by Jane Parker

One of the highlights of the past Allegheny Homecoming weekend was the colorful displays in front of the dormitories and fraternity houses. The displays were judged at 7:00 Friday night for their originality, neatness, and relativity to the "Harvest Time" theme. The winners, announced during half time at the football game were Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, first place; Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, second place; and Caflisch Hall, third place. The winning "Sig" display, whose slogan was "Gatortine Harvests Wolverines", consisted of an alligator executioner at the side of a guillotine which had just beheaded a Grove City player. Other Grove City players were awaiting their fate in a hay-wagon.

Phi Psi Mower

The Phi Psi display was made up of a football field marked off by pumpkins, cornstalks in the middle of the field from which emerged Grove City players, and Allegheny's coach driving a reaper toward the cornstalks. Their slogan was "Mow 'Em Down, Gators".

A large pumpkin with a bedraggled Grove City player locked inside and a hugh alligator guarding the prison was the display of Caflisch Hall, freshman women's dorm. Allegheny players were gloating outside of the pumpkin prison and the slogan, strung from Section Five to Section One was "We've Locked 'Em in a Pumpkin Shell, and now We'll Beat 'Em all to H--L".

Other Colorful Efforts

Other displays on campus were: The Phi Gam's display of a black artist's palet on which was written "Pumpkins, Cornstalks, Beat Grove City" in florescent paints, "The Fate of the Fatted Wolverine" by the Alpha Chi Rho fraternity which portrayed an Allegheny player turning a spit with an unfortunate wolverine turning on it, and an alligator eating a wolverine, the Theta Chis' "Swan Song for Grove City" in which one of two big swans was beating a bandaged wolverine; the Phi Delts' horn of plenty with an Allegheny player running out with the slogan, "Beat 'Em a Plenty"; Delta Tau Delta's "I Dreamed I Thrashed Grove City in My Maidenform Bra" with a huge alligator and a thrashing machine illustrating this well-known ad; Brooks' colorful red and white rooster with the slogan, "This Wise Rooster Is an Allegheny Booster"; and last but not least the display of Baldwin of a Grove City player being pitched in the hay by an alligator and the slogan "Do You get the Point Grove City?"

Adds Atmosphere

Much effort was put into the displays, both physical and mental, and although they were not all prize winners, they all contributed a great deal to the festive atmosphere of the weekend.

Miss Mary Storer, Mr. Paul Knights, and Mr. H. Douglas Pickering comprised the judging committee this year.

Senior Sign-Ups

All seniors must be registered with the Placement Bureau by Monday. Anyone not registered by that date will not be eligible for job interviews. Even though some seniors are not planning on employment immediately after graduation, Mrs. Jenkins' office wants to have seniors' records on file for future reference.

Forms may be obtained from the Admissions Office or the Placement Office in Bentley Hall.

February Seniors

All seniors planning to graduate in February should file graduation cards in the Registrar's Office by Monday.

Gridder's Victory Highlights Weekend

The 1955 Homecoming Weekend maybe gone but it is not forgotten. From the pep rally Friday night to the homecoming dance at Brooks Hall on Saturday, it was a weekend to be remembered. The crowning event was the Allegheny Gators' 13-7 victory over the Grove City gridders Saturday afternoon at the College Field. The game, scoreless through the first quarter, provided the biggest excitement of the day, especially for the freshmen who happily disposed of their dinks after the final play.

Homecoming Queen Crowned

The pep rally Friday night featured a spectacular flaming-baton twirling routine by head majorette Barbara Hugan. The climax of the evening was the crowning of the homecoming queen by football co-captains Don Barron and Don McArdle. Freshman Faye Weiss was chosen from a field of six nominees which included Bert Samas, Norma Flinchbaugh, Kaye Ellis, Nancy Edwards and Pat Miller. After the pep rally, the Allegheny cheerleaders led the traditional snake dance to downtown Meadville.

Fraternity Wins First Prize

During halftime at Saturday's game the winners of the homecoming displays were announced. The Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity captured first prize with their guillotine display.

The music of Don Charles and his orchestra brought events to a close at the Ebb Tide Dance Saturday evening. The prevailing good weather and the success of the activities of the past weekend combine to give Allegheny one of the best and most memorable homecomings ever.

TRUSTEE GROUP TO INVESTIGATE ALLEGHENY HOUSING PROBLEMS

Concern by the trustees and administration for the problem of student housing has resulted in the adoption of a trustee's report calling for the hiring of an architect and the establishing of a five-man trustee committee to investigate what President Pelletier called in his report "an important problem," the need for adequate student housing.

The report said in part, " . . . after investigation, the committee is convinced that there is a substantial, immediate, and serious need for student housing; that the housing efficiency will become an even more serious problem if the College expands to the authorized maximum of 1200." The report continued, "The College has a responsibility to provide additional student housing."

College, Fraternities Cooperate

The committee called for College-fraternity cooperation in meeting the problem and plans to explore several solutions to the College housing problem.

In addition to the five trustees each fraternity will be requested to name a representative to consult with the committee. The Dean of Students and the Treasurer of the College will also serve on the housing committee, providing financial data, feasible designs, and other matters.

The committee is an outgrowth of several years' work by College officials to improve Allegheny housing. Individual fraternity requests came in 1952 from two fraternities both claiming acute housing problems. The Board of Trustees then set aside a tract of land at the corner of Cullum and College Streets for further College housing.

Meetings Held

Interest in housing development projects became more intense when the Theta Chi fraternity sold its North Main location. Several meetings of interested groups have taken place to discuss the housing problem, culminating in last Saturday's trustees' report.

The Theta Chi fraternity is now residing at rented quarters on Park Avenue. Last semester they lived in the college-owned Prospect House.

Trustee Robert Kirkpatrick and his committee will employ an architect in the near future and consult with College officials on ways of alleviating the College housing problem.

Cadet Band Sparks Allegheny's Morale

by Don Anderson

The Allegheny College ROTC band can be proud of its performance both on and off the field. The unit, under the direction of Cadet Colonel Fritz Fries has made an impression this season, that many say "has not been equalled in recent years."

The 45 piece all-male organization was organized by the ROTC department at the beginning of the current football season from the school's ROTC members.

Builds School Spirit

The band has been instrumental in promoting school spirit in the pep rallies and at the games—none of which have been missed by the organization. Many of the football team members, and scores of students credit the band with helping the team win the Oberlin game. The band was almost the sole Allegheny support for the game and the local fans thought the musicians did their share for the cause.

The halftime shows have been successful, starting with its debut at Thiel College in Greenville. Holdover majorettes Barb Hugan and Sue Reiber with freshmen Barb Batchelor, Pennie Pollock, and Jeanne Showers have provided added entertainment to the shows.

6,000 Fans Impressed

On homecoming weekend the band thrilled the nearly 6,000 spectators with a Glenn Miller show that provided full halftime entertainment. Every partisan fan went home happy when the emotion aroused by the musicians helped beat Grove City 13-7.

After traveling to New Wilmington next week, for the Westminster game, they return for the final home game with Geneva.

The success of the band this season is a good start on what could be a new and important Allegheny tradition. Oddly enough Cadet Colonel Fritz Fries, band director, is also chairman of the AUC Traditions Committee.

TIME MARCHES BACK

Crawford County returns to Eastern Standard Time Sunday morning. Before turning in Saturday night The Campus advises all church goers who want to be on time to set clocks back one hour.

Monday Banquet Signals Fund Drive; Receipts Open Doors For Foreigners

by Bob Silberfarb

Monday night marks the beginning of the annual Fund Drive. Tom St. Clair, this year's Fund Drive chairman, has announced plans for the Kick-off Banquett at Brooks Hall at 6:00 p.m. Monday for those eating at the dining room. Among the participants at the dinner will be the foreign students on campus who are holding scholarships supported by the Fund Drive.

This year four Allegheny students from distant lands are here as a result of previous successful Fund Drives. The list of three Asians and one Latin American includes Heuhn Hahn and Aie Kim hailing from the Republic of Korea, Hironori Onishi of Japan, and Mary Falconer whose home is in Argentina.

Brochures Passed Out

At Monday's banquet brochures and envelopes will be distributed by Fund Drive Committee members to those present. Those freshmen and upperclassmen not eating at Brooks will receive their Fund Drive circulars from representatives assigned by the committee.

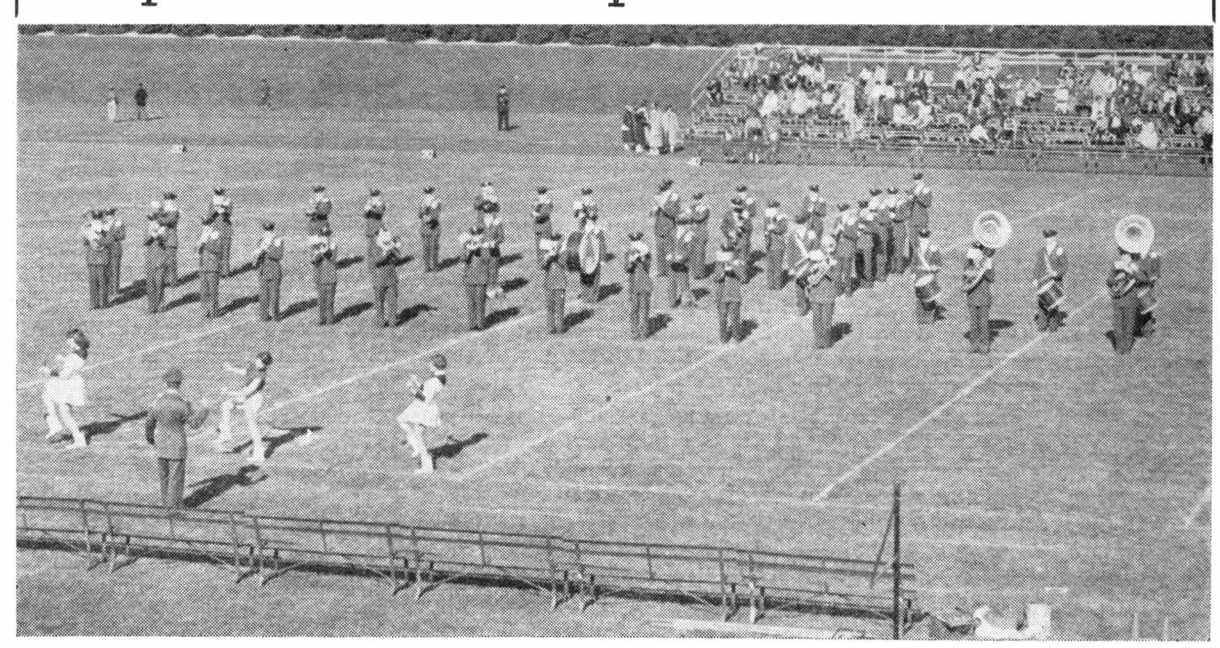

By Tuesday morning each student and faculty member of the Allegheny College community will have received a Fund Drive brochure and donation envelope. St. Clair requests that all envelopes be returned by November 4 whether or not donations are given.

Grill Party Friday

The week of personal solicitations will be climaxed with a Grill Party

SPEAK LOUDER

We need better communication at Allegheny. The College imposes a fine for late registrations, but few people are aware that it exists until they are docked. The Citizenship Committee prepares a Segregation report that receives nation-wide attention, but few people have read it thoroughly. The Social Committee pushes for a $4,300 slice of student money, without the student body being fully aware of this outlandish expenditure until it was passed. There is an even greater need for communication between faculty and students. How many students have any real knowledge of their instructors, their likes and dislikes, except what is given in prepared lectures? A great deal of the disruption and confusion that exists at Allegheny can be obliterated by better communication.

There are several channels we can take to facilitate more effective communication.

First, there is The Campus. The paper is keenly interested in publishing the activities of any and all groups. Our reporters cover many of these events, but we do not have the staff to cover everything that is of interest and concern. We would urge committee chairmen to bring their meeting notices and reports of meetings to The Campus office in the College Union.

Second, there is a weekly calendar distributed by the Student Affairs Committee. We feel that this calendar could contain more information about student meetings and events plus a possible explanation of these events. As it now stands, this calendar is of little value to the College. We hope that the Student Affairs Committee will improve this calendar.

Third, we feel that AUC must improve its communication with the College. Both the president and vice-president of AUC cited the need for better communication as a campaign plan last year, yet they have done little to follow through their campaign promises. The March 24, 1955, issue of The Campus contained the following statement from Bill Regan, then a candidate for the AUC presidency, "I feel that not enough of the College community actually knows what the Allegheny Undergraduate Council does or can do. Our campus government should be brought closer to the students so that it may become more effective in furthering the interests of the Allegheny student body."

Jim Pomroy, now AUC vice-president, declared in the same issue, "In addition to greater representation on AUC, there are other methods which should be utilized to improve communications between student government and the student body."

To date, AUC has done little to improve communications. Were these campaign promises so much "sound and fury signifying nothing?"

The AUC might appoint a public relations officer to compose a weekly news letter for distribution to the whole College, containing information on each of the committee meetings and the general sessions. It is good that AUC publishes and distributes its minutes, but we feel that this does not satisfy the communication problem between AUC and the student body.

There is a need for better communication between students and faculty. Too many of us still think that faculty members are unapproachable, more machine than human. We often feel that to talk freely with the faculty or administration is to incur the disapproval of the peer group, and this is not really the case. We often feel that a person talks only with a teacher, in an effort to pick up points, and this, too, is a shallow and narrow idea.

On the contrary, Allegheny has a fine faculty that is quite willing to talk and fraternize with the students. We hope that more people will take advantage of the opportunity college provides for them to know the faculty and administration. In such informal conversations and meetings, much of the business of education must take place. We are limited as to what we can say in class. Often others want to speak, frequently there is a special amount of material to be covered, sometimes there is not time to fully discuss the matter at hand.

It is time that we destroy the artificial barrier of tradition that exists between faculty and students. The faculty is composed of human beings who are in education because they like students and also like to work with ideas. We have created a false illusion about the faculty; that they are more interested in research on the migration habits of lemurs, than in dealing and discussing matters with students. And this is not the case.

Why have we constructed this artificial wall between ourselves and the faculty? Why can't education be a mutual quest, with mutual respect between faculty and students? Why don't we take advantage of the opportunities of meeting and making friends with the faculty, administration, and other students?

Pins 'n Sins

Dear Clara:

I tried awfully hard not to miss any marriages, engagements, or pinnings when I wrote last week, but, in spite of my good intentions, I did. Nancy Grine and John Dobson are engaged, and so are Bill McMoil and _____. Isn't that great? Gee, wedding bells are really gonna be ringing loud here! And, honey, guess what? Marcia Marten and Don Clark are pinned! Do you know that they have been going together for seven years now? I hate to say anything, but gosh, I hope they aren't being too hasty. And, Nancy Hamberger and Ralph McGarrity (U. of Buffalo) are pinned, too—as are Ann White and Ed Gooding. Love just seems to be sneaking in everywhere, doesn't it, sweet? (ha ha) I met Red Wigton up at the corner today and he told me that he and Bert Samas had a baby dog. His name is Dan, and I've heard from all their neighbors that he's a real cute little guy.

Last weekend was Homecoming here. We had a tremendous time. Everyone went down to the Lafayette. They even had the state cops there! The funniest thing happened. We were all standing around in the halls, and this girl walked in, and somebody yelled out "Gosh, Goodie, whatintheheck are you doing here? You're on Senior Court!!"

Well, there's no more news, so I guess I'll get back to work. Don't feel bad about not being here for Homecoming and the Lafayette and all that. Just remember that college girls are the worst kind, anyway.

Love always,
Marty

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

The purpose of this statement is to clarify the position of the student counselors in relation to fraternity rushing this year. The counselors pledge their co-coperation with the concept of honor in rushing which the IFC has embodied in its program. We believe the following specific points are consistent with our philosophy of counselling and with the IFC policy:

1. Fraternity men shall not be in Freshman men dormitories at any time during the first semester; and at other times only as permitted by the IFC.

2. Counselors shall be permitted contact with Freshman men at any and all times. However, counselors will not influence the Freshman men's choice of social group, by discussion, by wearing pins, or by displaying any other signs of social group affiliation.

3. Counselors will not attend rush meetings and will not give information concerning rushees in any other fraternity meetings.

4. Counselors will not be present in fraternity houses during rush week, and will eat in college dining halls during that week.

For purposes of identification, the following are acting as student counselors for the 1955-1956 school year:

Ernest Schwarz
Don Kimmelman
Jack Cotton
Tom Jones
Kent Ryder
Max Schoenfeld
Bob Meredith
Jim Duratz
Art Blank
Jim Sexauer
Bob Pierce
Ed Gooding
Jay Rudolph
Bob Westlake
Jack Wilson

Faculty Profile

Mr. Richard K. Knaub, Allegheny's new graduate assistant professor of G-1 and stage craft, comes from Rensselaer, Indiana. He is the technical director of the Allegheny Playshop and supervises the scene shop where sets for the plays are built.

After doing undergraduate work for four years at Indiana University in Bloomington, Indiana, Mr. Knaub went into the army for two years as a supply sergeant. Then he went to the State University of Iowa at Iowa City, for graduate work, where he received his master of fine arts degree. At the present time, Mr. Knaub is working on his doctorate.

Mrs. Knaub, majored in journalism and got her bachelor's degree at Simpson College in Iowa and her master's degree from Indiana University. Then she taught for one year at Indianapolis and one year at Iowa City. Joan Knaub met her husband in a play at Indiana University. They have a three-month-old daughter, Miranda.

Golf is Mr. Knaub's hobby, and he sang with the concert choir at Indiana University. He is pleasantly surprised that the students here are of such high intelligence and likes the friendly atmosphere at Allegheny. Mr. Knaub added that his wife thought very highly of The Campus.

Take Note

Socrates Club

"Should Allegheny have a Language Requirement?" will be the topic of this Sunday night's Socrates Club discussion at 8:15 in the College Union. Dr. Robert Crispen will represent the affirmative, while Doctor Samuel Lindley will present the case for the negative. Following introductory remarks by the two, an open discussion will take place. Students and faculty are invited to attend. Next week, Dr. Henry Pommer will lead the discussion on "Living with Uncertainty."

4:20's To Begin Monday

On Monday, October 31, the classical music sessions known as the 4:20's will once again be presented daily in the Craig Room of Reis Library at 4:20 p.m.

Federal Service Entrance Exams

Mr. Paul Coleman of U.S. Civil Service Commission will be on campus all day Tuesday, November 1.

He will be at the College Union from 10:00 to 12:30 and 1:00 to 4:00

At 4:00 he will meet with the senior class. He will be here to explain about the Federal Service Entrance Examination.

Trix At The Flix

by Monte Levitt

Oct. 28-31 (Academy) We're No Angels

Like "Arsenic And Old Lace", Angels tries to prove that murder can be whimsical. It doesn't quite bring it off. Three Devil's Island convicts help a kindly French shopkeeper and his family by—among other things—killing off a scrooge of a creditor and his fopish son, with the help of their pet snake Adolph.

Bogart, Ray, and Ustinov as the three convicts are not fully convincing as murderers and sex offenders—in fact, they seem more like mischievous boys who have run away from school. The French family looks suitably bewildered by everything and Rathbone and Baer, as the mustached villian and his son, are almost greeted by boos and hisses from the audience. The cast never seems able to quite make up its mind as to whether this is a crime story or a farce; the audience may well feel the same way. What the movie needs more than anything else is the firm guiding hand of a director such as John Huston, who could make this another successful tongue-in-cheek "Beat the Devil".

With Humphrey Bogart, Aldo Ray, Peter Ustinov, Basil Rathbone, Joan Bennett, John Baer, and Gloria Talbott. In Vista Vision and Technicolor. Directed by Michael Curtiz.

Like angels with their halos slipping, the movie tends to hang itself.

Oct. 28-29 (Park) The Night Holds Terror

Like "Marty", this is an off-beat production which is being distributed by a major Hollywood company. Written, produced, directed, and edited by Andrew and Virginia Stone, and shot in 18 days on a $67,000 budget, the movie deals with a family whose home is taken over by hunted criminals. After a night of mental torture, the killers kidnap the husband; and the wife finally gains the courage to call the police. Instead of moving swiftly toward the capture of the men, the movie now becomes even more gripping as one of the most suspenseful jobs of police detection ever unfolded by a film.

With Jack Kelly, John Cassavetes, and Hilda Parks.

A taut, tense drama of unrelieved suspense.

Apache Ambush

Oct. 30 - Nov. 3 (Park) Not As a Stranger

An overly long (135 min.) cross between Medic and a soap opera. Robert Mitchum plays a dedicated, but poor medical student who is so devoted to medicine that he marries a frugal nurse to complete medical school on her money. Convinced that doctors are a breed of supermen, he alienates his faculty and later his associates who are not exactly perfect. It isn't until he makes a fatal mistake himself that he realizes that a doctor can't just "practice medicine", but must "treat people". When sticking to medical training practice, the movie is a taut documentary; however it becomes fogged in a cloud of soap suds when dealing with the long-suffering childless wife, the slinky temptress who runs a horse-breeding farm, the death of the hero's best friend, and his final reunion with his wife.

Mr. Mitchum has the well-cultivated ability to hide his emotions, a practice more suited to a doctor than an actor. Olivia de Havilland does a fine job as the loving Swedish wife who is unable to understand what makes her husband tick. Frank Sinatra is one of the realist persons in the film as he portrays a definitely un-dedicated doctor. Broderick Crawford and Charles Bickford are both excellent as two opposing types of older doctors.

Kramer Trys Directing

Stanley Kramer, who has produced an array of excellent thought-provoking movies since 1948 ("High Noon", "Member of the Wedding", "The Caine Mutiny"), has turned to directing in this picture. In taking the story from the best-selling novel by Morton Thomas, Mr. Kramer has cut a lot of the chaff away. He forced his actors to observe operation after operation until they were familiar with the seriousness of their movie words and actions, and his camera moves about the operating room with the assurance of a guest consultant. Mr. Kramer has hit hard and successfully in his treatment of medical school quotas, the stubbornness of established doctors, the struggle between doctors and their reluctant patients, and especially the plight of the poor medical student.

With Robert Mitchum, Olivia de-Havilland, Frank Sinatra, Gloria Grahame, Broderick Crawford, and Charles Bickford. Directed by Stanley Kramer.

A movie with many fine points which could have been improved by a scapel in the editing room.

Nov. 1-3 (Academy) Far Horizons

Hollywood has once again pulverized history in this account of the Lewis and Clark expedition of 1804, through the virgin Northwest to the Pacific. Charlton Heston plays William Clark and Fred MacMurray appears as Meriwether Lewis. Donna Reed portrays — without husband or papoose—the only woman on the trip. Despite Hollywood's attempt to liven things up with fistfights, knife battles, and Indian attacks, from this movie, one wonders whom Lewis and Clark bothered.

With Charlton Heston, Fred MacMurray, and Donna Reed.

New Group Reveals Plans For This Year

by Maureen Mills

Concerning its plans for the year, the 16-member New Group reveals that it is considering various service projects, which will involve the entire college, in addition to its customary open houses — informal social gatherings in which students and faculty are invited to participate.

The New Group, formed early last spring, has no formal organizational structure. Mr. Alfred Kern is faculty adviser to the Group and Bob Isherwood serves as representative - at - large. "We feel," Isherwood states, "that we do not need officers as long as each member assumes a mature and responsible role for furthering the best interests of the College and the Group."

At present the New Group is seeking representation as a social group in A.U.C. It was concluded in a recent straw vote by A.U.C. that the Group is entitled to voting on membership.

Commenting on membership in the New Group a spokesman for the Group declared, "To associate with the New Group, a person need only examine our principles in the light of his own. It he feels the two are similar and if he wants to associate with us, he may do so after discussing the matter with the members. There is no formal membership, and a man may leave anytime he so feels. He is under no obilgation except what he feels is his responsibility towards the group."

Not bound by I.F.C. rushing policy, the New Group has no formal rushing procedure. As a member put it, "We are more interested in making our projects college-wide, than in beaming them at a particular group. All our activities are open to the entire college — both faculty and students. As for discussing the New Group with persons, we feel free to bring this matter up whenever it might fall into the course of ordinary conversation."

The New Group seeks to promote through its specific functions, ideas such as:

1. Better faculty - student relations.
2. A clearer understanding of the goals of Allegheny College.
3. Complete abolition of discrimination on the basis of race, creed, color, social or economic status.
4. A free and natural social atmosphere.

Pelletier Calls For Larger Faculty; Requests Increased Salaries

by Fred Quinn

President Lawrence Lee Pelletier of Allegheny College delivered his report to the board of trustees of the college last Saturday morning in the college library.

The president told the trustees, "No institution, no individual ever stands still. Allegheny must go ahead or its intellectual arteries will harden and it will start down the sorry road followed by too many educational institutions, until the day will arrive when its only mission will be to survive. I don't intend, however, to look down, and I now ask your assistance in the years ahead to maintain and advance the proud state of this institution."

Calling for an expanded faculty, Pelletier remarked, "The faculty has impressed me as loyal and competent, and I am most anxious to be able to retain those who by their excellent work with us will attract the attention of other institutions, and to strengthen the faculty where it appears necessary. To do so will not be easy, because increasing student enrollments will invariably bring more aggressive recruitment by institutions with more substantial financial resources than we possess."

Encourages Languages

"If we are to retain a desirable level of faculty competence, we must constantly strive to increase our salary scale . . . (and) expand somewhat the size of the faculty to meet the increased student body." Mr. Pelletier then pointed out that Allegheny has a 1 to 14 ratio between faculty and students.

Turning to student government,

Fraternity Men Speak With Meadville Alumni

Local alumni met with the representatives from each of the seven fraternities on the Allegheny campus last week.

Discussion centered around the financial management of the fraternities, the poor housing situation, and the large membership, which tends to lose the warmth and fellowship among members.

Local Attorney Voices Opinion

One of the main speakers was George Barco, an alumnus of Theta Chi and a local attorney. He discussed the building of new fraternity houses, which will be decided upon within the next week. Mr. Barco said, "The alumni were pleased and satisfield with the presentation of ideas, and that co-operation and fellowship seemed to exist between actives and alumni."

After retailed discussions on these different topics, the group concluded that the fraternity system won't be leaving Allegheny for a long time.

Gators Chew Wolverines Before 6,000; Villa, Carmen and Croft are Outstanding

by Don McArdle, Football Team Co-Captain

Sporting an almost impregnable defense, the Allegheny College Gators soundly whipped arch-rival Grove City 13-7 before a Homecoming crowd of almost 6,000 at College Field last Saturday.

The Gators' defense permitted Grove City to cross the fifty yeard line only three times while the offense, led by Jim Villa, ground out a total of 237 yards to completely outplay the fired-up Wolverines. The win boosted Allegheny's record to two wins against three losses and marked the first time since 1949 that a Gator eleven has won two games in a row.

Tough Line Holds

Time and time again the Gators penetrated deep into Grove City territory only to be thwarted by the same tough goal line defense which had given considerable trouble to powerful Westminster the week before. Twice in the first half quarterback Graham Hoffman hit receivers for what might have been touchdowns, but both times the play was nullified. He hit end John Arcuri who bolted into the end zone but officials ruled that his forward progress had been stopped soon after the completion.

Just before the end of the first half Hoffman culminated an Allegheny drive by passing to Don Smith in the end zone, but the play was called back because of backfield in motion.

Solid Blocking

The hard charging Allegheny line led by John Carman and Pete Croft held the Wolverines to a mere 89 yards on the ground while the Grover quarterback had to fight off four or five men every time he tried to pass. With the blocking of Carman and Barron particularly noticeable, the Blue and Gold racked up 160 yards on the ground with Pancho Villa leading the way, averaging better than 5½ yards per carry. Graham Hoffman, a freshman, completed 7 of his 15 passes for 85 yards.

Villa scored both touchdowns, scampering over from ten yards out in the second quarter and bowling his way over from the three in the third stanza. The first TD was a culmination of a 60-yard drive which saw Barron, Smith, and Villa grind out yard after yard and Hoffman complete four out of five passes. With the ball on the ten-yard line, Villa slanted off tackle into the end zone and tackle Tom Biggam added the extra point.

Grovers Score TD

In the next series of plays Grover halfback Don Evans scampered off tackle 48 yards to the Allegheny 2 where quarterback Jim Thompson sneaked over for the score.

Halfback Don Smith set up Allegheny's second TD when he took a punt on his own 30, and, behind a solid wall of blue jerseys, ran it back 77 yards to the Wolverine 3. After being held for three plays, Villa finally bolted over for another six points. Biggam's conversion attempt was blocked.

Player of the Week

Jim Villa

This week The Campus would like to spotlight Jim Villa as its choice as the player of the week.

Last week, Jim personally scored the Gator's two touchdowns as he sparked the Allegheny eleven to a 13-7 Homecoming victory over Grove City.

Booters Bow To Grove City 5-1; Defense Folds In Third Stanza

by Dal Matthews

The Gator Booters suffered their second setback of the season, when the booters from Grove City earned a 5-1 victory over Allegheny last week.

With the score tied at one goal apiece, the Grove City booters suddenly came to life and scored three goals in the third quarter and one in the fourth quarter.

After a scoreless first period, in which neither team was able to threaten seriously, the Wolverines scored in the late minutes of the second quarter. A see-saw type of battle prevailed during the first period as neither team was able to penetrate scoring territory.

Strong Defense

The second period found the Wolverines dominating the play. Time and time again, the visiting team from Grove City penetrated deep into the Gators' territory only to be turned back by outstanding defensive play by the Allegheny backfield and goalie Rudolph.

A strong wind prevailing over the afternoon was a strong factor in the second period as the Alleghenians were not able to put the ball in enemy territory with long boots. This lessened Allegheny offensive play and put the burden on the defense.

Early in the third quarter, Bill Regan tied the score with his first goal of the season. This was the last serious threat Allegheny made. With the third period half over, Grove City scored three quick goals within five minutes to take the lead at 4-1.

Once again, the Alleghenians found themselves mostly on the defensive end of play in the fourth period. The Gator fullbacks and goalie Rudolph found themselves facing the entire Wolverine line at times, as the fast moving team from Grove City was breaking downfield in an attempt to score. Grove City scored a fifth goal in this period to end the scoring for the afternoon.

The Wolverines displayed fine passing and teamwork. They were continually running and seemed never to tire, which meant a constant threat to Allegheny's defense.

Oberlin Rivalry

The Gators meet Oberlin College on Saturday at Oberlin. Oberlin is one of the nation's top soccer teams and until beaten by Kenyon College, this month boasted a victory streak of 41 games.

Allegheny Starting Lineup:

INTRAMURALS

The Phi Psis in winning their fifth straight football game clinched first place in the intramural football league with a 12-6 decision over the Phi Delts.

Mel Laskoff was again one of the big guns with touchdown passes to Lee Cabelof and Carl Erickson for the two scores both in the first half. Tom Wisniewski provided the Phi Delt score in the second half on a two yard plunge.

According to Jack Phillips, Phi Psi representative, the win for the Phi Psis was the 23rd straight for the fraternity and the fourth season they have been undefeated in tntramurals.

Delts Runners Up

The Delts assured themselves second place in the league with an 18-0 victory over the winless Chi Rhos. Jim Vance provided a passing attack for two of the Delt tallies to Bill Jack and Tony Marcantonio, while Jerry Stirling passed for the third score.

Next week the Delts will meet the Phi Gams to replay an 8-6 game that the Delts had originally won. An infraction in the playing rules will result in a replay of the Phi Gam-Delt game which, if the Phi Gams should win, reverse the standings of the two clubs.

Phi Gam Chances Better

The Phi Gams kept hopes alive for gaining second place in the intramural race with a decisive 30-0 win over the Chi Rhos. Newton scored twice on passes from Dal Matthews and Bill Bowser to give the winners the first twelve. Matthews ran for two more and caught a Bowser pass for the final marker.

Pelletier's Trustee Report

the president stated, "A remarkable degree of student self-government exists at Allegheny and within the limits of student capacity and willingness to accept responsibility, it should be encouraged."

The president, in reviewing the college curriculum told the trustees, "We should move cautiously for the next few years in making any further fundamental changes in the curriculum," and added that he hoped "some work in foreign languages will be required for a degree" and it would be possible to add courses in Latin and Greek to the college curriculum. "As a liberal arts college, we have been derelict in not encouraging more student interest in both ancient and modern languages," he declared.

History Thesis Prize

It was also announced that a prize in history has been created as a result of a $1,000 gift from Donald Larrabee '99, retired common pleas judge of Lycoming County. Mr. Larrabee, president of the Congress Hall Law Society of Philadelphia, and an officer in the American Historical Association, specified that the undergraduate prize be awarded annualy for the "best thesis or essay in some subject on history, preferably American history." The $1,000 will be invested and the interest awarded annually by a committee composed of the Dean of Instruction, Chairman of the History Department, and another faculty member.

A trustee committee was created to make recommendations to the board on future housing plans for the college. The president, reviewing the matter, called student housing "an important problem."

Budget Presented

Allan A. Edwards, college treasurer, presented a $1,360,554 budget to the board for adoption. Edwards called it "the largest budget in the college's history." The treasurer's report also noted that gross revenues last year totaled $1,277,443 while gross expenditures amounted to $1,269,769, leaving an operating surplus of $7,673.

Paul Johnston was reelected chairman of the board, R. W. Thomas was returned as vice-president and Alexander Hill as secretary.

Establishment of an endowment base for the Allegheny College alumni fund that, starting in 1958, will provide $500 a year in unrestricted funds, was announced at the Saturday meeting.

The endowment is a gift of Paul W. Johnston, Allegheny's board chairman, and Mrs. Johnston, in the name of the Johnston family. It is to be known as the Paul and Dorothea Johnston Alumni Fund.

In separate reports to the board, the president and the treasurer noted the importance to Allegheny of annual gifts for current operating expenses. Such unrestricted gifts are currently running at a rate equivalent to the interest return on an additional permanent endowment of $1,200,000, and account for slightly more than 8 per cent of Allegheny's annual income, according to a presentation prepared for alumni fund workers.

Original Diderot Text Contained In Library

Allegheny's Reis Library contains the original Dennis Diderot encyclopedia which led to radical changes in public thinking. In Diderot's era, kings were in style but this work awakened democratic thinking in men, finally resulting in the French Revolution of 1789.

For the last ten volumes, the publisher felt it wise to censure Diderot's revolutionary thinking. However, the text was finally re-established according to the author's manuscript. The Twenty years of a lifetime were spent in combatting his theological opponents and the prohibitations of a censorship that was venal as well as corrupt, while revising, correcting, and editing his volumes.

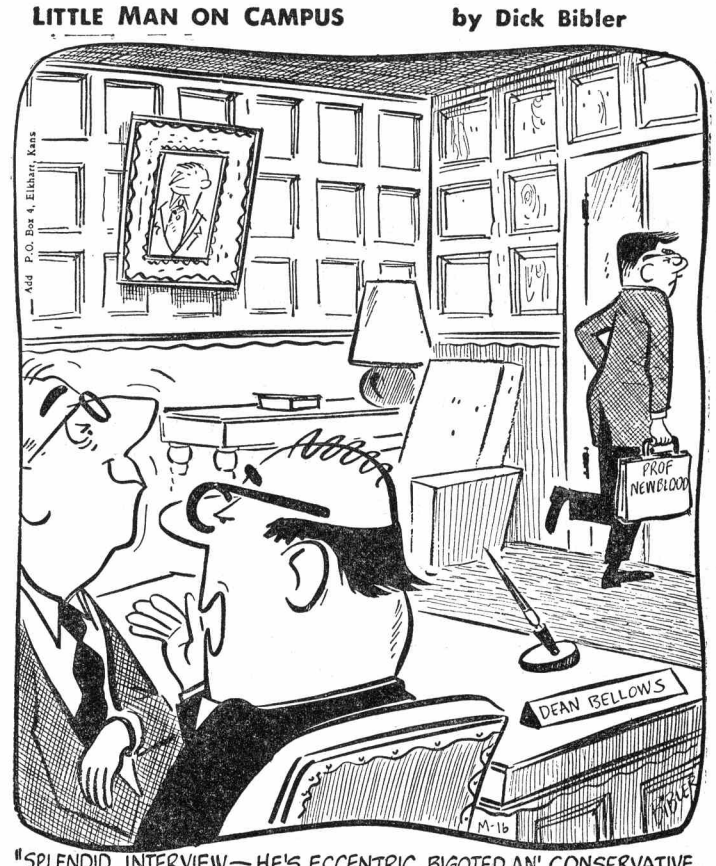

In matters of religion, Diderot attacked his enemies by mocking insinuation rather than by direct attack.

Not only is the democratic doctrine awakened but the volumes are practical as well, in that all branches of science, manufacturing, and agriculture are treated at great length.

There are twenty-one volumes in the set plus two volumes with the tables of references with a mysterious and unidentifiable coat of arms.

Besides these volumes Diderot created enough plates and drawings to fill twelve more volumes with such subjects as architecture, pottery, and mechanical drawings.

WUS Secretary Explains Fund Drive's Donation

by Kathie Gage

Mr. Paul Denise, Regional Secretary of the World University Service in the Middle Atlantic states, was a guest on Allegheny's campus ten days ago. He spoke to various groups on campus concerning WUS and Allegheny's Fund Drive. On Wednesday evening, he answered questions from the faculty and students at an Allegheny undergraduate mass meeting. Mr. Denise, who majored in political science at the University of California, has been affiliated with WUS for the past three years. In 1955 he was chosen to serve in his present capacity. He became interested in the World University Service while serving in the army overseas.

WUS Function

WUS is an organization designed to assist college students in foreign lands. Each year this national service group, which is managed entirely by college students, sets up a budget allotting a certain amount of money to Africa, Europe, the Middle East, Southern Asia, the Far East, the Pacific Region, and North America.

Three major international student organizations participate in the work of WUS; the World Student Christian Federation, Pax Romana, and the World Union of Jewish Students. Each of these has an equal participation in the General Assembly of WUS. Several other international, inter-governmental, and non-governmental agencies are also in close contact with this service. "The aim of the World University Service is to develop relations forming a broad, many-sided structure with all sections of university communities working together internationally and nationally—pooling resources, experience, advice, and encouragement in a united enterprise."

Fund Drive Kickoff

The Fund Drive will get underway with the Kickoff Banquet October 31. At this banquet Allegheny's foreign students will be the speakers. Personal soliciting will be conducted from November 1 to 4 with a Grill Party bringing the money raising campaign to a close. A large share of the funds raised from the campaign will go toward sponsoring foreign students at Allegheny.

In a survey taken last spring, the student body voted that the remaining money should be given for scholarships, WUS, and to the Meadville Community Chest.

Fund Drive Story

Friday, November 4. Chairman St. Clair informed The Campus reporter that his committee has planned many and varied activities this year for the financial goal the Fund Drive hopes to attain.

Of the net receipts that is collected from the Fund Drive, 75% goes to the Allegheny Foreign Students Fund, 15% goes to the World University Service and 10% goes to the Community Chest of Meadville.

The chairmen of the various committees under the auspices of the Fund Drive that will be functioning next week are as follows: Kick-off Banquet, Happy Blanning; Brochures, Pat Bell; Grill Party, Walt Anderson, and Personal Solicitations Lou Hariff.
