

Thirteen Freshman Girls Tapped For Cwens

Irene McDowell, Joan Savona, Joan Reiber, Lorrie Sibbet, Betty English, Anne Herzog, Evi Vough, Aggie Tartara, Judy Dufur, Betty Eakin, Barb Kiser, Sharleen Volpe and Mimi Jackson were tapped as Cwens for 1958-1959 on April 10.

Cwens is a national honorary society for sophomore women. Allegheny's Cwens are the Epsilon chapter which was established in 1922.

The first project for the new Cwens will be decorating for May Day and passing out programs. A spaghetti dinner is being planned for this year's and next year's Cwens.

Writing summer letters to "little sisters" (incoming freshmen) and helping them adjust to college life throughout their first year is the Cwens' main duty. In connection with this, Cwens are on campus during Orientation Week to meet freshmen, guide tours and assist with matriculation.

In the fall, a picnic is held for freshmen women. Cwens sell football programs and once a week go to Cafisch to sell cider and donuts.

A big fall project is the compiling of the address book containing the name, home address, and birthday of every Allegheny student.

Cwens serve as ushers for all convocation services. They are in charge of some chapel services. At Christmas, Cwens carol in Cafisch early one morning and give breakfast to their little sisters.

A dance is sponsored by the Cwens in the spring, and Cwens have a project at the annual Carnival.

Ford Chapel Scene Of Spring Concert By Chapel Choir

"One scene in the death chamber was particularly unpleasant, even gruesome. That occurred the morning four white men were executed a few minutes apart. The condemned men were Duncan Richardson, F. G. Bullen, and Will De Bord..."

This is the opening line of one of the songs which the Allegheny Chapel Choir will sing in their Concert at Ford Chapel, Sunday, May 4, at 4:00 p.m.

The number declaring the above facts is one of three satires which Randal Thompson, modern American composer, has written and which the choir will present for the concert. Another of Thompson's satires is a short sermon by a Seattle clergyman against Modernism; the other takes for its text, a leaflet issued by the N.W. C.T.U. . . . it is entitled "God's Bottles."

W. S. Wright North, director of the college chorus, pointed out that "neither the choir nor the composer is poking fun at prohibition, modernism, or capital punishment. But what Dr. Thompson, in his musical setting of these journalistic excerpts, does to their exaggerated literary style," according to Professor North, "has to be heard to be believed."

Another featured number on the Choir's program will be Norman Lockwood's dramatic cantata for women's voices, "The Birth of Moses" with Professor Robert Lynn at the piano and Mrs. Elaine Lynn Playing the flute obligato. Professor Lynn also will accompany the choir in most of their other numbers.

In addition to their preparation for the spring concert, the choir is also rehearsing for several other

ASG Takes Positive Steps; Plans Referendum For Mag

by Jim Bruce

Two positive steps towards settling the Allegheny Magazine controversy were taken at this week's ASG meeting: 1. the passing of an IFC resolution to put the issue to a student referendum and, 2. the issuing of questionnaires to be given to the student body asking for help and suggestions in planning next year's publications.

The IFC resolution, presented by Chairman Ed Fredericks, calls for the balloting of the student body on the following questions:

"A. That the AUC should instruct the Publications Board that it is the desire of the student body that at the close of this semester the Allegheny Magazine should no longer be published. (Yes or No)

B. That should the Allegheny Magazine cease to be published the student body would like to see the funds involved go to: (vote for any or all):

1. A Yearbook (Kaldron)
2. A Literary Magazine
3. Other

The ballot will take place on Tuesday, April 22, between 9:00 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., in the lobby of the College Union. A committee with Dave McKay as chairman will supervise the referendum.

In passing the resolution, the ASG felt that a large number of students had expressed a desire to determine at this time the future

Siple, Guest Speaker For Founder's Day

Dr. Paul A. Siple, Antarctic scientist and an Allegheny graduate in the class of 1932, will be the speaker at the College's 143rd Founder's Day Convocation, Wednesday, April 23.

Dr. Siple was head of the scientific section of last year's U.S. Geophysical Year Expedition to the South Pole. Since his return last January he has received the Distinguished Civilian Award from the Defense Department, the Livingstone Medal from the American Geographical Society, the Hubbard Medal from the National Geographic Society and the Patron Medal by the Royal Geographic Society.

Dr. Siple has made six expeditions to the south polar region, four of them with Admiral Byrd. He was an undergraduate when he first journeyed to Little America as the Boy Scout representative of the 1928 Byrd Expedition. On a subsequent trip with Admiral Byrd, while serving as geographer, he discovered and mapped a polar range, naming it for Allegheny and two of the peaks for Professors Darling and Swartley, respectively his biology and English professors.

Playshop Production "Thieves Carnival" Ends Winter Season

The Allegheny Playshop will present Jean Anouilh's comedy "Thieves Carnival" under the direction of William Walton, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 24-26.

The cast includes "Sis" Cunningham as the indomitable Lady Hurf, Joe Ragno as the head thief, Peterbono, with his accomplices Hector and Gustave played by David Bray and David Ottey. Tom Behrens is Lord Edgard, Judy Hollander and Sally Hopkins play the eligible heiresses Eva and Juliette, while Tom Simonson and Derry Bird portray the ever present Dupont Dufort St. and Dufort Dupont Jr.

Other parts are filled by Steve Perrone as the clarinet playing musician who comments musically on the action, Marilyn Smith as the French nursemaid, George Thoburn as the town crier, and Seth Dorian, Steve Marks and David Graham as the three policemen.

The play is a comedy of manners and will be presented in twentieth century dress. It is a satire on social manners of the English upper class. The production is done with an eye to invoking humor through exaggeration in movement and mannerisms in keeping with the witty and satirical dialogue, while still delivering a message of universal meaning.

Mr. Walton describes the piece as a "Controversial blend of irony, humor, and gentleness" and says it may be one of the most talked about productions on the campus in a long time.

Phi Gamma Mu Elects Symons

Phi Beta Kappa Announces Election Of Nine Seniors

Selection of nine students to Phi Beta Kappa was announced this week by the Allegheny College chapter of the National Honorary Scholastic Fraternity.

Five of the honored students will be graduating in June, three graduated in February, and one completed her work in the 1957 summer session.

This year's contingent also includes Don Smith of Butler, and Lynne Crandall of Jamestown, N.Y., who were named for the honor last fall on the basis of three year's academic achievement.

Sororities, Fraternities Plan Spring Events

A variety of events are scheduled for this weekend, April 19 and 20, as nine of the Allegheny's Greek letter organizations prepare for their Parents' or Mothers' Weekends.

On Saturday afternoon Alpha Chi Omega's and their mothers will play bridge in the sorority rooms. Following this will be a banquet at the Cottage at 6:30 p.m. with entertainment afterwards in the Chapter Room.

The Kappa Alpha Theta's are planning a team from 3:00-5:00 p.m. and then dinner at Kerr's at 6:30 p.m. Skits and bridge in the Chapter Room will complete the evening.

The Alpha Gamma Delta's will show slides in the Alumni Lounge and will then serve dinner for their mothers in the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house at 6:00 p.m. The day's activities will end with group singing and refreshments in the sorority rooms.

The Riverside in Cambridge Springs will be the setting for Kappa Kappa Gamma Mothers' banquet. Skits, songs and games are planned at 8:30 p.m.

For Mothers' Weekend the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity will put on an exhibition softball game, hold a banquet, bridge tournament and serenade at the Chapter House and finish the day's events with a coffee and donut hour. The Theta Chi brothers will hold a banquet and an informal get-together for their parents.

The Phi Delta Theta Saturday schedule for their parents' weekend will include a buffet dinner and bridge tournament at the Chapter House. Dinner, entertainment and coffee and donuts are on the agenda for the Phi Gamma Delta mothers in the Chapter House. The Alpha Chi Rho's activities for the day will be an open house for their parents.

Two of the students, Raymond Cox and Mabel Ray, are Meadville residents. Miss Ray, a February graduate, is a psychology major, and Cox did his work in chemistry and mathematics. Cox also captained Allegheny's swimming team, and climaxed a career in which he was undefeated in the backstroke in dual and District Meets by finishing fourth in the intercollegiate championships at Michigan in late March.

The other students to be graduating in June are Thomas Jones, Medina, Ohio, a pre-med student; Jane Kenemuth, Van, Pa., History; Kathryn Popowniak, Charleroi, chemistry; and Arthur Rosenblum, Flushing, N.Y., international studies. February graduates in addition to Miss Ray are Mary Benson, New Kensington, speech; and Nancy Hamberger, Rochester, N.Y., German. Margaret Reinewald of Northbrook, Illinois, who finished her degree requirements at the 1957 summer session, is an English major, and in addition to her studies at Allegheny has done work at the University of Illinois and Northwestern University.

Groshner Named Community Envoy

Robert L. Groshner, a 19-year-old Allegheny College student from Guys Mills, has been selected as Western Crawford County Community Ambassador for 1958.

He was chosen from a field of six finalists by members of groups sponsoring the project. A total of fourteen applicants entered this year.

La Verne Schultz, a Meadville area senior at Indiana State Teachers College is his alternate.

The selection committee has chosen Switzerland, Austria, Spain, or Great Britain to be Groshner's envoy post during his approximate eight week visit. However, the final choice will be made by the

PUBLICATION ISSUE

Two significant happenings took place in ASG's meeting Tuesday. One was the affirmative vote to bring up a referendum before the second issue of the Allegheny Magazine is published. The other is the questionnaire which is being distributed.

Although we did not before, and do not feel now, that a referendum should be brought up before the magazine's second issue, the vote taken in ASG was representative of student opinion much more so than that taken on the former IFC proposal before vacation. What is needed now, then, is intelligent and independent voting by individuals to decide on effective action satisfactory to the majority.

Also, with the type of questionnaire that is being distributed, there is a chance for everyone to offer constructive suggestions for the publications to utilize.

Lessening dissatisfaction and controversy regarding publications can be achieved by student approval, but only if students support and give constructive suggestions.

Campus Highlight, Radio Program, "Grooveology '58"

by Jay W. Romm

To the list of student operated activities on campus, there must be added the student venture into the field of radio. On Monday night, April 14 from 10 to 11 p.m., the college heard the first broadcast of "Grooveology '58" on station WMGW. Under the leadership of Al Redding, Ron Olson, and Briscoe Stephens, the first completely student run program since 1951 was presented. "Grooveology" as the three founders have called their program, is to be broadcasted every Monday night until the end of the semester, with the provision that if it is successful in fulfilling its objectives and meets approval from the administration and the students, it will be broadcast again next year, possibly three times a week.

The announcing and general m.c. duties are undertaken equally by Redding and Stephens. In charge of the commercials and other related duties is Olson. For the initial performance, Olson filled in for Redding due to the Singers Tour.

As far as experience goes, Redding, Stevens, and Olson seem amply qualified to run the program. Al Redding, freshman from Beaver, Pa. is a speech major and is thus able to apply many principles to the program. Also a freshman, Ron Olson from Jamestown, N.Y. bears the qualification of having a considerable amount of business experience. Briscoe Stephens brings to the program the experience of actually regret in "Red" Moore's leaving.

What he has done for sports here is to be highly praised. Moore's success as a coach has been exemplified in many ways. The football team, under his coaching, shows a fine record and high calibre of skill. He is also responsible for making wrestling a popular varsity sport. Besides his accomplishments, Moore has gained the respect and admiration of those who know him and work with him.

We wish to congratulate Coach "Red" Moore on his new position and wish him good luck and success as Cornell's line coach.

FOUNDER'S DAY

We urge all students not to pass up this excellent opportunity and to attend the convocation.

Letter . . .

To the Editor:

This Tuesday, April 22, in the College Union, the ASG will bring to student referendum the Allegheny Magazine - Literary Magazine-Kal-dron controversy. I hope that there will be sufficient discussion by the entire college community so that intelligent decisions will be made.

The referendum is basically to find the focal point from which future publications should develop. In other words, you will be voting on whether you would like the Publications Board to work along the lines of the present Allegheny Magazine or the Kal-dron and (or no) Literary Magazine. To supplement this referendum all students are asked to fill out a publications questionnaire. Thus, the referendum will establish which publications to develop, and the questionnaire will aid the Publications Board in creating these publications which will more closely meet student approval.

I believe that the question at hand during this week concerns the basic idea of the Allegheny Magazine. The first issue of the magazine cannot and should not be accepted as a true example of what the Allegheny Magazine might be. However, I believe that we can see fairly closely what the basic idea of the magazine is by examining both the past issue and the content of the future publication. The next publication will most likely contain: an article on the pre-school center, the pre-medical committee, the campus sports cars, Eli's Chosen Six Week-

All members are urged to attend and all interested persons are invited to do so.

Elections, Tea, KDE Activities

The election of new officers and an orientation tea for freshman education majors were among the recent activities of Kappa Delta Epsilon. Installation of these new officers will take place Tuesday evening, April 22, at the Founders' Day Banquet at the "Little Bit of Sweden" Smorgasbord in Erie.

Last Tuesday evening the KDE members sponsored a tea in conjunction with the education department to introduce freshmen women to the courses of the education department and to help them plan their schedules for the following years. The program, planned by Gloria Barkley, was followed by informal discussions with the members and suggestions for programs of study.

Surprising Facts Answer Questions Asked By Students Concerning Meals

by Jay W. Romm

If you think you have troubles, just think of the college's two dietitians Miss Shirley Townsend and Miss Sara Shaefer, who prepare over a quarter of a million meals during the year in Brooks and in Cochran. For these two women, there are no vacations except for those such as Christmas and Easter. For them, when one meal is over with, there is always another to prepare. But Miss Townsend has stated that when she begins to feel that it is an endless job, she realizes "that if the students did not eat, then she would not be able to eat either."

Many students fail to realize all the time and trouble that goes into preparing a single meal for Allegheny's students. Before the food is even bought Miss Townsend, the head dietitian plans a menu for the coming week. First, she plans for the dinners and decides what would be most wholesome and what the students from past experiences have expressed a liking for. After this, she takes into consideration the combination of foods on the dinner menu and determines the lunch meals, trying not to repeat the same foods and trying to make the most utilization of left-overs. Also, she has to consider the work load of the dining room employees and the capabilities of the cooking equipment in the kitchens.

Having to feed such a large number of students, Miss Townsend buys food in considerable quantities. For a single roast beef meal, she finds it necessary to purchase over 285 pounds of beef. The daily delivery of milk for the two dining halls comes to about 140 gallons. With all this milk to drink, Allegheny students should be very healthy. Miss Townsend and Miss Shaefer have a special gripe against those students whose "eyes are bigger than their stomachs" and who select food and then do not eat it. For all the food that is wasted, there is that much less to spend on other foods, and in the long-run the students who do this are only hurting themselves.

Concerning the tastes of students as a whole, Miss Townsend commented that "the students here have reasonably simple tastes and in most cases that taste has been formed in the individual's home. There is not too much venturesome in the students' eating habits." Because of the non-venturesomeness of students, not too many new or strange dishes are prepared. When such a meal is planned, it is given at least two chances to meet students approval. The two dietitians have learned what foods the students best and least like from simple experiences. For instance, they have learned that students will not accept cabbage in salads more than once a week. Miss Townsend has had an experience when the students would not accept green gage plums, though they tasted exactly like regular plums, but looked different. She recollected that she was literally "stuck with them."

When one considers that the school kitchens do all their own cooking and baking, and that each day over 1,500 meals are served, it is easy to see that a completely efficient staff is a necessity. In Brooks Hall Dining Room alone there are three range cooks, two pastry cooks, a relief for each of these, 2½ salad preparers, one vegetable preparer, one pot and pan cleaner, one person to do the laundry, and one relief for each of these. In addition to this, there are four counter women, and a relief to take each's place on days off, and one maintenance man to keep the dining hall clean. In Cochran Hall, there is a similar staff only on a lesser scale. The cooks employed in both dining halls are mostly housewives, and thus they are better able to prepare food that tastes more like home cooking. It has been an objective of the dietitians to make food that is fairly similar to food that might be prepared in a student's home.

Miss Townsend has come to Allegheny with many worthy qualifications. Although she was not here last year, she has been planning Allegheny's menus since 1951. Before coming here, Miss Townsend worked on the Food Service Board at Syracuse University and also as an assistant professor in the School of Home Economics at that same institution. During that time, she received her masters degree.

Miss Shaefer graduated from Allegheny and in addition to working as a dietitian here, she has been employed at other colleges.

"Red" Moore Accepts Position At Cornell

Coach Moore To Leave Allegheny; New Position Will Be Line Coach

by John Arcuri and Frank Maldonado

H. P. Way, Director of Athletics at Allegheny, announced yesterday that football coach William "Red" Moore has accepted a position as line coach at Cornell University. Moore had been head coach of Gator football since 1954.

Commenting on his new position, "Red" said, "It was a very difficult decision to make. Everyone here (Allegheny) has been wonderful to me. However, coaching is my life, and such is the life of a coach."

He stated further that, "It was a great pleasure working with the boys here at Allegheny, and I was impressed by the fact that they were always very co-operative. I really appreciate the boys and know that their participation in sports at Allegheny will be worthwhile whatever their future lives may be. I wish them all the luck in the world when they compete in the P.A.C. next year, and I'll be watching their progress eagerly."

In 1955, Moore initiated wrestling here as a varsity sport. In his undergraduate days at Penn State University "Red" was a varsity wrestler and through his aspirations the Gator mat squad have progressed and are developing into a first class team.

Moore was a "stand-out" high school griddier at Rochester, Pa. and served with the Navy during World War II. Following his discharge, he played collegiate ball at Penn State and was graduated from the institution in 1947.

After graduation, "Red" played three years with the Pittsburgh Steelers until 1949 and was named "All-pro" guard two of these years.

In 1955, Moore became an assistant professor of physical education at Allegheny College. During that same year he was named head football and wrestling coach.

No fewer than four men received national recognition during "Red's" career at Allegheny. These men were all football players and are as follows: "little All American" Jim Villa, and John Carmen, All Methodist selections Tom Biggam, and Pete Croft.

"Red" Moore's football and wrestling teams compiled a 11-19-1 and 6-7-1 record, respectively, during his coaching stay at Allegheny.

Batsmen Open Season

Allegheny's baseball team will travel to Slippery Rock this Saturday to face, in the season's opener, a team considered by many as one of the strongest nine that the Gators will see this campaign. Slippery Rock has a veteran squad abundant in depth.

Although the Gator team possibly does not have the Rockets overall depth it has ten returning lettermen in Pete Klomp at first base, team captain Dal Matthews at second, Tom Fleming, shortstop, Bill Stoughton, third, and a battery of Jack Kepple pitching and Jim Dronesfield catching.

There are four returning outfielders who have lettered, Mason Cady, Harry Larimer, Bob Lowing and Frank Maldonado, who will double as a pitcher as well as a flyhawk.

Of the freshmen aspirants on the team there are two who have a chance to break into the lineup; "Kip" Standberg, a big fastballer, and Bill Hilliard a strong prospect who might add to Garbark's long ball hitting department.

Two Athletes Comment On Loss Of Moore

by John Arcuri

To the boys who have participated on "Red" Moore's teams, his loss will mean another team's great gain. His boys really respected him because he had that ability to fire a player up to such an extent that the boy would sincerely give his all. "Red" will be missed, but we are sure that his abilities will enrich the Red Raiders of Cornell.

Jim Villa, Allegheny grid co-captain and Little All-American commented, "Allegheny will miss "Red" Moore. He and the teams which he produced were responsible for building to a high point the enthusiasm now shown by Allegheny sport fans toward athletics on this campus.

"It's too bad that "Red" is leaving. He's a really good coach who had the inherent characteristic of being able to get his players to sacrifice their vices so that they would play their best. His ability to gain hard workers might not be indicated by Allegheny's grid records but the sportsmanship shown in those athletic contests were enough to point out the type of man that "Red" can develop.

"Red" Moore has a wonderful opportunity at Cornell and I wish him all the luck in the world."

Dick Dunn, star grappler on Moore's mat squad for the past two years said, "Red was the type of man who never gave up in any contest. This he instilled in the men on his squads.

"On a campus that was seemingly indifferent to athletics he brought out the enthusiasm and support of Gator fans.

He made the boys work hard and long to achieve that ability and poise so necessary to an athlete. In developing a wrestling team that is now a varsity sport he has developed a tremendous interest in a sport that began here only four years ago. I would like to thank him for his help and wish him much success in his new position at Cornell University."

These were two of the men who played under William "Red" Moore.

Selections From Bach, Brahms, Others To Be Presented At Piano Recital

Five Allegheny students will participate in a piano recital to be held in Ford Chapel Sunday, April 20 at 4:00 p.m. The program will be concluded by a Sonata for four hands, played by Dorothy Jean Smith and Robert Lynn.

Betty Jack, of Titusville, Pa., will open the program with a group of works by Bach, Mozart and Shostakovich. As a flutist in the Sinfonietta, soprano in the Chapel Choir and accompanist for voice students, she makes diversified contributions to the musical life of the college.

Before coming to Allegheny she studied piano with Miss Frances Cartney of Titusville.

Ed Fredericks, who will play a piano piece by Brahms, comes from Oak Ridge, N.J., where he served as organist and pianist for the Butler High School Choir. Last year he played piano with the Allegheny Sinfonietta. Next September he will enter the Cornell Medical School.

Anne Herzog, who is an elementary education major, began her study of piano in Shaker Heights, Ohio. She will play three short pieces by Bela Bartok.

Virginia Hess did her basic work in piano at the Wickersham School of Music in Pittsburgh. Her musical activities at Allegheny include Chapel Choir and accompanying voice students. She plans to major in English with a minor in secretarial studies. As her contribution to the program she will play five dances from a Bach Suite and a Prelude by Debussy.

Bruce Stephens, Cochran, has had previous piano instruction in Meadville from Miss Marie Davis. He will play arrangements of three American folksongs by Roy Harris.

The program is open to the public.

Summer Reading Laboratory

Western Reserve University in Cleveland has scheduled a summer Reading Laboratory from June 16 through July 25 for college students who want to read better and faster, according to Dr. Esther J. McConike, head of WRU's Reading Improvement Service.

The purpose of the laboratory is to sharpen reading skills and improve study methods. The laboratory method will permit each student to work on his individual reading problems as well as to participate in group work.

Three sections of the class have been scheduled. Daytime sessions will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday — one group from 10:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m., and another from 1:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. All groups will meet at the Reading Improvement Center on the University campus. Tuition for the six-week program is $39 per student.

For registration forms contact Mrs. Esther J. McConike, Reading Improvement Center, Western Reserve University, 11408 Bellflower Road, Cleveland 6, Ohio.

Race, Sing, Jazz Give Festive Touch To Greek Week

Greek Week, held for the first time on Allegheny's campus, began Tuesday, April 8 with a Marathon Relay Race and ended Saturday, April 13 with a semi-formal dance at Brooks.

The relay race began at the stadium and ended at Brooks circle. Each of the seven fraternities was represented by a runner who relayed a torch symbolizing the spirit of Greek Week. At Brooks Circle, when the race ended, Sally Stewart, president of Pan-Hellenic Council and Ed Fredricks, president of the Inter-Fraternity Council, gave speeches on the history and purpose of Greek Week.

On Wednesday, April 9, an IFC banquet was held at Brooks. Approximately three-hundred attended. At this time, Robert Garbark, chairman of the fraternity intramurals, presented awards to the winning teams. For softball last spring and football this fall Phi Gamma Delta was presented with trophies. Phi Kappa Psi was awarded trophies for volleyball and basketball. A trophy for bowling was presented to Phi Delta Theta. Phi Gamma Delta was also awarded a trophy for achieving the most points for intramurals last year.

The new president of IFC George Hagstrom and vice-president Al Ingham were announced at the banquet.

President Pelletier, Dean McKean, and Dean Bender, Vice-President of Thiel College, were the main speakers.

On Thursday, April 10, a Greek Sing was held at Brooks Hall. Each fraternity and sorority sang two songs to a capacity crowd. The winning fraternity, Phi Delta Theta was under the song leadership of Chuck Stone. Delta Tau Delta with Bill Hrach as song leader and Alpha Chi Rho, directed by John Dunham, took second and third places, respectively.

Kappa Alpha Theta under the leadership of Jean Hollister, Kappa Kappa Gamma directed by Lori Lorz and Ann Tannehill and Alpha Chi Omega led by Fran Dalzell won first, second and third places, respectively, for the sororities.

Greek Week was concluded on Friday and Saturday with dances and a jam session at which Eli's Chosen Six played. The dance Friday night at the College Union was a costume dance and togas were worn. Saturday afternoon in Montgomery Gym Eli's Chosen Six played jazz to many students. Saturday night the sextet played again and provided music for the dance which ended Greek Week.

Zehring, McDonald Attend AWS Convention

Delegates from the Allegheny AWS, Mickey McDonald and Kiki Zehring attended the convention of the Eastern Regional Intercollegiate Association of Women Students held at the University of West Virginia in Morgantown from April 2 to April 5.

During the four-day program were workshops, speakers and discussions pertaining to the theme of the convention, "Decorum and the Decalogue". The keynote speaker, Dr. Philip E. Jacob, professor of political science at the University of Pennsylvania, spoke on the behavior and values of college students. He is the author of a book entitled Changing Values in College. Among the workshop discussion topics were: Types of Punishment, the Honor System, the Drinking Problem, Student Counselors and Service Projects.

AWS President Kiki Zehring said, "Speaking for both Mickey and myself, we felt that the convention was extremely worthwhile to us as college students, and not only as representatives of AWS."

Students attended the convention from colleges extending from New England through the Middle Atlantic states to West Virginia, and west to Michigan.

Radio Show

having worked in radio stations, most important of which has been the Annapolis Naval Academy radio station.

The idea of "Grooveology" first materialized last December when the three students decided that Allegheny College has need for a radio program designed principally for the students. In general, the format of the program is music suited to student listening tastes. As an added attraction, each week there will be a member of the faculty or a member of the student body presented who will select some of his favorite tunes and then they will be played over the air. Since the three chiefs want the program to be composed mainly of music, there will be only brief talks with guests. Ron Olson stated that these interviews would serve the purpose of "an easy chair chance to meet fellow students and pros." Among the guests to be presented on "Grooveology" are Dean McKean, Mr. Frank Badger, the Kappa Keynotes and Rosie Foglia.

The type of music to be played in the future would mainly consist of semi-popular music, tunes from shows, and to add spice to the program, some jazz hits. As far as classical music goes, only the pieces that seem to be student favorites would be played.

On the program that took place on Monday, the main feature was the presentation of the winning fraternities and sororities in last week's Greek Sing. Recordings of the first, second, and third place groups were played, and Sylvia Symons, substituting for song leader Jean Hollister, represented the first place sorority, Kappa Alpha Theta. She chose two of the sorority's favorite songs which were then played. Ed Sergi, filling in for the Phi Delt song leader Church Stone, performed the same function for the winning fraternity.
