

February 4, 1922

Dear Ade:

Don't think I have forgotten you. I expect that like you I am submerged - you with your college work - I with Owen D. Young. I hope you are not feeling as baffled as I am. I need another year on the book and must turn it in next week.

I think I told you I put down some random and unimportant impression of Arizona at the request of my pet editor on the Delineator. They cut out my serious discussion and what is left I am sending to you. It will ease my mind if you are as severe with me as I was with you about your tale of horror.

Love to you

Mrs. Fred McCormick
University Station
Tucson, Arizona