Grove City Defeats Blue and Gold

Allegheny Loses Last Game of Season to Old Athletic Rivals Last Thursday

Dame Fortune smiled on Grove City last Thursday, and the husky Red and White warriors emerged from the annual Thanksgiving contest victors by the score of 9-6. The mildest manner in which the game can be described is that the home aggregation got all the "breaks," and all witnesses of the battle unite in saying that Allegheny was outlucked. This statement, however, involves no disparagement of Grove City's team, for player and spectator alike concede Thursday's opponent to be the most formidable machine turned out by the Mercer County institution for several years. Weight was present in abundance, and the ten-pound advantage over the visitors played a conspicuous part at several stages of the fray. The backfield, besides being heavy, was unusually fast, and exhibited a powerful attack, particularly in the matter of line-plunging. Coach Hammett said that he considered that with the exception of Pitt, Grove City's line attack was harder to resist than that of any opponent met this year. The outstanding star of the opponents was Thorne, quarter back, who last Thursday played his last foot ball game for Grove City. Retaining his composure even in the most trying situations, he instilled his team with fight and was the prominent factor in Grove City's "come-back" after the game was apparently secured for the visitors. It will be remembered that it was this same cool-headed individual who spelled defeat for Allegheny two years ago by means of a long end-run. Other men worthy of mention are Captain Pollock, left tackle, for his all around work, and particularly his line-plunging; Fredley, left half, for his line-bucking; and Brown, right tackle, for his punting. The opposing team was especially strong on the defensive, all the athletes apparently being powerful tacklers. The Grove City coaches, who had witnessed five of Allegheny's earlier contests and were thus well prepared for any style of attack Quarter-back Cox might choose to direct, had devised a defensive formation which proved wonderfully effective against Allegheny's overhead plays, as is evidenced by the fact that out of 23 attempted forward passes, four were intercepted, and twelve others, practically all of which were blocked, were incomplete.

With the aerial means of advance, which has been so effective throughout the present season, so severely hampered, and with a 175-pound line to plunge, it would seem that Allegheny's gains would have been few and far between, but such was not the case, for the Gold and Blue backs seemed able to gain at will at all times. It can be easily seen that the Hammett contingent was outplaying their opponents by the fact that 309 yards were gained from scrimmage as opposed to Grove City's 116, while 21 first downs were made against 10 for the down-staters. Bash, '16, and Arnold, '15, were the most frequent ground-gainers, while Munhall, '16, put up his best game of the season. Throughout the game, but particularly in the last half, the big full back, playing his last college game, tore through the Crimson line for gain after gain, repeatedly hurling himself forward for several additional yards while in the grasp of several opponents. Cox, '16, the fourth member of the great backfield which has worked together for the last time, put up his usual stellar game, and while the heavy Grove City forwards gave him little time to locate his men on the passes, got off several successful heaves. Allegheny's line also did valiant service, continually opening holes through their heavier opponents for good gains by the backs.

The weather conditions were well-nigh ideal, being in that classic condition considered indispensable to the "big" games of fiction—"cool enough for the players, but warm enough for the spectators." There was a complete absence of wind, and had it not been for the rather insecure footing, there would have remained little to be asked for. The wet weather of the previous week had left the black mud in a slippery state, which even the liberally-applied sawdust failed to modify, and the players frequently experienced difficulty in keeping their feet.

The crowd, which had assembled from places at a radius of many miles from Grove City, was large, being estimated at from 1500 to 2000. Although the traditional special train from Meadville failed to materialize, about twenty-five students made the trip, and these were augmented by several scores of alumni and friends of the college, all of whom gave lusty notice of their presence under the direction of Cheerleader L. J. Dundon. '16. Music was furnished by an imported band and drum corps, and enthusiasm was displayed in several ways. After the game Grove City celebrated as only Grove City can celebrate, and the air rang with the strains of that song, made famous in 1913, "Meadville Won't Shine Tonight."

Cox kicked off, and after several exchanges of punts, Allegheny carried the ball down the field, a forward pass putting the pigskin on Grove City's two-yard line with first down and the goal to go. Four times the Gold and Blue backs hurled themselves at the opposing line, only to be thrown back without gain, and Grove City took the ball on downs. Although never approaching so near the coveted goal-line again during the half, Allegheny threatened several times, while the home eleven was continually forced to punt. Pierson's athletes came back strong in the third period, rushing the ball down the field, only to lose possession of it twice on downs within the 25-yard line. The smashing attack was kept up, and a few minutes after the final quarter opened Bash pushed over for a touchdown. Although the goal was missed, the six-point lead seemed safe. Grove City received the kick-off and on two forward passes placed the ball within one foot of the goal-line, from where Thorne recovered a fumbled ball for a touchdown, and a few moments later the winning goal was kicked. Realizing that the only hope of winning lay in open play, pass after pass was attempted. Wishing to change the style of these, Coach Hammett sent Drake, '17, in at quarter. A short time before the game was over, the Grove City line broke through and forced Drake over the goal-line for a safety.

The game in detail follows: First quarter. Cox kicked off for Allegheny, Harbridge receiving on the 18-yard line and returning the ball 14 yards. Brown gained 2 yards; Fredley 1; Thorne 3 on a fake kick play; and Brown punted, the ball rolling over Allegheny's goal-line.

Allegheny put the ball in play on the 20-yard line. Bash advanced 2 yards; Arnold made 6 around the end; and Bash made first down on a 4-yard smash. Munhall gained 3; Arnold 4

Men's Week Services Well Started

ANNUAL MEETINGS HELD THIS WEEK UNDER FACULTY LEADERSHIP.

Last night the Men's Week services, conducted by the Y. M. C. A., were begun. These series of religious meetings have been held annually for a number of years, and have become an established college institution.

The meetings this year differ from those of past years in several respects. In the first place there is no special leader, brought here from the outside for the purpose of conducting the religious campaign. Instead, the meetings will be in the charge of faculty and student leaders.

The main topic for the addresses to be given by the members of the faculty at the evening meetings is "Fundamentals." An innovation is being introduced by the committee in charge by not announcing the speakers before each meeting begins.

Every morning at chapel time, the faculty members who are taking part in the services will deliver short addresses. At noon of each day there are to be brief services, such as have been held in past years, conducted by students.

One of the most beneficial features of "Men's Week" in the past has been the plan of arranging private conferences between the students and the leaders. This practice will be continued this year, the conferences being held with members of the faculty as advisors.

The Y. M. C. A. cabinet has been working hard for some time to make this week a big success, and the results of their labors have more than justified the effort. The program has been well worked out, the speakers carefully chosen and no stone left unturned in the effort to make every feature of the week effective. President Crawford has been in close touch with the cabinet, and has been greatly pleased with the progress that has been made.

All of the meetings, morning and evening, are intended for all of the men of the student body. A cordial invitation is extended to every man whether connected with the Y. M. C. A. or not.

Scannell, '18, Football Captain for 1916

At a banquet given by President Crawford to members of the foot ball team in Cochran Hall last Saturday evening, Martin J. Scannell, '18, was elected to serve as captain of the 1916 eleven. That this player was considered the man for the place is attested by the fact that the vote was a unanimous one, no other candidate being considered. Scannell took part in but one game in his Freshman year, being kept off the squad by an injury. The same injury was in evidence early this season and it was not until the third contest of the year that he was in condition to show his full speed. After that he played a wonderful game at left end, excelling at running down under kicks, spoiling end-runs, and receiving forward passes. He holds the honor of crossing the Pitt goal-line, and he also scored a touchdown against Hiram, both coming by means of forward passes. "Mike" has the fighting qualities for a great leader, and with two more years ahead of him, should establish a great name for himself.

The finely-appointed dinner, at which President Crawford was the host, was attended by the thirteen letter men; Captain Pierson, '16, Captain-elect Scannell, '18, ex-Captain Munhall, '16, Arnold, '15, Cox, '16, Bash, '16, Kramer, '16, Curry, '16,

November Literary Monthly Appears

REVIEW OF ITS CONTENTS SHOWS SOME UNUSUAL FEATURES.

The Literary Monthly staff, in publishing the November issue of that magazine, has given to the student and alumni a finished production which compares favorably with any issue of recent years. In the originality of the contributions and the wide variety of themes which are touched upon, lie the reasons for the success of this number.

Noticeable among the contributors this month are two of the men of the Freshman class, both of whom contributed poems. There are in addition a number of the members of the other three classes who have submitted articles of real merit.

Upon opening the November "Lit." the reader is first attracted by a sonnet, written by J. N. Pieros, '19, entitled "War." Mr. Pieros has written in a finished, original style which appeals greatly to those who appreciate literary merit.

John C. Weaver, '17, is the author of the second number, an essay on "The American College." Mr. Weaver treats his theme from the "student's point of view." He gives his views of the attitude of the average student toward college activities and compares the choice of subjects usually made by the student with that recommended by the Conference on the American College, which was held here last June. The material is well handled and the literary style, excellent.

A poem well worth the attention of every student and alumnus is "The Pink Brocade," by Miss Ruth M. Miller. Miss Miller has had remarkable success in writing scenarios for moving pictures, and one of her best productions was based upon this poem. The poem deals with the history of an old brocade dress which was worn at a Christmas ball in war-time. The parting of the young soldier from his sweetheart on the eve of battle, the great battle on Christmas day, and the return of the soldier lover, are introduced in the poem. The theme is well chosen and admirably handled.

Miss Helen C. Easterwood, '18, contributed a clever sketch entitled "Local Color," in which the last days before the bidding day of the sororities are described. The contrasts of hope and despair are cleverly made in a decidedly humorous article.

Robert H. Howell, '19, is the author of a charming little poem entitled "A Summer's Fancy." The poem is a bright, fanciful and dainty tribute to the canoe which is such a true companion during the summer months.

A well-planned and skillfully written short story by "E. M. F." is one of the best articles in this issue. The story of a shop-girl who becomes a motion-picture actress is related in a sympathetic style which is admirably fitted to the theme.

Another contribution, by R. L. Weide, '17, is a poem entitled "Autumn Reverie." Both in style and subject matter it is worthy of much commendation. The poem is one of great merit both as a literary production and as food for thought.

Another short story is "Fools Rush In," written by "16." A novel attempt at robbery is related in a breezy manner that sustains the interest of the reader until the last word has been read.

The issue is completed by several humorous contributions under the head "Verse and Diverse," and a well-written editorial on "The Silent Drama."

The Fraternities Announce Pledges

BIDS ISSUED TO FRESHMEN FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

The six fraternities of Allegheny celebrated the fourth annual Bidding Day last Friday, and as a result more than two score of Freshmen are wearing pledge-pins of the various Greek letter organizations. In the past the "spike" has not been held until after the mid-year examinations, but a special agreement placed it earlier this year, and to all appearances the November date is far more satisfactory. The bids were given out at Cochran Hall at 1 o'clock, and the answers were required within an hour. The list of pledges follows:

Basketball Begins to Claim Interest

OUTLOOK GOOD FOR A SUCCESSFUL SEASON—FOUR LETTER MEN IN SCHOOL.

Now that the 1915 foot ball season is a thing of the past, all eyes are turned toward the gymnasium, and speculation is rife as to the prospect of turning out a winning team at the great indoor game.

Since the middle of October, the pre-season squad, composed largely of Freshmen, has been in action three days a week. This has been under the direction of Humbert Bianchi, '18, and has been given thorough coaching in the fundamentals. Scrimmage has been the rule since the first two weeks, and some lively actions have taken place. The outfit which has generally played under the name of first team is Bianchi, '18, and A. W. McKinney, '19, forwards; C. E. McKinney, '17, center; and Volk, '19, and Lane, '18, guards. Of the new men, the one who has attracted the most attention is Volk, a product of McKeesport High School. He appears to be one of the best running guards

NOVEMBER 30, 1915

A college is advertised in a great many ways. In fact every action by any organization connected in the past or present with the college draws the attention of the outside world more or less to the institution. Every alumnus is a credit or a discredit to his alma-mater—he involuntarily draws attention to the college through himself.

In one way this is fortunate that it is so easy to make an institution known and advertise her activities and merits. But in another way "easy advertising" is unfortunate because it cannot be controlled. If it were made certain that all advertising was good advertising, then the matter would need no second thought. But such is not the case.

The point is how are you advertising Allegheny? Every undergraduate bears witness for good or bad to the college. It is the natural course of events and cannot be avoided. When a student enters Allegheny he may be of an entirely different turn of mind than when he leaves, but no matter what his attitude when he enters, when he is graduated he is an Alleghenian. Four years' association with things Alleghenian, as intimate as associations at Allegheny are, cannot but leave a permanent impression upon the character of every student. Every contact, from the character of the professors to the impression of the athletic teams on players or rooters, from the intangible scholastic influence of Allegheny herself in the educational world to the influence of social affairs, each one plays its part in making up the woof of character of an Alleghenian.

Then the outside world sees the result and judges the college by it. Therefore the importance lies in the way each student reacts to the influences surrounding his course at Allegheny. How do you look on the college itself as a whole? This is the very essence of college spirit and calls out every least bit of love or respect you may have for this institution we call Allegheny. Remember that the four years at Allegheny are moulding the rest of your life. Other influences will naturally enter, but the first foundation is laid here. Other influences will have to rest on it. As a man or woman you will be judged as an Alleghenian. Is it to be to the credit or to the discredit of Allegheny?

MEETING OF THE PETIT SALON.

On last Monday afternoon Le Petit Salon held its regular meeting in the Hulings Hall parlors. A most interesting program was enjoyed. The subject for discussion was Rostand and his works. Miss Margaret Ross, '16, gave a sketch of his life in French. The afternoon was made especially interesting by resumes of two of his works. Miss Ruth Deland, '17, reviewed his "Cyrano de Bergerac" and Miss Mildred Hazen "Les Romanesques." Refreshments were served by an entertainment committee and everyone spent a most enjoyable afternoon.

Ford Overcoats $15.00 at Veith's.

BIOLOGY CLUB MEETING.

On last Tuesday evening Tingley Biological Club held its regular meeting. The meeting was in charge of Miss Marion Miller, '16, and the subject for discussion was "National Preservation." Miss Emma Waring, '16, read a paper on "Forest Preservation" and Miss Miller one on "Preservation of Our Birds." An informal discussion was held and then the new members were properly initiated. Those taken into the club were Miss Ethel Kleckner, '16, Miss Ruth Pitt, '17, J. W. Hazen, '18, J. M. Neill, '17, W. J. Hutchison, '18, W. C. Richey, '18, and C. H. Hodgkinson, '17. Appropriate refreshments were served by the committee, Miss Tillie Bitler, '16, and Miss Helen Hasek, '16.

Four Glee Club Concerts Scheduled

MUSICAL SEASON OPENS NEXT WEEK AT GREENVILLE.

Manager H. B. Kahle, '17, has announced the dates of four of the Glee Club concerts which have been scheduled. On December 6, the musical clubs will give a concert in the Opera House at Greenville. On Thursday of the same week a three days' trip will begin, the clubs appearing in Corry on the 9th, in Warren on the 10th, and in Erie on the 11th. All of the concerts given on this trip will be held in the high-school auditoriums.

The delay in announcing these dates has been largely due to difficulty in securing faculty approval for them. The uncertainty which has existed, upon the part of the faculty, as to the exact time for Men's Week, made it very difficult for the manager to complete his schedule. The Greenville concert was originally arranged for December 3; tickets were sold, advertising matter distributed and the theatre secured. The decision of the college authorities not to allow the concert on that date was responsible for the change.

The club has been meeting regularly twice a week with Professor Manville at the College of Music besides practicing on the hill under the leader, W. L. Scott, '16. A number of new features have been added to the type of program as presented in former years and it is expected that the club as a whole will meet with greater success than ever before.

The program is at present in the hands of the printer, and cannot be announced. It includes, however, a well balanced collection of glees, madrigal, and choruses, with two quartet numbers. The second part is to be informal in the nature of an up-to-date minstrel show and includes several bits of local color that are sure to add greatly to the life of the evening.

L. H. McKay, '16, is to accompany the club as violinist, and will appear in a solo number in the first part of the program, and as accompanist for the minstrel numbers of the second part.

On Thanksgiving morning an early sunrise prayer meeting was held in the College Chapel. Miss Helen P. Mackenzie, '16, conducted the service. She made the meeting very interesting and helpful. At such a time as Thanksgiving everyone is grateful for the many blessings of life and especially glad for the chance to express deep appreciation for these blessings. Miss Bessie Preston, '17, gave a pleasing vocal solo.

The members of the Freshman class held a dinner party in Cochran Hall last Wednesday evening. About forty-eight couples were present and were served a delightful six-course dinner. The chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. G. E. Snively, Dr. and Mrs. F. G. Henke and Dr. E. A. Smith and Miss Louise Chase, '10. Lord's orchestra played a number of pleasing selections during the banquet.

Professor Harry Ward, of Boston University, occupied the chapel hour on Saturday with a short address on Social Service. He first gave several illustrations of the industrial conditions which are to be found so generally throughout the country. He deplored the fact that the laborers, no matter how hard they struggled would never be able to give their sons educational opportunities. He spoke of the college group as a group of special privilege, and showed that the workers want to know if any results are going to come from this group. On completing his education, the college man has his choice of three attitudes: he can be an exploiter, a parasite, or a servant. The true attitude for a Christian college student is to be a servant of mankind. A motto recently formulated by some of the more broad-minded business men is: "The only justification for business is service." The call for service applies to women as well as men. Professor Ward spoke twice on Sunday in the Stone Church and in the afternoon addressed a large audience in the Court House.

Last Thursday morning the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A.'s held a joint prayer meeting in the Chapel at seven o'clock. Miss Helen Mackenzie, '16, was leader and the meeting proved to be most helpful to those who were present.

BASKET BALL BEGINS TO CLAIM INTEREST

of recent years, is extremely fast, handles the ball like a veteran, guards closely when necessary, and is a sensational shot from any position. McKinney, '19, of Corry, has developed a great deal since his first appearance, and has an exceptionally good eye for the basket. Judd, '19, of Meadville, has possibilities as a center. Aside from the men listed, the Freshman class has not as yet presented any men of 'varsity squad calibre, but it is believed that several good basket ball men have been out for foot ball.

The great majority of Allegheny's court stars are also foot ball men, and so have been prevented from getting into action thus far. Some of them will come out at once, and the entire squad should be in uniform within a week. The men of known ability who have been performing on the gridiron are Captain Cox, '16, McKay, '16, Bash, '16, Kramer, '16, Miller, '17, Askey, '17, and Engstrom, '18. H. B. Kahle, '17, who broke a collar bone in the Phi Gam-Phi Psi game, will probably be unable to play, at least before the Christmas recess.

Although the two 'varsity guards of 1914-15, ex-Captain Graham, '15, and Dunbar, '15, were lost by graduation, and substitute Guard Barnhart, '17, failed to return to school, all indications point to developing one of the fastest teams on record. Four former letter men, Cox, Bash, Bianchi and McKay, are at present available, and it is practically certain that all will be in the playing lineup, although it is not yet known how the combination will be arranged. Either Cox or Bianchi will be shifted to guard, thus leaving but one berth to fill. The choice for the remaining guard position will lie among Miller, '17, Volk, '19, Engstrom, '18, and Askey, '17. Kramer will probably again be substitute center, and should Kahle get into shape, he will look the best for substitute forward, with McKinney, '19, as second choice.
