Players To Give 'The Fan' This Saturday and Monday

Casts Announced and Tickets On Sale for Three-Act Goldoni Comedy.

"The Fan", witty and racy 18th century Italian comedy, will be presented at the Playshop on Saturday and Monday evenings, March 24 and 26 at 8:15 o'clock.

Though the play has never been given professionally in this country, it has been produced by the Carnegie Institute of Technology Playshop, the Cleveland Playshop, and several college groups.

"The Fan", like other 18th century plays, shows the influence of the Commedia del' Arte, a type of drama springing up during the Renaissance in Italy. The plays were never written, but were improvised by the actors as they went along. Laughter was the only end of their acts.

Such stock characters as Harlequin, Columbine, Pantaloon, and others originated in this era. In "The Fan", Giannina, the heroine, Evaristo, her lover, and the Count embody many of the stock character traits. However, Goldoni had begun to break away from the Commedia del' Arte tradition and follow the example of Moliere in attempting to depict a more true-to-life society. His plays, therefore, mark a change in the history of the Italian drama.

Miss Alice H. Spalding, Playshop director, will be assisted by Helen Wicks. John Bittler has been assigned production; Betty Roberts and Jean Kelley, costumes; and Thomas Pringle, and Mildred Gleckler, properties.

New Rushing Proposal Submitted to Chapters By Interfrat. Council

A new rushing plan suggested by the Interfraternity Council for consideration in fraternity meetings Monday of this week met with disapproval by Alpha Chi Rho, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Delta Tau Delta, and Beta Upsilon.

The suggestions, presented by John Corcoran at a meeting of the Interfraternity Council at the Phi Gamma Delta house last Wednesday evening, were, in substance, a proposal to defer the rushing season next fall for a month.

The following points constitute the plan formulated by the Interfraternity Council Committee on rushing rules for the consideration of the various fraternities:

1. That the rushing of freshmen be deferred for at least one month after the close of Freshman Week.

2. That during this period no entertainment of freshmen either by a fraternity or a fraternity man on or off the campus be permitted.

3. That after rushing starts there be a period of deferred pledging. (The length of this period shall be determined by a vote of the fraternities.)

4. That there be no pledging of freshmen during the summer vacation.

5. That the first day of rushing be known as "Open House Day", on which day all fraternity houses shall be open to freshmen who shall visit the houses without invitation. No personal or specific invitation shall be given out by a fraternity for this day.

Phi Kappa Psi voted in favor of the plan and discussed the possibility of extending the closed season to six weeks instead of a month. Phi Gamma Delta did not meet Monday; and Beta Kappa prefers to keep its vote a secret until after the next meeting of the Council. Phi Delta Theta has not yet discussed the proposal.

On April 11 the Interfraternity Council will hold its next meeting and take up the rushing problem anew using the reaction of its member fraternities to this original proposal as a basis to formulate a rushing measure which they can submit to a vote.

'34 Kaldron Will Be Larger, But Budget Not Increased

Kenneth Johnson, Kaldron editor, and his staff are thoroughly immersed in the work for the 1934 year book.

The book will be printed by the Tribune Publishing Company and will be done on the same $1200 budget that last year's annual was restricted to. However, the coming publication will be from 28 to 35 pages larger than its predecessor.

Art work on the book is being done by Kurt C. Glaubach, Meadville phtoographer.

Local Bird and Tree Club Elects Dr. Darling Head

Prof. C. A. Darling was chosen president of the Meadville Bird and Tree Club last Thursday evening. A display of books on birds and trees was another feature of the meeting, these having been selected from the College library by Miss Edith Rowley.

Announce Program, Complete Itinerary For Singers' Trip

Make Final Arrangements for Thirteen-Day Tour Of Choir.

Minor changes were made in the itinerary for the Allegheny Singers' Spring tour since its publication last week, and final arrangements for the trip are almost completed.

The 44 Singers making the trip will remain at College from the close of school on Friday noon, March 30, until Easter Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock when they board their special bus to begin a 13-day tour which will include 31 concerts and a radio broadcast.

While in Washington on April 8 and 9, the Singers will stay at the Cairo Hotel, Washington's tallest building and one of its finest hotels. During the rest of the trip the Singers will be lodged with various members of the church congregations where they appear, as was done during previous Spring tours.

The towns in which the Singers will give concerts are Oil City, Butler, McKeesport, Clairton, Monongahela City, Bellevue, Pittsburgh, Greensburg, Johnstown, Altoona, Mercersburg, Washington, Gettysburg, Harrisburg, Hollidaysburg, Clearfield, DuBois, Punxsutawney, Brookville, and Franklin.

Changes in the itinerary made since it was announced last week included: (1) the substitution of appearances at Clairton and Monongahela City High Schools on Tuesday afternoon, April 3, for appearances which had been tentatively scheduled for that time at Erwin and Jeannette High Schools; (2) the substitution of an appearance at Monongahela City M. E. Church on Tuesday evening, April 3, for an appearance that was scheduled at Jeannette First M. E. Church; (3) the substitution of Taylor Allderdice for Wilkinsburg High School for the concert of Thursday morning, April 5; (4) the cancellation of concerts scheduled for the York and Harrisburg High Schools on Tuesday, April 10, and their replacement by a concert at Gettysburg College.

Professor Luvaas has tentatively set the home concert of the Singers for some time in May.

Education Fraternities To Celebrate Founding With Banquet Friday

Kappa Phi Kappa and Kappa Delta Epsilon will hold a joint Founder's Day Banquet at the Kepler Hotel at 6 o'clock Friday evening, March 23. Dr. J. K. Bowman, assistant director of the Teacher Division of Public Instruction in Harrisburg, will be the principal speaker.

Dr. Bowman's subject, "100 Years of Progress in Education", honors the centennial celebration of public schools in Pennsylvania. W. P. Norton, superintendent of Meadville schools, will also speak.

Professor Buckingham will be the toastmaster and Edward Stainbrook and Jane Wright will speak for their respective fraternities.

K. D. E. Hears Meadville Teacher

Kappa Delta Epsilon met in Ruter Hall Thursday evening, March 15, to hear Miss Isabelle Carroll speak on the teaching of American History in the high school, and to discuss plans for the Founder's Banquet to be given with Kappa Phi Kappa on Friday evening, March 23, at the Kepler Hotel.

Miss Carroll emphasized the necessity of connecting the study of history with present day social problems.

Phi Delta Theta to Occupy New House During Vacation

When Phi Delta Theta members return from their Spring vacation, they will probably return to rooms in their new home on Terrace Street instead of to the present house on Highland Avenue.

John Corcoran, newly elected president of the fraternity said that the Phi Delts expect to have the house in complete readiness soon and the moving accomplished during the Easter holidays.

Plastering work on the Huidekoper house has been finished, and most of the papering is done. Furnishing will be done this week, according to plans. Roof repairs and the papering of a few rooms constitute the remaining work.

Lubic, Olson Elected To Omicron Delta Kappa

John Lubic and William Olson were elected to Omicron Delta Kappa last Thursday evening.

Meeting at the home of Prof. and Mrs. O. P. Akers, the fraternity decided by a unanimous vote to extend membership to these two men for their outstanding proficiency in their particular fields, though neither had acquired the necessary number of points.

Lubic was elected for his extraordinary athletic achievements. He is a five letter man having starred in football, basket-ball, track, cross-country, and tennis.

Olson was chosen for his prominence in debate and oratory.

The Campus to Sponsor Hunt For Twenty Bests of 1934 Class.

How many personalities go to make up Allegheny's superlative senior man and superlative senior woman?

Composite pictures seem to be the fad in modern journalism, and The Campus is falling in line by sponsoring a ballot in Friday's chapel to discover this year's crop of "bests". It should be fun forming images of the ideal Allegheny man or woman—the one who is as good looking as so-and-so, as intelligent as so-and-so else, can dance as well as so-and-so, etc.

In this, the third of The Campus's senior superlative contests, ballots will be placed on the chapel benches Friday and are to be filled out and deposited in ballot boxes at the doors upon exit. Students who are absent from chapel may obtain ballots at the close of the regular exercises.

Since memory plays queer tricks in contests of this kind, a list of senior men and women will be printed on the reverse side of the ballots to refresh student memories and insure more discerning choice.

The results of the election will be published in the next issue of The Campus on April 18; and Kenneth Johnson, Kaldron editor, announces the intention of printing pictures of the winners in the 1934 Kaldron.

A careful scrutiny of the seniors should be made in the next two days in an effort to determine those who should bear the titles of:

1—Handsomest man.
2—Most beautiful woman.
3—Most popular man.
4—Most popular woman.
5—Man most likely to succeed.

British Radio Control Subject of Debaters Over WLBW Friday

Forty-five high schools in Northwestern Pennsylvania are receiving invitations to tune in on the Allegheny Speakers fourth radio broadcast over WLBW, in Erie, on Friday afternoon from 1:30 to 2 o'clock when Kenneth Johnson and Robert Dennis discuss the British system of radio control.

Johnson will have the negative and Dennis the affirmative of the question: "Resolved: that the British system of radio control should be adopted in the United States." The question is now being used by the Erie County High School Debating League; and Mr. Haberman plans to arrange for high school debaters from Erie, Crawford, Mercer, Venango, McKean, and Warren Counties to listen in on Friday's broadcast.

The British radio control system is a government monopoly which formulates planned programs which are without the American nuisance of commercial advertising. Britain's air entertainment is financed through a $2.50 tax on each radio upon purchase and a small yearly tax.

It is expected that WLBW will extend its courteous offer of bi-weekly periods on the air for the Speakers.

O. D. K. To Aid Younger In Drive For New Students

A dinner meeting of a new student committee, to be organized by Omicron Delta Kappa for the purpose of contacting prospective students for next year, will be held at Cochran Hall on the evening of March 27.

The new committee will be formed by students representing those districts from which Allegheny draws heavily.

Mr. Paul Younger, field representative of the college, is arranging for the dinner and will assist O. D. K. in their plans to successfully foster this project.

MORE ABOUT RUSHING

The suggestions submitted to fraternities by the Interfraternity Council as a solution for the rushing problem are such as to erase any lingering doubt that it is possible to learn absolutely nothing from experience.

Of course, the proposal is only a suggestion. The only defense that can be made for it must center in its ability to create discussion and enable Council members to sound out their respective fraternities on the rushing problem.

Let us consider the plan outlined, and we can easily appreciate why half of the fraternities disapprove of it.

One month of deferred rushing means just one thing—a situation four times as bad as one week's deferred rushing. As long as there are eight fraternities on the hill, there is going to be a bitter scuffle to obtain freshman pledges. If there were about 200 instead of 100 freshman men in each incoming class, the evil might be avoided. As things are, the sore spot is inherent in the fraternity set-up. To attempt to prevent upperclassmen from doing fraternity missionary work among freshmen by a code of rules is simply putting a challenge to their ability to violate those rules in such a way as to defy detection.

It should not take more than average common sense to realize that one does not make a problem less difficult by putting it aside for a month and then trying to work it out. There are just two alternatives, either of which are preferable to a system involving a strained period of relationships between fraternity men and freshmen.

(1) Return to wide open rushing to take effect immediately after Freshman Week or (2) Have pledging deferred for a semester with no restrictions on rushing. In either case much hard feeling is avoided, but only by the second alternative is the freshman given a chance to really find the fraternity best suited to him. Since the pledge is not financially necessary to the house during his first year anyway, why could he not be allowed independence for the first term?

Inside the Shell

By PROFESSOR DARLING

A shell is a covering, usually hard; it may conceal almost anything from a coiled snake to a four-legged chick. Nearly all kinds of animals produce eggs but only the birds and the reptiles cover the eggs with a hardened shell of lime. Hidden from the view of curious man, the egg may change into a chick or it may form into an ill-smelling gas. For many years these changes remained a mystery but through the efforts of men who have wanted to know what was happening inside the shell much of the mystery has been unravelled and the egg has yielded up its secrets.

Before the shell has been deposited around the egg, a sperm or male cell may have united with the single cell of the egg; this cell of the egg lies between the yolk and the white and is so small that it must be magnified many times before it may be seen. After the two cells have united growth begins and a plate of fifty or more cells is formed, then growth stops; growth will not begin again until the egg is brought up to a temperature of about 103 degrees, then these cells will enlarge and divide. Soon two or more layers of cells exist in this plate, —the outside layer is called the outer skin, or ectoderm, and the lower layer the inner skin, or endoderm; the interesting thing about these two layers is that the outer layer will later produce the brain and nerves, the eyes and ears, and a part of the skin of the bird, while the inner skin will produce the inner lining of the digestive canal and of the lungs. A middle layer of cells develops between the ectoderm and the endoderm, and this will produce all of the other organs of the body including the bones, muscles, and other internal organs.

Changes take place rather rapidly during the first few days of incubation of the egg; within thirty hours a groove develops in the ectoderm, this groove gets deeper and longer until it is about one-fourth of an inch in length,—this is the beginning of the spinal cord of the hen to be. At one end the groove swells out to begin the formation of the brain. By the end of two days of incubation little patches of blood have been formed near the yolk and a heart, merely a bent tube, together with several little veins and arteries are formed. If one should break open an egg that has been incubating for more than two days he will find that the heart is beating regularly and that the blood is flowing through the blood vessels.

The head end of the chick grows more rapidly than the tail end; by the end of three days the eyes are developed, the head is turned and bent to one side. When the egg has been incubating four days one can almost recognize the form of the chick with a head as large as the body and little buds where the wings and legs and tail will later grow. At this stage of growth the little animal appears the same as does a turtle or a pig or a human; even an expert could not tell what it would look like when it grew up unless he knew its parents.

By the end of five days of incubation nearly all of the internal organs are formed,—the lungs, stomach, intestine, kidneys, etc.; the bones are not formed until about the eighth day, the feathers begin to grow a week later. The food which is used to build the chick is carried from the yolk and white by the blood.

The beak of the chick comes to lie near the air sac at one end of the egg and on the twenty-first day the little bird begins to breathe air; it soon picks a hole in the shell and in a few hours by wriggling and kicking the chick will have broken open the shell. It will take a rest for a couple of hours until its feathers have become dried and fluffy; it is then ready to take up its more active duties of life; for a few hours its nourishment still comes from the yolk which has been enclosed in the chick a few hours before it broke open its house. The chick then begins to walk about and to pick,—it picks at anything it sees; it just doesn't know any better than to walk and pick; it soon learns to pick up little grains of food, and if the chick has a real mama it will hover under her wings to keep warm and to come when the maternal cluck is sounded. Walking and picking,—a simple life and a happy chick.

The dean of Western Reserve was handing out diplomas to a long line of M.D.'s when a woman in the audience fainted. In a loud voice the dean asked, "Is there a doctor in the house?"

Entries Are Requested For Philo-Franklin Oratorical Contest

It is an Allegheny tradition that the Philo-Franklin Oration Contest should never be given on the date set in the catalogue; and accordingly this year's freshman speaking contest will be postponed until the latter part of April instead of being held on April 12, the announced date.

Because it followed so closely on the holiday season and conflicted with freshman debate work, the date of April 12 was abandoned. Announcement was made, however, that the freshmen who intend to enter the contest must place their names and subjects with Mr. Haberman before the Easter holidays.

The winner of the Philo-Franklin Oration Contest receives a prize of $25, while the person presenting the second best oration is awarded $15. This prize money comes from a permanent endowment which was secured by the old Philo-Franklin Literary Society before it dissolved about five years ago.

All freshmen students, both men and women, are eligible to compete for the prizes, but only six speakers will be selected for the final contest.

The orations may be on any subject and are limited to 10 minutes time for delivery and 1400-1600 words for manuscript length.

Last year Robert Howe won first prize and Robert Dennis took second place.

Hitler Germany Studied By Der Deutsche Verein

Der Deutsche Verein held its March meeting last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Finney.

A comparison of Germany as it is under Hitler with conditions as they were before Hitler formed the basis for discussion. Richard Smith reviewed the book, "Little Man, What Now?", by Hans Fallada; Charles Bartberger discussed the present political situation in Germany; and Edward Stainbrook reported on the talk by Prof. Paul Tillich in Ford Chapel last Sunday afternoon on the effect of the Hitler regime on religion in Germany.

Sophomore Basketeers Drop First Encounter With Frosh Cagers

The frosh defeated the sophomores 24-10, last Friday afternoon in the first of a three-game series. The winning team consisted of the men who made up the Allegheny freshman team this past season.

The freshmen took an early lead and were never threatened throughout the game. In the first half, the sophomores were slow in getting started and the score stood 10-3 as the period ended.

Robertson was high scorer for the frosh with 8 points, while Horn accounted for two field goals and a foul for the sophomores.

The next game will no doubt afford more interest, as the sophomores will have had the advantage of playing together.

Pan-Hellenic Dance Is Big Success

Black and silver furnished a striking color note in the decorations for the annual Pan-Hellenic dance held in the Allegheny College gymnasium Saturday night from 8 to 12 o'clock.

There was a lowered ceiling, dotted with lights, giving the effect of stars, and the orchestra was seated on a platform which had a background of black, mounted with the Greek letters of the six sororities sponsoring the dance in silver.

Ray Stillwell and his orchestra furnished the music, and the chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Seeley, and Prof. and Mrs. Paul H. Giddens. Miss Louise Reynders was general chairman for the dance, assisted by other Junior members of the Pan-Hellenic board.

About 200 couples were present including the following out-of-town guests: Messrs. Bernard Evarston, John French, John Mason, Harrison Brightman, of Pittsburgh; Howard Burch, Samuel Wilkins, Jesse Johnson, of Warren, Pa.; Frederick Anderson, and Robert Hannum, of Bradford, George Daugherty, of Tarentum; Edwin Shields, Dormont; Eugene and Charles Smitger, of Beaver; Robert Ney, William Wolf, James Bickept, of Monessen; James Stewart and Austin Baltz, of Uniontown; "Bud" Williams, of Fredonia; the Misses Katherine Lynch, Westminster College; Sylvia Hallar, Dormont; Caroline Cochran, Uniontown.

Dr. Tillich Outlines Conflict in Germany Of Hitler vs. Church

Protestant orthodoxy and Roman Catholicism are leading a non-political resistance against the Hitler totalitarian state, and the survival of Christianity in Germany depends on their fight, said Prof. Paul Tillich in his discussion of the religious situation in Germany before an audience of about 200 in Ford Chapel on Sunday afternoon at 4:15.

Dr. Tillich, who came to America in October when he was forced to flee Nazi persecution, was brought to Allegheny through the Sturtevant Lectureship Foundation. President Tolley introduced the speaker and read the chapel ritual, and the Allegheny Singers rendered their ritual selections.

The address was divided into two parts: the first, a discussion of the conflicting religious groups in Germany, and the second, a discussion of the conflicting ideas.

Dr. Tillich explained that the orthodox Protestant and Catholic clergy are in opposition to the Hitler paganism of nationalism and the traditional Lutheran attitude of state and church as separate unities. The religious leaders in the fight to defend the church's rights in Germany do not represent a political faction but an emergency contingent to uphold Christianity, the speaker said.

Christian secularism has resulted in the removal of holiness and sacredness from the church through an attempt to make everything subordinate to human reason by removing the supernatural and irrational and in so doing has made the institution of Christianity susceptible to replacement by the new paganism of nationalism preached by the Nazis, Dr. Tillich said.

Explaining how the Hitler dictatorship has seriously imperiled the existence of Christianity in Germany, Tillich said: "When a nation claims absolute value, then it is claiming divinity for itself and then it becomes a matter of indifference whether or not it acknowledges Christianity. Its mere existence involves a denial of Christianity."

After outlining the failure of Christian Socialists to direct the newly aroused nationalism and class consciousness of the German proletariat toward Christian ideals, Dr. Tillich said: "We cannot tell whether or not the totalitarian state will produce a religion adjusted to its own character as emperor worship was produced in the later Roman empire".

If Germany's emergency group of defenders of the faith and the place of the church in the state fails and Christianity in Germany perishes from all but a handful of the orthodox, the event may serve as an example to save the rest of Christendom from a similar fate, concluded Dr. Tillich.

5 about Cigarettes

Practically untouched by human hands

WE'D like you to see Chesterfields made. We know you'd be impressed by the absolute cleanliness of our factories.

The tobaccos are the best that money can buy.

Expert chemists test for cleanliness and purity all materials used in any way in the manufacture of Chesterfield cigarettes.

The factories are modern throughout. Even the air is changed every 4½ minutes.

When you smoke a Chesterfield you can be sure that there isn't a purer cigarette made.

In a letter to us an eminent scientist says: "Chesterfields are just as pure as the water you drink."

Inspectors examine Chesterfields as they come from the cigarette making machines and throw out any imperfect cigarettes.
