Dear Mr. Tubell

It seems finally selfish of me to add no more letters to the many which I know must come to you and yet how can you beard me on the great joy you have given us in writing
"All In A Day's Work".

In the first time in my life I considered myself lucky to be flat on my back for a few days giving me

The opportunity to read that splendid book gives credit to credit.

It is great to have such a life of truth revealed to you such as yours has been.

The early history of the oil industry is one I have heard much that friends who shared in the making as independent oil men so all your story of it was fascinating to me.
From child life, life at College, with Mr. Chase your life in Cairo lured me on with been interest and thus every page you need feeling convinced your truth and give it in every crisis, you loyalty to friends and work make the book of great inspiration to all who read it.

Many many years of my special joy to you is the man of one of the many to whom you have given great joy.

Sincerely

Please do not feel you must acknowledge this note.

Luella Taylor.
