Dear Morris Cooke:

I cannot let your letter of December 27th go by without telling you how much I appreciated it. An attempt to put a piece of scientific work like that at Naumkeag into popular form is always risky business. I would rather have your good word for what I did than anybody elses and it was mighty nice of you to write me.

Yes, indeed I shall do my best to hear something at least of the discussion of Electrical Distribution Costs at the Engineer's Meeting at the Hotel Pennsylvania on January 20th. Unfortunately I have what I fear will be a long luncheon that day, but I shall use your invitation to drop in for as long as I can.

As always yours and Mrs. Cooke's card added much to the pleasure of my Christmas. Blessings on you both.

Faithfully yours
