term of next year.

Bob Beck asked that all social groups sign for a carnival booth by next week.

Applications for editorship of the Lit Mag should be submitted to the Communications Board by Wednesday, May 15, and should include qualifications and experience.

Penn-Republican Council Chooses Blair Chairman

Jackson Blair, '65, was elected to the post of State Chairman of the Republican College Council of Pennsylvania for the coming year at the State convention in Harrisburg, on May 4th. He was elected unanimously on the first ballot.

The College Council coordinates the activities of the Young Republican Clubs throughout the colleges in Pennsylvania. Blair will serve as a member of the State Young Republican Committee in addition to heading up the Executive Committee. He and his staff, including administrative assistant Donald Monheimer, '64, and secretary Barbara Micks, '65, will spend the coming year chartering the newly formed college clubs throughout the state and helping them with their preliminary organizing.

As part of his duties, Blair will travel to San Francisco late in June as Chairman of the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention. Later in the summer he will spend time in Harrisburg formulating policy and organization.

A recipient of the Eidemiller Citizenship Citation in 1961, Blair has been active in Republican politics for several years, especially in Allegheny's own Young Republican Club. A member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity and current Rush Chairman, he is serving on the Sophomore Congress and has been active in his class's affairs.

In his acceptance speech, Blair stressed the need for Republican students to actively express themselves in all campus affairs. He noted, "the talent of Republicans in colleges and universities should not be hidden and allowed to deteriorate through lack of expression and interest." He also extended his thanks to his staff members who actively worked for his election and to AUC for donating 75 dollars which helped to finance his trip to Harrisburg.

For All Good Men

The time has come for the students of Allegheny to move out of their secure environment and project themselves into an area which should be of concern to all American citizens.

The current jailings in Alabama are significant not only because of the civil rights issue, but also because they are an infraction of our Constitutional right to peaceful protest.

While there is little we can do directly to aid these biracial "Freedom Walkers", it is our obligation to express disapproval of this undemocratic use of police force. It is therefore urged, as an indication of our protest, that the students of Allegheny support the proposed motion of AUC.

In order to further clarify the issues involved, WARC will present a special live program at 10 o'clock on Sunday evening. At this time Rick Momeyer will present the important background material which has led to the current Alabama crisis, and the purpose of the AUC motion will be discussed.

If Allegheny is to register a firm protest in this matter, it must do so not through an individual or a group of student government representatives, but rather as a unified college body which has properly weighed the issues and realized its obligation.

Public Image

The Campus would like to congratulate Jack Blair on his recent election to the post of State Chairman of the Republican College Council of Pennsylvania.

He and the many members of the Young Republican Club at Allegheny have worked hard for several months in an effort to obtain this most important and influential office and their success will bring a great deal of prestige both to Blair and Allegheny College.

While Blair and his constituents represent the Republican Party and will concentrate their efforts towards this political organization, they have, nevertheless, provided Allegheny with a potentially favorable opportunity to improve its ever elusive "public image."

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor of the Campus:

Opportunities may be open for study in Europe, but these opportunities are not opening for study in other parts of the world.

Two Allegheny men were recently denied permission to attend Royal College in Kenya. Permission was granted because:

1. Living conditions might be bad;
2. Kenya is soon to attain her independence, and contact with untrained Americans could create a bad impression of the United States;

3. The academic standards of Royal College are not known.

However, Antioch and Earlham Colleges have both had successful programs in Kenya. The Earlham group felt that they were generally well received and did not complain about the living conditions. Though knowing of these two other college programs does not answer the third objection, one would think that the experience of a year of study in another country should certainly be valuable enough to make up for any difference in academic standards.

The rejection of the Royal College plan marks the death of the African Studies Program set up by last year's Senior Seminar. The group had hoped that Allegheny could pioneer a study abroad program in Kenya with the assistance of Larry Sagini, an alumnus, who is now Minister of Education in Kenya. Another reason for choosing an African country was that our exchange students could give towards the development of the community as well as gain knowledge and experience. Also, English is spoken in the schools; this would open the study-abroad program to students beyond the usual English and foreign language majors to include, for instance, a political science or history major.

John Clarke, a member of the seminar, traveled in Kenya in the summer and returned with slides and information about Royal College. On the basis of his report, students were encouraged to apply.

A few years ago another student group interested in a study-abroad plan met a similar fate. They were derogatorily termed "Afghanistanists" by the administration and were told that the administration's aim was to make Allegheny such a good place that no one would want to leave.

While this is an admirable goal, it should be noted that an Allegheny with many students who had studied abroad would probably be a better place. It would be a better place with a more mature, intellectual atmosphere. A general Junior Year Abroad Program is not necessary, but students should be encouraged to study in other countries.

Letter To Editor

To the Editor:

In regard to your editorial, "Well?..." in last week's Campus:

1) The kinds of events which you refer to are not necessarily contributory to the intellectual welfare of the college community, but are extra-curricular in nature.

2) The events as they now exist are largely second-rate in quality, mutually exclusive in relation to each other and unappealing except to small groups of students with specific interests in these areas. (These are only a few of the reasons for the lack of student support at present.)

3) Social groups cannot be called upon specifically to finance these ventures any more than the rest of the student body. In the light of necessary budgeting and financial contributions which the Greeks now make to campus life, this request is most unfair.

4) The accusation that the organized social groups do not share in respect to being good hosts and sponsors is an example of poor observation combined with faulty judgment. The social groups do host many various programs for the benefit of the college and the community. For example, they have hosted: Rev. Philip Townley, the Foreign Exchange Students, the Allegheny Singers, Faculty dinner and teas, the National Convention of Cwens, the Oxford debaters and Dr. Rosenberg, to name a few events with which I am familiar. The Greeks also feed and house foreign students, host parties for orphans, maintain strong alumni relations, and perform various community services.

To meet your additional demands would require more of the fraternity members' time, money and private facilities than are available.

I suggest that you exercise more responsible rationale in future editorials. I also suggest that you eliminate the propaganda and the inflammatory accusations which seem to be predominant in the writings of "Q."

Respectfully submitted,
Victor Nery

CHOIR

pecially moved by the Victoria and the Brahms. The choir seems to have a very able organist in Mr. Lynn. He handled our large organ easily, and made a strong contribution to the afternoon. . . . I hope we can arrange another visit.

The second, and secular, half of the program will include what is perhaps the most unusual of the Choir's offerings, Seth Bingham's "Witch-Teasing." In this contemporary composition the composer, who is also the librettist, most effectively satirizes a group of early New England women tormenting an accused sorceress. To listen to the improbable fashion in which are set to music such deathless lines as

Lazy lips full of lies! Cackling harpies —

What care we for your lies ready-made?

Let's bite her!

is indeed an experience.

The Chapel Choir Ensemble will make its debut in this portion of the program, singing Robert Herrick's poem "What Will Love Do?" as set by Burrill Phillips; and Monro's "My Lovely Celia," which has been arranged for women's voices by Morten Luvaas. The ten members of the Ensemble are: Beverly Arrowsmith and Ellanie Kaufman, first sopranos; Diane Lorenz and Betsy Walker, second sopranos; Lynn Campbell, Sharon Engstrom and Lydia Way, first altos; and Susan Squires, Becky Way and Vicki Wolfram, second altos.

For the "Mikado" excerpts, Mr. North will assume the role of Pooh-Bah, while Misses Arrowsmith and Kaufman alternate in the role of Yum-Yum, the bride-to-be; Carol Laundry impersonates Peep-Bo, and Sharon Engstrom and Christine Olson Pitti-Sing, friends of Yum-Yum.

The concert will be conducted by Mr. North. Admission is free. The public is invited.

Trustees To Meet

Allegheny College's Board of Trustees will meet with President Pelletier this Saturday, May 11, at 10 a.m. in the Craig Room of Reis Library. Official recommendations and revisions of college business and policy will be discussed at this annual Spring Meeting.

Ten Alleghenians Pursue Higher Education Overseas

Nine Allegheny sophomores and one junior will be studying abroad next year, attending universities in England, Scotland, France and Mexico.

In England, Judy Bartow will study at the University of Nottingham. Majoring in political science, she looks forward to coming in contact with a different approach to the subject. Another political science major, Marion Hunter, will enter the University of Manchester. To her, spending her junior year abroad is a "dream come true."

She also hopes that living in England and visiting other foreign countries will give her a better basis in political science. Kim Linblad will also attend school in England, studying at the University of Exeter. An English major, Kim feels that by studying in a foreign country she will gain a true liberal arts education.

Sue Rice and Connie Keefer, a chemistry major, will register at the University of Edinburgh in the fall. Sue, who will major in either English or philosophy, thinks the independence and the respect accorded them will provide a stimulating atmosphere for learning.

Headed for the Sorbonne in Paris, Carolee Iltis and Lynn Carter hope during their year abroad to become more fluent in French and to gain a greater appreciation of French culture. Both are French majors.

Three Spanish majors, Carole Barnes, Barbara Montgomery and Pat Steele, '64, will be spending the first semester of next year at the University of Mexico.

Madtes To Speak On Joyce's Works

Radio station WARC highlights another coming week of broadcasting with programs which should be of interest to many students.

Among the events to be watched for is Dr. Richard Madtes' talk on James Joyce, which may be heard at 9:30 p.m. on Thursday, May 9th. This is a condensation of a guest lecture given by Dr. Madtes in Mr. Kern's Modern Novel course. It concerns both Joyce's life and his works, and attempts to show the correlation between the two. Included is a discussion of each of the author's four major works, and there is an emphasis on Joyce as a humorist, with illustration for this taken from Ulysses.

On Sunday, May 12th, Dr. Robert Bell's grant lecture, entitled "The Effects of Early Experiences on the Psychophysiology of Stress" will be broadcast at 4 p.m.

The second in a series of programs on the history of Canada will be heard on Monday, May 13th at 10 p.m.

Common to all the student going abroad is a desire to meet new people and to gain a greater understanding of foreign countries. Many look forward to experiencing the greater independence of students in Europe.

Several of the students have already sketched out tentative traveling plans. Carolee Iltis and Lynn Carter want to cycle through France and Germany, stopping overnight at youth hostels. Their free time abroad will not all be spent in sightseeing, for both plan to work during the summer.

Barbara Montgomery and Carole Barnes will see some of their own country on their return home from Mexico. They are planning to buy bus tickets which are good for a year and ride throughout the Southern states, getting on and off to sight-see.

To arrange to study in a foreign country, each girl had to apply on her own to the university of her choice. Allegheny will accept a maximum of thirty credit hours toward graduation from other schools.

Annual Pilgrimage of Sun Worshipers Resumes

With the melting of the (hopefully) last snow of May, the spring phenomenon has struck the campus again, causing coeds to disappear mysteriously from sight for hours at a time.

To elucidate the minds of such males as may wonder at the loss, and at the strange change in skin pigment of many females, we suggest they point (with eyes covered) to the infamous Sundeck of Brooks Hall. However, since timidity and A.W.S. prevent them from taking too close a look, The Campus will endeavor to enlighten them somewhat upon the delicate science of sunbathing.

Preparation begins early in the day, and lo! as the sun rises in full glory over the historic Wilcox pines, the first freshmen begin the trek up the hill — an unduly indecent exposure discreetly disguised as raincoats.

By ones and twos and threes the girls file out, gradually covering all available space on the basking area. Basic equipment includes normal beachwear — hats, suits, pillows, blankets, towels, sun-tan lotion, and sunglasses. The optimists bring along a book or two; the realists need only a deck of cards.

The peak hours (noon to 3) find a patterned array of potential beauty spread out, with as many as 50 girls prostrate before the sun. Sisterly, and other, cooperation is always evident. Lunch pools operate to bring goodies to the sun-bathers and bridge-players rotate after every hand to share the best positions under the sun.

It is here that the ingenuity resulting from years of training in intellectual curiosity pays off, in devices designed to concentrate the maximum in sunbeams onto the skin. Some arrange elaborate reflectors of aluminum foil, others aim the sun's rays onto their faces with a mirror.

The most popular gadget is a Pepsi bottle outfitted with a laundry sprinkler, this is used to stimulate the effect of a dip into an ocean or swimming pool.

As the afternoon lazes by, the girls gradually leave, until by 4:00, when the sun is nearly covered by rainclouds, the sundeck is once more empty, save for a few forlorn coke cups which are blown noisily back and forth by the gentle breezes far into the night.

Sundeck Psychosis

It's obvious I didn't know what to expect,

That unique sunny day when with beach-towel and radio,

I anticipatigly approached the old sundeck.

I'd envisioned a scene of sunbathing beauties.

Not so; all around, the pursuit of scholarly duties.

Not quite like the seaside, that place on the roof,

Where sea breezes and suntan were only a spoof.

And when the sun's last penetrating rays did appear,

I'm down from the sundeck, the result of my day,

One small freckle behind my left ear.

Placement Bureau Strongly Advises Students To Use Its Various Services

One of the most useful offices the college provides to bridge the gap between life in the academic world and post graduate employment is not being effectively utilized by the students, according to Mr. Robert Sherman, Placement Director.

Over 40 industries, service organizations, government bureaus and businesses contact Allegheny yearly, seeking and expecting to find high quality students to work in their businesses or laboratories upon graduation. The Placement Bureau, with Mrs. Margaret Jenkins as assistant, is the coordinating center of this demand, connecting interested students with interested employers.

Until recently, students took more advantage of the opportunities offered by the Bureau and were successfully matched with employers; but this year there has been a noticeable lack of response to this program. Because of the unused opportunities for qualified students, this lack of response has become a concern of the Bureau, and efforts are being made to bring the existence of these opportunities to the attention of the students.

Mr. Sherman feels that misunderstanding has fostered the idea that the student planning to enter graduate school or the service is wasting his time being interviewed by a representative of any company. According to Mrs. Jenkins, contacts made at this time, although not followed up by the student, may be useful five years later upon completion of graduate work or in the event of a change in vocational plans. Many times a company has become interested in a student through a campus interview and, as a result of this initial contact, has kept him in mind throughout his graduate training. In some cases, a company will completely finance that training.

Eight Seniors Will Start Training For Posts Abroad

The following article is the substance of an interview conducted by THE CAMPUS staff with Allegheny's eight future Peace Corpsmen. Six of them will begin training in June. They are Mary Baird, John Bugbee, Penny Rose, Stoner Tracy, Bruce Dietrich and John Shafer. Two others, Sue Knapp and Adrie Kolff, have been accepted and will probably begin training in the fall.

by Ginny Moyse

"To put it simply, peace is what we most want to accomplish in our work, along with gaining invaluable experience for ourselves." John Bugbee gave these reasons for entering the Peace Corps, and they are typical of all the trainees, who feel realistically that they will be getting something for themselves, and idealistically, that they will be doing something for others.

"If we hope to have the people of the world appreciate America as we do, the only way they're going to do it is to see what kind of people it produces," said Adrie Kolff. Sue Knapp and John Shafer agree that the Peace Corps experience will be a good transition between college and graduate school, and "will help us decide just what we want to do with our lives."

Most of the trainees will be in teaching positions and will take special courses this summer to learn how to teach in a foreign language. The two engaged couples, John Bugbee and Mary Baird, and Stoner Tracy and Penny Rose will be teaching English in Thailand and Turkey respectively. Bruce Dietrich will teach chemistry in the Philippines, Adrie will teach physical education and John Shafer in a secondary school position in Ghana.

Sue, who is doing her senior comprehensive on the Peace Corps community development of Columbia, hopes for an assignment of this kind.

However, the job itself is never the full-time responsibility. As Mary said, "We'll be teaching only 15 hours a week, but we'll be on call as human beings 24 hours a day."

Most of our trainees have only a vague idea of the rigors they will encounter in the 10-week training period before they graduate to the status of "volunteers." However, John and Mary have talked with a Peace Corps trainer who could give them some indication of what makes up a typical 16-hour day. The day begins at 6 a.m., with coffee, followed by an hour of calisthenics or swimming — or both — and breakfast.

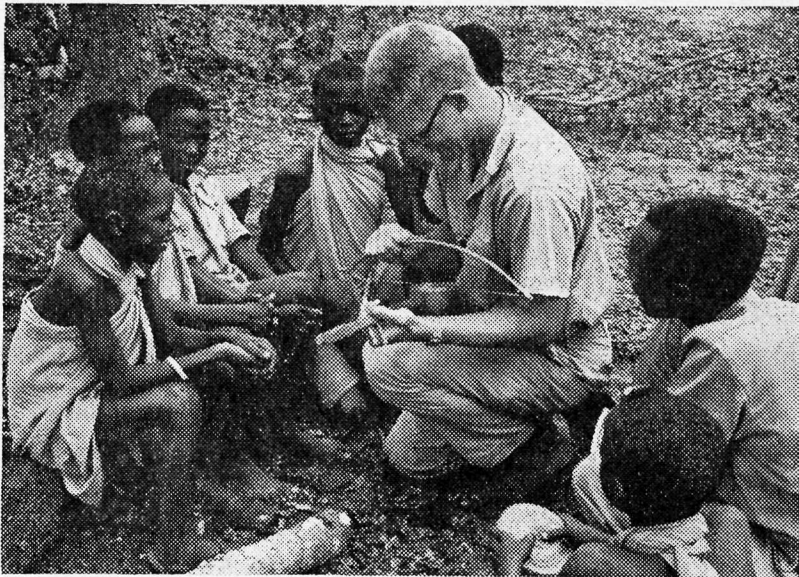

Classes are held in the culture, government, religion and the general life of the people in the specific country, along with a course in Americanism and Communism. "We have to know exactly what our country stands for and the basic problems confronting it today so that we can effectively answer any questions put to us," said Mary.

John Bugbee told of the five hours a day spent on learning the native language. "We wear little portable transistors with earphones, so that we can move around while listening," he said. "It would be impossible for anyone to sit for that length of time." The language is spoken at meals and at every possible occasion so that everyone will pick it up as quickly as possible.

"There is evidently an amazing unity among the workers in each group," Bugbee commented, "and they help each other all the way through training so that everyone will get through." His impression is that about one out of every six trainees is disqualified before completing the training period.

Those who know their assignments are beginning to read all they can about their respective countries. John and Mary know that they will have a lot to learn about Thailand because its habits and language are so different from ours. "The people are very cordial," said Mary, "and internalize all their hostilities, so we would never know we were offending them if we didn't know their customs." John demonstrated how difficult the language is, because of its tonal quality. "Just a small variation in the tone of a word can mean the difference between a kiss and an onion," he said.

Peace Corps Volunteer Matthew Peter Wright, 25, an Allegheny College graduate, works as a geologist in Tanganyika. A native of Kane, Pa., Wright is one of 5,000 Volunteers serving overseas. Another 4,000 Volunteers will enter training during the summer months for projects in 44 countries. Persons interested in these projects should write the Peace Corps immediately.

Foreign Study Opportunity Available Under Fulbrights

Graduate study and research opportunities are made available to more than 800 United States students each year under the Fulbright-Hays Act of 1961.

The fellowship program which is administered by the Institute of International Education in conjunction with the educational exchange program of the U.S. Department of State has students participating in its program in 49 countries at the present time.

In recent years Allegheny College has had two students and one faculty member participate in the program. Carol Urobel, '62, is presently studying political science on a Fulbright Scholarship at Punjab University in Lahore, Pakistan; Gretrude Bauer, '58, studied International Relations at the University of Vienna, and Professor Robert Lynn studied organ in Denmark during 1956-57.

Eligibility requirements for the various grants are: U.S. citizenship (at the time of application), a bachelor's degree or its equivalent before the beginning date of the grant, language proficiency sufficient to carry out the proposed study project and for general communication, and good health. Applicants under 35 years of age who have not previously lived or studied abroad are preferred. Good academic standing and a demonstrated capability for independent study are also necessary.

There are three types of awards: U. S. government full grants; joint U.S.-other government grants, and U. S. government travel-only grants.

Allegheny students interested in the Fulbright Program should consult Professor W. R. Merrick, Quigley 113, about applying for the 1964-65 scholarships. All requests for application forms must be postmarked by Oct. 15, 1963 and enrolled students must submit applications to the campus Fulbright Adviser by Nov. 1, 1963.

Approximately 12,000 American graduate students have studied abroad under the Fulbright Program since the academic year 1948-49. The purpose of the program as set forth by the Institute of International Education seeks to encourage international understanding and educational development through this program of international exchange.

It now administers exchange programs between the U.S. and more than 100 countries.

Fulbright Assistantship To India Now Available

Special Indian Teaching Assistantships for 1964-65 are being provided by the Fulbright Program in India to American college and university graduates for tutorships in English at Indian universities. Students accepted into the program will be granted provisions to take courses in their own fields of interest at the universities to which they are assigned, or they will be able to carry on independent study or research.

The assistantship involves about 6 to 8 hours of classroom instruction in the English language and usage. Equal time is also spent in informal meetings and grading papers. Candidates should possess a voice which carries well and good diction, free of any marked regional accent. They are not required to have had previous teaching experience or to have majored in English, but must speak and write English perfectly with those qualified to teach grammar and English usage preferred. Experience in public speaking, debating and dramatics are helpful to the applicant as well as the possession of mature, adaptable and dedicated characteristics. A tape recording of all finalists' voices is required.

Those accepted for the program will leave the United States in early June and will receive a special training course in the teaching of English in India before they take up their duties at the universities to which they have been assigned. The actual teaching term is from July to the end of February with the remainder of the year left free for the grantee's own study or research. Eligibility is the same as that required by the Fulbright Fellowship Program with both men and women students eligible for the assistantships.

Gator Nine Bombs Thiel Defeated By U. of Pitt.

The Allegheny College baseball team brought its record to three wins against two defeats as they split two games in the past week's activity by beating Thiel 12-1 and losing to Pitt 23-9.

Dave Williams, '66, continued his brilliant pitching as he struck out 17 Thiel batsmen and allowed no earned runs to garner his second victory of the season. John Willett and Neil Johnson supplied the power with two hits apiece while Williams helped his own cause with a single and a double. Jack Mullen paced Thiel with a pair of singles.

At Pitt the Gators did not fare as well, as they ran into what is publicized as the best team in the history of that school. Allegheny jumped off to a quick lead in the top of the first as a single by Dave Ewart, '66, and a double by Stoner Tracy, '63, coupled with two errors brought in a pair of markers. Pitt soon erased this lead, however, coming back with five tallies in the bottom of the first, six runs in the third and five more in the fourth insured the victory. Allegheny scored again in the fifth as singles by Dick McElroy, '63, and Dave Wuertzer, '66, an infield out by Bob Rinker, '63, and a single by Ewart brought three counters across the plate. The Gators drove in four more in the seventh on a triple by Rinker, singles by Willett and Ewart, and three Pitt errors. Al Ricciuti led the Pitt attack with five hits in six trips, including a triple. Jim Marquis, '64, took the loss, his second in three decisions.

This week the team will meet strong competition as they play Grove City today, W & J Saturday, and Fenn on Tuesday.

Record By Netmen

Allegheny's go-go tennis team set a new all-time college winning streak last Saturday by defeating W & J, 6-3. This marked the 19th consecutive victory for the netmen and gave them sole possession of the title. On the following Tuesday the Gators trounced Thiel, 9-0, for their 20th consecutive win and the streak is still intact as of this printing.

Instrumental in the W & J victory were Mike (Swim) Finnerty, '63, Mike Lipitz, '63, Jack Kraiger, '65, and Dave Spencer, '65, who registered wins in singles. The combinations of Lipitz-Rudick and Kraiger-Spencer rallied to take two of the three doubles matches.

Modern Jazz

"Modern Jazz" will be the subject of Robert G. Reisner's speech in Henderson Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. on Wednesday, May 15.

Mr. Reisner, who is a brother of Dr. Gerald Reisner of the Allegheny Biology Department, is jazz editor for the "Village Voice" and drama critic for a New York radio station. He has been a member of the staff of the Chicago Museum of Fine Arts and the New School for Social Research.

Some Win, Some Lose...

Allegheny first baseman John Willett, '65, slides home safely after wild pitch by Thiel hurler. (Right) Dick McElroy (20), '64, tells Willett to hit the dirt.

Out trying to score is Gator right fielder Dave Ewert, '66, Allegheny went on to crush Thiel's Tomcats 12-1.

Golfers Win Two

The Gators enjoyed a very successful week at their home course, winning two matches and tying one. One Tuesday, the team squashed Case 15 to 1 and Washington and Jefferson 13 to 7. In these matches, Mike Staren, Skip Snyder, Wally Edgecomb, Dick Davis and Mike Williams provided the scoring punch. Medalist in this match was Wally Edgecomb with an 80.

On Thursday the Gators met the highly rated Slippery Rock team and gained a 3-3 tie. Garnering points for the Gators were Mike Staren and Skip Snyder who shot 75 and 78 respectively. The other point came from low total team medal score (400 for Allegheny to 407 for the Rockets). Medalist in this match was Robert Byler of Slippery Rock with a 74.

With two weeks remaining before the P.A.C. tournament at Greenville, the Gators have away matches at Bethany on Thursday and one the next week at Thiel. In the course of these two weeks, the Gators' game should continue to improve and present a real threat to all P.A.C. competition.
