

Letter
March 14, 1927.

Mrs. Francis J. Acosta,
1007 Fulton Ave., West End,
Birmingham, Ala.

My dear Mrs. Acosta:

Your letter dated February 18th and later March 1st has just reached me. Naturally I am interested in your situation. Naturally I should be glad to help you if I were able to do so, but I am a self-supporting woman with many and heavy obligations. I do not feel that in my place I have the right to make the loan you ask. It seems to me that you ought, among your friends or your own community, command the sum. I do not know whether I can help you to do it or not, but as I am going to Birmingham, to speak on the evening of the 21st, remaining over the 23rd, I possibly could have a talk with you on the morning of the 23rd if you desire it, and after that I could possibly, if you wish, present your case to a friend of mine there who I think might be interested, though whether she could find a way to give you financial help I do not know. It would be the best I could do for you.

Empathizing with your situation and believing that with patience and courage you and your husband will be able to work it out, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

INT BWA.
