Pneumonia Takes Life of Well-Known Writer and Lecturer.

Miss Ida Minerva Tarbell, aged 86 years, dean of American women writers and an alumna and trustee of Allegheny college for almost 32 years, died early last Thursday morning at the Bridgeport hospital, Bridgeport, Connecticut.

Her death was attributed to pneumonia. She had been admitted to the hospital on December 27 from her home in nearby Easton where she lived with her sister, Miss Sarah A. Tarbell.

Known most widely for her books on Abraham Lincoln, she was, nevertheless, a biographer of many other famous personages, and an historian of certain economic trends which made history in the nation.

Miss Tarbell was claimed by Meadville not only because she was graduated, after four years of study, from Allegheny college in 1880 with the bachelor of arts degree; but because she lived here from 1883 to 1891, while serving as assistant editor of The Chautauquan, then published here.

She had been closely in touch with the college throughout the years, earning the degree of master of arts in 1883, and being awarded that of doctor of humane letters in 1900, and doctor of laws in 1915.

Miss Tarbell's collection of Lincolniana is considered the finest personal collection in the country, and ranks high among all Lincoln collections. Most of it was presented to Allegheny college and is housed in the Lincoln room in Reis library, which Miss Tarbell herself established. The balance of her Lincoln collection was promised to the college upon presentation of the first of the material.

In her honor the Reis library was closed from 2:00 to 2:30 on Sunday afternoon. Special memorial services for Miss Tarbell are planned for the near future, it was announced by Philip M. Benjamin, librarian.

Miss Tarbell was born on a farm in Erie county on November 5, 1857, the daughter of Franklin S. Tarbell and Esther Ann McCullough Tarbell. During her childhood she witnessed dramatic events of the early oil industry, which served as a background material for her series of oil articles which was published in 1904—two volumes entitled "A History of Standard Oil Company."

When she matriculated at Allegheny college in 1876, she was one of five girl students of the college, and in her autobiography "All in the Day's Work," published in 1939, tells much of student life of the time, especially of the reluctance with which many people approved co-education.

After the eight years spent by Miss Tarbell on The Chautauquan staff, she went in 1891 to Paris, France, where she was a student at the Sorbonne and at the College of France until 1894.

Following this period she was on the staff of McClure's Magazine as an associate editor; in 1906 she severed her connections with McClure's, and with several other writers organized the American

Next C. M. A. Concert To Be Held January 27

Maurice M. Lord, conductor of the Meadville Symphony orchestra, has announced that the next concert will be held under the auspices of the Civic Music Association on Thursday, January 27, in the Meadville high school auditorium.

Dvorak's New World Symphony in four movements will be presented and the Nutcracker Suite by Tchaikowsky. The complete program will be announced later.

To attend this concert students should present their activities tickets at the Meadville high school auditorium on the evening of the concert.

Arsenic and Old Lace To Be Repeated

Sorce Returns to Head Second Community-College War Bond Drive This Month.

The playshop production, Arsenic and Old Lace, will be presented on January 29 as a featured part of the second annual community-college war bond drive.

In November, 1942, the first drive of its kind in the country was launched by the city of Meadville in co-operation with Allegheny college at the suggestion of an Allegheny student, Joseph J. Sorce, now a corporal and a gunner in the Army Air Force stationed at Brooksville, Florida.

The idea was to present The Spider, a 1942 playshop production, together with a male chorus, and charge as admission the purchase of one bond. This show was presented with much student-citizen enthusiasm at the high school and the results were successful beyond expectation. The drive yielded for its first week $1,257,000.

This year the idea is to be repeated by producing Arsenic and Old Lace as the main feature and having as a special attraction an address by the originator of the idea, Corporal Joseph J. Sorce, who will arrive in Meadville on January 19 to take complete charge of the drive. The commanding officer of the Brooksville camp granted the furlough requested by the bankers of the city. Cpl. Sorce will have Nancy Sutton, his aide of last year, as his assistant on the college campus.

The quota given the Meadville area for the fourth war loan is approximately $3,200,000. During his fifteen-day furlough Cpl. Sorce will be present everywhere in his effort to raise the amount. He will make general contacts with large bond buyers, hold meetings in local factories, and appear as speaker at various luncheon clubs as well as make a general appeal before the audience gathered to enjoy Arsenic and Old Lace.

Cpl. Sorce will also act as liaison officer for wounded veterans who, it is hoped, may be assigned to Crawford county.

The efforts of John Hulbert and his cast in repeating their success—

Air Corps Artist's Work Is On Display

Seven new pictures on exhibit in the Reis library are the work of A/C Roy Z. Chamlee, Jr., a member of the 31st Training Detachment at Allegheny college.

Chamlee, who is already a recognized figure among the young artists in the country, was recently granted a furlough to attend the unveiling of his portrait of Dr. Sutton, superintendent of the school system in Atlanta, Georgia, which is Chamlee's home town.

The pictures at the library give us an opportunity to see the types of work he does.

There are two humorous sketches, "Gig line" and a caricature of an officer; two portraits, one of his roommate and the other of Allegheny's Professor Gilbert; two Meadville scenes and a Crucifixion scene.

Miss Miriam Brubaker of the art department, in commenting on these pictures, stated that Chamlee shows a great range of ability—handling humor, character and mood with equal dexterity, as well as having an eye for color. His portraits are excellent likenesses and an interesting note is his use of light from the rear. The water color of Meadville captures skillfully the feeling of a grey day that we know so well, while another Meadville scene, "Dawn behind Cafilisch," shows an excellent use of color. The very simplicity of his humorous pictures is their strength. Miss Brubaker concurred with the statement that his Crucifixion scene was a strong piece of work with depth of feeling.

Chamlee left Allegheny last Tuesday with his flight group. He stated that he liked it very much here and is planning to come back some day.

Ditty To Fill Snell's Position As Campus Head

Merrill, Risser, Hanley and Weber Selected To Fill Other Positions.

Mildred Ann Ditty, '46, has been appointed to succeed Charlotte Snell, who will graduate at the end of this semester, as editor-in-chief of the Campus.

Air Crew Had Passes At Christmas

The men of the 31st College Training Detachment of the Army Air Corps were the recipients of a three-day pass over Christmas. The leave began at 4:30 p. m. on Thursday, December 24, and ended at 10:30 Sunday night, December 26.

Previously, a party had been planned for the students, but since there were only 75 men here over Christmas, it was called off. However, numerous presents were made by various organizations of the community. The Salvation Army presented the gift of a Christmas sock containing comb, brush, candy, cigarettes, etc., to the aviation students; the Jewish Welfare board gave candy and cigarettes, and each student was offered the opportunity of telephoning home at the expense of the Chamber of Commerce. The men who remained over Christmas were treated to a special dinner.

On January 11, Flights 3 and 4 left Allegheny. Like the last two groups which left, these men held a farewell party at the Meadville Country club on January 6. A new attraction at this party was a floor show. Music was provided by the Air Corps Detachment band under aviation student Harry Engel. Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Long were special guests of the men.

A new group is expected in the near future to replace the men who have left.

Dr. Schultz to Speak at New Castle Graduation

President John Richie Schultz will deliver the annual commencement address at the New Castle senior high school on January 18. The subject of his address will be "O, What a Beautiful Morning."

This week Dr. Schultz has been in Cincinnati, Ohio, attending a meeting of the Association of American Colleges and Church-related Colleges. On January 21, he will attend a meeting of the Pennsylvania college presidents at Harrisburg.

At the commencement exercises of the University of Pittsburgh on January 28, he will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree. Dr. Schultz will speak at the exercises which will be held in the Stephen Foster Memorial Chapel, located on the University of Pittsburgh campus.

Other appointments to date include Jean Merrill, '44, as assistant to the editor, as well as James Jenkins, '44, who will continue to serve in that capacity. Joan Risser, '46, has been selected news editor, while Janice Hanley, '46, will fill her position as assistant news editor. Replacing James Jenkins as sports editor is James Weber, '47, who will also act as assistant news editor. New reporters chosen from sophomores and freshmen who tried out last semester are listed on the new masthead.

Ditty has been writing for the Campus for a year and a half, acting as news editor this past semester. She is a member of the Philo-Franklin Union, Chemii, German club, Heelers, and holds a seat on the A. U. C. She is a member of Alpha Chi Omega social fraternity.

Merrill has served in the capacity of feature editor of the Campus this year and is assistant editor of the Allegheny Literary Magazine. She was elected to Phi Beta Kappa as a junior. She is president of Ter-rapin and a member of the Junior Advisors, Outing club and Alpha Chi Omega.

Risser wrote for the Campus her freshman year and served as assistant news editor last semester. She is a member of Cwens, Heelers and Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Weber, a freshman, has been writing news and covering varsity sports this year. He has been active in playshop production and will be remembered in the title role of Aladdin. Hanley has also served on the Campus staff since her freshman year and is corresponding secretary of the Allegheny Christian council, a member of the Outing club and Alpha Xi Delta.

The annual staff shakeup, because of mid-semester graduation, took place now instead of in the spring as customary. The present editor and Frederick F. Seely, faculty advisor, made the appointments.

Tea Given Last Sunday By Mrs. Schultz

Mid-semester graduates were entertained at a tea in the home of Mrs. John R. Schultz last Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Herbert S. Rhinesmith poured and was assisted by Mrs. Armen Kalfayan. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Buckingham, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick F. Seely, Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Cares, Mr. and Mrs. Armen Kalfayan, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert S. Rhinesmith, Mrs. Lee D. McClean, Miss Blair Hanson, Miss Laila Skinner, Mr. Albert E. Ogilvie and President John R. Schultz.

Instead of holding separate commencement exercises now, the graduating seniors voted to have their names printed on the spring graduating programs. At that time they are all invited to return and participate in the graduation exercises.

EXAMINATION PERMITS REQUIRED

Following a procedure inaugurated last spring, students are required to secure examination permits at the treasurer's office stating that all their college bills have been paid. These permits must be shown to obtain admission to all final examinations. Students who have not yet called at the treasurer's office, for their permits are asked to do so before their first examination.

AS WE STEP ASIDE

Truly apropos of the times, as students whirl about in the hurry-flurry of exams and new schedules, the Campus itself is undergoing a shake-up. With this issue the old staff slips quietly over the hill and a new one comes to take its place. We who leave look to the future with some sadness, for although the experience awaiting us—that of becoming freshmen in a world-wide school—promises to be extremely fascinating in the next few years, still we shall leave behind a new semester chock full of plans and news-making events.

But we do not look back upon the past issues with any ounce of regret. We have done our best to fulfill the double goal set up last spring—that of printing every bit of news which might be of interest to students past and present, and that of regularly sending our paper to former students now in the services. The quantity of letters from all parts of the world which fills our mail box every week is certainly proof that this work, small as it may be in comparison with that being done elsewhere, is a work not in vain. There is a bond of cherished memories linking Alleghenians of all ages, and in giving new life to this school we are repaying a debt to those who passed their heritage to us. Many new births have taken place this past semester; we have tried to keep the paper in tune with the changes, and know that the pace will advance rather than slacken under the new staff.

Many thanks to all who helped make these endeavors a lot of fun and satisfaction. It is not necessary to mention that the experience has been instructive; any undertaking affords that. But the companionship and teamwork of our Monday and Tuesday nights mean more to an editor than could possibly be said.

C. S., '44.

IDA M. TARBELL

"Distinguished alumnus, faithful trustee, generous benefactor of Allegheny College." Ida M. Tarbell's relation to the college, is, we thought, fittingly summed up by this statement on the memorial in Reis library, which houses as one of its treasures her Lincoln collection.

She had lived a full and active life and was truly the dean of women authors in this country. Allegheny can indeed be proud of having had her as a member of this institution. Her life stands as an inspiration to the women of America.

One of the best—and simplest—tributes to Ida Tarbell appeared in the New York Times on January 7:

"Her writings were not feminine in that old-fashioned sense of the word. Her intellect was cool and calm. She was never sentimental and never cynical. In personality, however, she was supremely feminine, acquiring with years a lovely motherly and grandmotherly quality. She took an interest in young writers, and there must be many who mourn her now and will remember her with lifelong gratitude—including some no longer young.

Her most persistent literary interest was Abraham Lincoln. Latter-day research has added something to the material she was able to gather, but her work in this field will be on any small shelf of Lincoln books for countless months to come. She was as honest, as kindly, as thoroughly American in the loftiest sense as he was. He would have loved and understood her as she did him."

Editor's Note: There will be no issues of the Campus on January 20 and January 27, due to examinations and mid-semester vacation.

The Social Whirl

By PEGGY OWENS

With final examinations an event of the very near future, Campus social doings are crowded into the background a little more than we would like them to be.

Maggie Sullivan has been a recent guest of Alpha Chi Omega. She will resume her studies at Allegheny this coming semester.

Alpha Gamma Delta announces the recent engagement of Jane Ann Flemming, '45, to Lt. Philip Depp, '43, of the United States Marines.

The Alpha Xi's gave a surprise party for Jane Sinclair, '44, last Sunday evening after the recent announcement of her engagement to Jack Struve, ex '44.

Kappa Alpha Theta announces the marriage of Elaine Alexander, ex '46, and Walter Klein, '43, Sunday, December 18, 1943, at the home of the bride's parents. Caroline Dawson, '44, was the maid of honor and Al Lammert, '44, was the best man. Just before she left school, Elaine was entertained by members of the sorority at a surprise shower. The Thetas announce the engagement of Ruth Ann Alexander, '45, to Ensign Wally Hanson, '43.

Theta Upsilon announces the recent engagement of Caroline Snell, '45, to Robert Brampton of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The marriage will be an April event. Jacqueline Ragner has been named new treasurer of Theta Upsilon and Marjorie Keppie the new vice-president. Joan Bell, ex '45, was a guest of the past weekend.

NEW BOOKS

by Jean Merrill

I feel I should mention first My Native Land by Louis Adamic, Chosen Poems by Harriet Monroe, and Autobiography by John Cowper Powry, all of which you will want to read.

Now, in a vein of personal prejudice, I wish to enthuse in behalf of two paperback Samuel French editions of Saroyan plays—Love's Old Sweet Song and Time of Your Life. The author's prefaces to these plays are not among their least charming characteristics. His "Shawian" arrogance is refreshing—and his contribution in these few pages is invaluable to the philosophy of literature. I can attempt eloquence in behalf of Saroyan, but I'd rather he sold himself. The following passage which precedes Time of Your Life is the essence of Saroyan's message to the common man. It speaks for itself.

"In the time of your life, live—so that in good time there shall be no ugliness or death for yourself or for any life your life touches. Seek goodness everywhere, and when it is found, bring it out of its hiding place and let it be free and unashamed. Place in matter and in flesh the least of values, for these are the things that hold death and must pass away. Discover in all things that which shines and is beyond corruption. Encourage virtue in whatever heart it may have been driven into secrecy and sorrow by the shame and terror of the world. Ignore the obvious, for it is unworthy of the clear eye and the kindly heart. Be the inferior of no man, nor of any man be the superior. Remember that every man is a variation of yourself. No man's guilt is not yours, nor is any man's innocence a thing apart. Despise evil and ungodliness, but not men of ungodliness or evil. These, understand, have no shame in being kindly and gentle, but if the time comes in the time of your life to kill, kill and have no regret. In the time of your life, live—so that in that wondrous time you shall not add to the misery and sorrow of the world, but shall smile to the infinite delight and mystery of it."

Lavelly Is Speaker At Senior Banquet

Members of the class of '44 held a banquet Tuesday night in Brooks dining hall. Dr. Horace Lavelly was guest speaker for the evening.

Members of the graduating class of May, 1944, were invited to attend.

The program following the dinner included a resume of her four years at Allegheny by Jane Sinclair, '44, a humorous reading by Arlene Fegley, '44, and piano selections by Anne Schiewe, '44.

All girls interested in a special class devoted entirely to diving, see Miss Mary Morison of the physical education office immediately. A class will be scheduled if enough show the desire for one.

MEET THE FACULTY

By HELEN HOUGHTON, '46

MRS. GLENN STANFORD:
Department of Speech

Whenever I used to hear the term "alumnus" I immediately thought of someone about sixtyish, very stodgy and settled in his ways, who once a year attends an alumnus dinner and reminisces enthusiastically about "old times." Then Mrs. Stanford came along—and I had to add a postscript to my definition. P.S. "Alumnus" can also apply to someone under thirty, very pretty, and awfully nice. Which all goes to say that Mrs. Stanford graduated from Allegheny in 1939.

A master's degree in drama and speech from the University of Michigan followed. Then there was a very interesting summer at the Mohawk Drama Festival in Schenectady run by Charles "Damn the torpedoes" Coburn. Walter Hampden, Denis King, Cornelia Otis Skinner and Nancy Coleman were among those present. But out of a whole summer spent among fame, her only recollection is that "Denis King scratched my back." That fall she accepted a position at Lynchburg college teaching drama and speech. As full proof of the well-argued belief that a teacher's life is not as hard as a student's, Mrs. Stanford also appeared in a production of "The Women," directed student productions and worked in a nearby radio station. To make her life even more peaceful the Army Air Corps moved in, and she was recruited to teach them English. So she taught cadets older than herself—some of whom had even done post-graduate work in English. However, they evidently liked their young teacher. She was given apples regularly, and one day a hulking, 4-letter football player walked into the classroom carrying a bunch of violets. She used to help cadets with a radio program of their own too. Transportation was always provided to the distantly located station, but once Mrs. Stanford got left in the melee. When it was almost time for the broadcast, she was still sitting forlornly on the campus. Then the Air Corps to the rescue! Two cadets drove up in a G.I. truck and yelled the welcome invitation "Hop in." Well, this was wonderful, wonderful; only our heroine couldn't quite make it—the seat was too high. But nothing could stop the Air Corps. A ladder was soon located, placed gallantly in the street and held against the truck while Mrs. Stanford mounted sedately. Soon the G.I. truck pulled up in front of the radio station. The Air Corps had proved its worth again.

In the summer of 1943, maybe out of gratitude to those two gallant cadets, Mrs. Stanford got a job with the U.S.O. in Yorktown, Virginia. Her impressive title was "Assistant Director," but in army lingo it turned out to mean "soda jerk." I asked if these soldiers were as nice to her as her Air Corps students. "Well," she answered, "there were seven single girls in Yorktown to entertain 25,000 soldiers. It wasn't popularity; just scarcity."

In December of 1942 Mrs. Stanford married the pilot she had started going with in eighth grade. When his group was shipped by special pullman to California, Mrs. Stanford and four other wives climbed aboard too—no accommodations notwithstanding. The F.B.I. caught on finally and put them off, but a kind station master took pity on them and found room on another train. So when the special pullman pulled into Oakland five wives were waiting patiently on the platform for their husbands.

Captain Glenn Stanford is now stationed in the Pacific eagerly awaiting an expected furlough. He already has the Air Medal, and a recommendation for the Silver Star and Distinguished Flying Cross is now in Washington. Not bad for a year's work. If there were only some medal for an "awfully nice person," I'd see that Captain Stanford's wife had a few too.

Figures For November Bond Drive Announced

Rita Rogers, '44, treasurer of the War Bond committee announces that the War Bond drive has been successful up through the month of November, the amount taken in at that time being $1,800.

The outcome of the December campaign looks promising, but everyone has not contributed as yet, and not all students have been solicited. The support of everyone is needed.

Magazine, of which she was an associate editor until 1915.

Besides her prominence in the field of writing, Miss Tarbell was an outstanding lecturer and had considerable executive ability. She was named a member of President Woodrow Wilson's Industrial Conference, and during the Harding administration she served on the national unemployment conference board. In 1932 she served on a national advisory committee appointed to co-ordinate women's activities at the national headquarters of the campaign which elected Franklin D. Roosevelt to the presidency. However, she always considered herself more a reporter of great events than a participant.

Kindly and gracious, she had warm friends in many places, and of many ages. Interviewed on her 80th birthday, she was asked who she considered the greatest men and women in the world. She replied, "The ones we never hear anything about."

Miss Tarbell believed in a "socialized democracy," being too much of an individualist to follow her contemporaries, Steffens and Russell, into socialism.

"Communism and socialism," she explained, "treat human beings as mere cogs in a machine. But men and women are like quicksilver; you can't fit them into holes."

"I want to see democracy socialized because then it would work better. People who try to get more than their share of wealth defeat democracy. They don't think beyond their selfish desires."

ful performance are to be commended. The players are relinquishing their mid-semester recess in order to whip the production into even better shape than before. Recently, amateur production of the play has been forbidden and it was necessary for Mr. Hulbert to secure special permission from the Dramatist Play Service to make a repeat performance.

The tickets for the play may be obtained from the banks or at the college after January 18 with the purchase of a bond besides those bought through the usual salary percentage plan. The bonds available are the regular E, F and G types with the addition of three new negotiable bonds.

Students and townspeople alike will be called upon to lend their support through their purchase of bonds, making this second effort as successful as the first by meeting or topping the quota.

C. P. T.
And Y.M.C.A
Play Gators

The past week has seen the Gator quintet in two appearances on the home court. In the first game last Saturday night the college boys romped to an easy win over the local Y.M.C.A. squad to the tune of 53-24. In all, no less than nine Gators contributed to the scoring with Conroy, Nichols and Kirkpatrick leading the field with 15, 16 and 8 points, respectively. Donaldson, Matthews, Jenkins, Bailey, Neithermer, Fuhrer and Dart all saw action and proved valuable assets. As the "Y" boys were definitely outclassed, the collegians were held down from showing their true prowess and the game on the whole was rather sloppy.

Far different, though with a less fortunate outcome, was Monday night's return tussle with the Chicago Pneumatic Tool company of Franklin. Although they failed to avenge their pre-Christmas defeat by C. P. T. on the latter's court, the home boys looked good in losing. The final score of 41-30 hardly indicates the hard-fought nip and tuck battle that it was, for not until the final quarter did the victors start to pull away. The margin of victory was gained by C.P.T. by superior height—especially evidenced in the back board play, longer experience and more adept ball handling. Altogether the game was by far the most interesting of the season and the Blue and Gold quintet turned in their best performance yet.

It was several minutes after the opening toss-up before either team did any scoring. Finally Wolfkeil and Bierbach broke the ice with sets to give C.P.T. a 4-0 lead. Nichols, Allegheny's leading scorer all evening, promptly tallied on a one-handed toss from the corner, and Donaldson soon duplicated from the pivot to tie the score at 4 all. After Bierbach tapped in a rebound, Nick tallied again and followed it up with a marker from the foul line to give the Gators the lead for the first time. However, this margin was short-lived as C.P.T. tied the score at 7 apiece. In the final minute of the quarter, Nick hit the net again to bring his total to 7, and Allegheny ahead 9 to 7.

Soon after the second period got under way, Wolfkeil dropped in a neat bucket, and a moment later Bailey duplicated for the locals Wolfkeil, C.P.T.'s ace, added three to the visitor's score on a pivot and a foul shot, putting his team ahead by a point. Donaldson then tossed one in from the foul line to tie it up again. Conroy broke into the scoring column with a free toss and a set to give Allegheny a 15-12 advantage. After Eakin had scored for C.P.T. to cut the lead to a point, Fuhrer and Nichols tallied in succession. However, Eakin and Morrison followed suit for the Franklin squad and when time was called the score stood 19-18, Allegheny. Both squads started up slowly with the ball changing hands several times, and it wasn't till the closing moments of the half that Donaldson and Eakin scored for their respective teams to leave the half-time score: Allegheny 21—C. P. T. 20.

The second half opened with Jenkins in the center slot, in place of Donaldson. Morrison sunk a free throw to tie the score but Kirkpatrick countered with a one-handed bucket. Wolfkeil made good on a foul shot, and a moment later followed it up with a lay-up after a fast break. C.P.T. moved ahead for good at this point and the Gator zone defense began to crumble. Eakin and Morrison tallied between Donaldson's free toss to bring the score to 28-24. Wolfkeil added two more to make the third quarter score C.P.T. 30—Allegheny 24.

The last quarter was marked by a brave but futile attempt by the Gators to recover lost ground. After Bierbach scored for C.P.T. Nichols dropped in a beautiful overhead with his back to the basket. C.P.T. then added another from the foul line, and after Conroy swished for Allegheny, Morrison and Wolfkeil sank three more free throws for the visitors. Chick Matthews, making his farewell appearance in the ranks of the Blue and Gold, and Cal Neithermer replaced Jenkins and Fuhrer at this point. Conroy scored again, but Bierbach added another free toss for C.P.T. Morrison missed from the foul line but Bierbach rebounded for two more. Wolfkeil hit the net to complete the evening's scoring and leave the score: C.P.T. 41—Allegheny 30.

Individual scoring honors went once again to Sumner Nichols who totaled 11 points, while Harry Conroy followed with 7. Donaldson scored 6 but was rather restricted by three fouls incurred early in the game. Fuhrer, Kirkpatrick and Bailey, usually big guns, were held to two apiece, which helps account for the defeat.

By SHIRLEY McDONALL

After a two-week vacation women's sports got under way again with the outlook for second semester a bright one.

Try-outs for second semester Terrapin will be held Tuesday night, January 25, at 7:30 in Montgomery pool. Exemption tests for swimming will also be given at this time.

Present Terrapin members are to meet with Miss Mary Morison in her office immediately after dinner tonight. The new tank suits have arrived.

The volley ball tournament really got some fire into these last two weeks. In the winner's tournament the Alpha Gams conquered the Thetas, 43-24, and the Kappas in a riot of laughter took over the Sig house, 44-37. Tuesday night the Kappas marched onward with a 38-34 victory over Brooks B and another over the Alpha Gams, 46-25. In the losers' tournament the Phi Psi house bowed to the T.U.'s 37-28, and Tarbell to the Independents, 32-23. In Tuesday's game the Independents bowed to Beebe, 37-23, and Beebe in turn bowed to the T.U.'s, 42-38.

A new course is being offered this semester in percussion rhythm, time, musical forms and patterns, and melody and harmony will be learned through movement and the use of drums, gongs and other percussion instruments. Extensive use will be made of victrola records in the class periods devoted to music.

Registration for second semester classes will be held Monday and Tuesday, January 24 and 25, in the girls' physical education office in Brooks hall.

Have a "Coke" = Come, be blessed and be happy

...from Idaho to Iceland

Have a "Coke", says the American soldier in Iceland, and in three words he has made a friend. It works in Reykjavic as it does in Rochester. Be sure you have Coca-Cola in your icebox at home. 'Round the globe, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes —has become the ice-breaker between kindly-minded strangers.

Chemii Club Holds
First Meeting of Year

The Chemii club held its first meeting of the new year in the conference room of Carnegie hall on January 4.

Members spent the evening outwitting each other at various games, identifying well-known scientists, judging the volumes of containers and the weights of solids, and naming unusual laboratory equipment. Prizes were awarded to the winners. Following the games, refreshments of doughnuts and cocoa were served in the chemistry library.

French Club Meets

A program of recorded French music of the thirteenth century up to the twentieth century, was the feature of the French club meeting held Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Arter speech library.

Following the short program, potato chips, pretzels and ginger ale were served. Merle Bedford, '46, was in charge of the meeting.

The Outing club invites all those staying over semesters who would like to blow off a little steam and relax after exams to take a sojourn out to Bousson the weekend of January 22-23. All those who are interested in going are asked to sign up in the women's gym.

Editor's note: We begin the new year with a series of miscellaneous announcements. Marguerite Kift would like to have all changes of addresses as soon as possible. It is a real job trying to keep up with the army, and the post office is having a hard time forwarding mis-addressed mail. Please help. Muchas gracias.

Another item which may interest some of you literary-minded service men is the Macmillan Centenary Awards, "a number of literary awards to be available to men and women, serving in any branch of the armed forces of the United Nations." The principal award consists of $2,500 for the best novel, and $2,500 for the best work of non-fiction, in the English language, with smaller awards, totaling $5,000, for other manuscripts or publishing proposals at the discretion of the publisher. The closing date is December 31, 1944. It's an idea for something to do when there isn't anything else to do. Anybody interested? Further details may be obtained from the Campus or c/o Macmillan Co., 60 5th Ave., New York, 11, N. Y.

Some time ago the office of the censor wrote (and did it make us feel important) to inform us that by printing certain parts of APO and FPO addresses we were giving aid and comfort to the enemy. Of course we don't want to be a party to any such a thing, so we have discontinued the publication of such addresses. However, they are all on file and anyone searching for lost friends or sweethearts can find them in the Campus' special service file. The gals will be only too glad to forward any and all addresses. They're yours for the asking. We have received several letters from fellows overseas which we think are most interesting. Because of the above their addresses may not be published, but don't hesitate to write for them.

From Pfc. August W. Bloomquist
Dec. 22.

Last week I received my first copy of the Campus, and several days later I received my second. I can't express my delight any better, I believe, than by saying that I am anxiously awaiting each edition.

After spending about two weeks on my arrival in the United Kingdom at an Air Transport Command base I was assigned to the Headquarters Squadron European Wing. My duties are those of administrative clerk in the Priority Control Office. At present there are no opportunities for priorities back to the States for men on furlough. If there ever is such an opportunity, well, you guess the rest!

Assignment in London has numerous advantages. Our quarters are evacuated residences instead of nissen huts, our offices are in modern buildings instead of wooden shacks, and numbered among the more important advantages are the leisure time activities open to us. Already I have seen most of London's more famous buildings—the Houses of Parliament, St. Pauls, Westminster Abbey and the rest. In the evenings I can attend a good movie or go to the theater to see a play. Added to the above, on special nights there are lectures, concerts and various athletic events which take place under cover so as to conform to strict black-out regulations. London is a good overseas assignment, yet there isn't a day that passes that I don't think of the good time I had at Allegheny. I certainly would like to be back this year, but Uncle Sam feels I have a more important job to do here. When the threats of air raids are over, when the battle is won, and "the lights go on all over the world," I hope all of us will have a grand reunion at Allegheny. Thanks to you all and the staff of the Campus.

Just received a copy of the Campus in the mail. It is strictly all right to get some news from places that are so much a part of one's life. On the back page in the list of addresses, mine is very much out of date. Have run into two Alleghenians overseas, including brother Bill Barnes, who is just a couple of blocks away at present. Wishing you a Happy New Year and lots of luck from "Sunny" Italy.

Lt. Leroy Schneck, '41.

Since you are kind enough to send copies of the Campus, one of which arrived today, you should have my proper address. As you can see, it is some different from the one you have.

I've met several Allegheny alumni in the service; among them

Bruce Martin and Lt. Jim Schultz. And the French I learned from the worthy professors and elsewhere is one of my few assets in this South Pacific land. As shopping and laundry interpreter I find my service in demand quite frequently; doing business in French, however, is not my regular job—I have a very interesting position in connection with aircraft.

We had a perfect climate here until recently, when the temperature rose to the vicinity of 100 and remained there. The big natural attraction here now is a beautiful, tree, the flamboyant, rich green with clouds of deep red-orange flowers. There are many of them, and numerous other sub-tropical plants, so it's an attractive country.

T/Sgt. Richard Anderson

Thought I would write and let you know I am happy to see old Allegheny is really clicking these days even without me. Have had the pleasure of reading several issues of the Campus, and things seem to be different, but good with you all. That's fine. Visited the place this past August and it really did look good to this boy. Keep the place humming for us because I know we are all looking forward to the big reunion, say about 1947. Let's hope we make it.

This overseas business is very interesting, to say the least. We are seeing a lot of geography anyway. So far, Australian beef, swimming in the Pacific, palm trees, and coconuts, Eigel Mouth and movies, good chow, beards, insect repellent have made life very tolerable. Of course there are no women and no hard liquor (incidentally, how is SAE these days) but we all must make sacrifices, huh?

Hank Gardner and I are still bunking together, and after 11 months it helps a lot. He and I like being "somewhere in the Pacific." He sends his best to all.

I would like to ask one question. "Where is the Kaldron?" You know, a guy only graduates once, and he likes to have some record of it. (By the way, how was graduation? I have often wondered.) Speaking of the Kaldron, excepting the present editor of the Campus who seems to be doing a grand job (at least it is democratic these days), I always felt that women's place was in the home and still do. Enough said.

Well chums, if I have any friends left, this place does get a little lonesome. My best to absolutely the best place in the world. Happy New Year. Let's hope it is.

Sgt. J. C. Carothers
(Ed. note: The Kaldron is out, and we hope you may have your copy by the time this reaches you. And also—the woman's place used to be in the home, but during wartime that's taboo. As to after the war, well, we'll see about that.)

James H. Scott, class of '46, who left school in his freshman year to enlist in the American Field Service, is now serving with the British 8th Army in Italy, after service with the same unit in Tunisia.

First Lt. James Erskine Meyers, Allegheny, '38, now located at Camp Gordon, Georgia, and serving with the Headquarters 196th Field Artillery Battery, spent a 10-day furlough at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. Ray Meyers, 72 North Main Street.

Lieutenant Richard H. Whipple, a former student of Allegheny, has reported for duty at the Carlsbad Army Air Field, Carlsbad, New Mexico. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy Whipple of Meadville, he was commissioned August 30, 1943 upon completion of cadet training at Stockton, California.
