Library Receives Rare Newspaper

A very early account of Timothy Alden's travels in New England to gain support for his newly founded college—Allegany—is found in a copy of the Dartmouth Gazette and Grafton and Coos Advertiser, published in Hanover, New Hampshire, October 18, 1815.

This rare newspaper was found in the attic of an old house which was being torn down, by Mr. Ralph M. Hutchins, New Hampshire State Probation Officer, and has been presented to Reis Library.

Timothy Alden had come to Meadville on April 24, 1815, and the college had been organized by its founders on June 20, 1815. Alden returned almost immediately to his friends in New England for financial aid and support. The account reads as follows:

Allegany College, at Meadville.

"And the wilderness shall blossom like the rose."

Among the numerous proofs of attention to the means of knowledge and religion in our country, we are happy to learn that a college has recently been established in Crawford County, State of Pennsylvania. This settlement is 350 miles N.W. of Philadelphia, and within 40 miles of Lake Erie. The population has greatly increased in the course of a few years; and the inhabitants are chiefly emigrants from Connecticut and Massachusetts. Situated so remotely from the capital of Pennsylvania, the citizens of this place and vicinity must be greatly benefitted by the location of a literary Institution among them. They are at present very destitute of schoolmasters and clergymen. Their early attention to interests of science is highly creditable to them. And we hope they will meet liberal patrons and benefactors to their infant institutions. Rev. Timothy Alden is elected President of the College, and much may justly be expected from his ability, zeal and learning. He is now on a tour through the New England States, to solicit pecuniary aid for the College, by order of the Trustees.

This is a particularly timely gift to the college, since it is received just as the freshmen are beginning their study of Marcus Bach's play on the founding of the college.

Frosh Advisory Council Helps Diaz Guide Class

"Buzz does everything" . . . Following through his campaign promises, the newly elected prexy of the freshman class, Albert "Buzz" Diaz, Delta Tau Delta pledge, has swung into action, organizing a Freshman Council, obtaining seats for freshman representatives at the N. S. A., and planning an overall social program for the class.

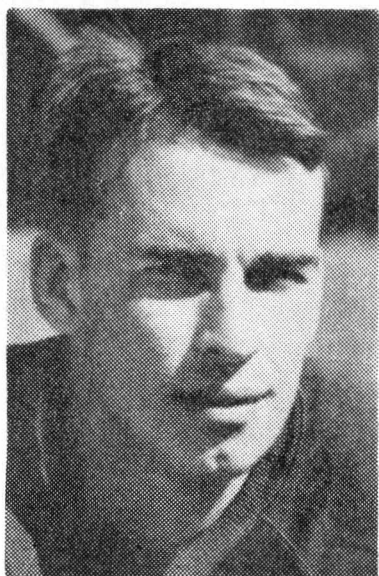

Defeating Dick Dickinson in the run-off elections held on Tuesday, November 2, for the office of president, Buzz intends to keep a finger on the pulse of the class through the Freshman Council, a non-voting advisory group, composed of representatives from each section of the men's and women's wormitories.

"It is hoped," stated Buzz, "to obtain the suggestions, criticisms and general opinion of the class through the Council meetings and in discussion narrow all problems down to a pro or con decision. All major issues will be voted upon by the class."

Once a second lieutenant in the Army Air Force, twenty-two-year-old Buzz has an admirable record to show for his three years' service. His job of directing morale-raising projects for army personnel at the Riverside, Calif., air base included supervision of base theatres, Information-Education, counseling in persona affairs, and welfare work.

Hoping to be admitted to the bar, the president of the class of '52, who hails from Charleroi, Pa., is majoring in economics here. He was voted president of the Delt pledge group, and his extra-curricular activities include Freshman Debate, Playshop and committee work. He is an enthusiastic golfer and interested in speed boats.

Buzz pledges the support of the freshman class to the A.U.C., A.W.S., M.U.C. and all organized groups on campus. Special effort will be made to co-operate with the National Student Association and two seats have already been pro-

FRANK POLLARD

BOB CARMAN

These three seniors, who have formed the backbone of Allegheny football teams for the past three years, will cap their college grid careers with a performance against Earlham College this Saturday at College Field. Bowing out of the Gator grid picture with the satisfaction of knowing they have helped compile one of the most successful football seasons ever seen on the "Hill", these three will be joined by Bill RYLANDER, whose early season injury kept him off the playing field all year; Chuck WRIGHT, first-string center who was hurt in last week's game and probably will not see duty this Saturday; and Rick MEYER, reserve end.

Faculty Children Lit Class Guests

Faculty children from the ages of 8 to 12 were guests of the children's literature class on Friday, November 5, in the Craig Room of the library. The party, which was under the direction of Ardis French, featured a quiz contest, won by Sandra Bugby, Butch Long, Miriam Parsons, and Peter Ross.

Patricia Hockensmith and Marjorie Hughes told children's stories. Refreshments consisted of gingerbread men and ice cream bars.

The children's literature class will sponsor two more parties this year for the faculty children; one for 6 and 7 year olds, and the other for those aged 3 and 4.

Miss Elizabeth Stadlander is the faculty advisor.

Women Vie For Trophy In Annual Speech Match

High on the list of events for the coming week is the Women's Extemporaneous Speaking Contest to be held Thursday, November 11, at 8:00 p.m. in the Playshop.

The topics for discussion have been taken from the last six issues of Time magazine, and they cover national, international and foreign affairs. These topics will be given to the participants one hour before the contest is scheduled to begin. Thus, the speakers will have just sixty minutes in which to prepare their speeches.

Acting as judges for the match will be Miss Cushman of Westminster College, Miss Jane Ludgate of Edinboro College, and Mr. Spencer Goodrich of Thiel College, all of whom are members of the Department of Speech in their respective colleges. Speeches will be judged on originality, presentation and content.

The group whom the winning contestant represents will receive the cup now on display in the Library. Last year Barbara Webb won the trophy for the Independent Women.

X-rays Disclose T.B. Cases Here

Dr. Robert Byers has announced that reports of X-rays, which were taken by students several weeks ago, have been received by his office. Pointing out that the effectiveness of the tests has more than justified their cost, the college physician also revealed that three active cases of tuberculosis were found among the students, along with numerous other mild cases.

Dr. Byers has personally notified all students whose tests showed positive results, and wishes to particularly stress the fact that students who have not received any communication from his office can be assured that they are in no danger from T. B. for the present at least.

Another announcement from the Infirmary has been made concerning flu shots. These preventative shots can be obtained any time from now on through the winter by students and faculty at cost price. One dollar will be charge for one shot, which is effective for any of the four major types of influenza. Special types of flu, such as those containing Virus X, require separate treatment. The effectiveness of each shot is approximately three months.

Biologist Speaks To Phi Beta Phi

Dr. Dean L. Gamble, president of Ward's Natural Science Establishment, Inc., Rochester, N. Y., will appear on the Allegheny campus on Tuesday, November 16, as the first guest speaker of Phi Beta Phi, honorary biology fraternity.

Dr. Gamble will lecture at 7 p.m. in Alden Hall. The lecture is open to faculty members and all students. Also invited are all Meadville residents.

Phi Beta Phi announces the initiation of four new members—Martha Van de Walle, Don Wargo, Louis Pyle and Sam Pease. Phi Beta Phi members are chosen on the basis of their scholastic achievement in the field of the biological and geological sciences.

Harold Newsome Named New Director of Publicity

By KAY DAVENPORT

Separated from the awesome title of Director of Publicity and Public Information, Mr. Harold Newsome might easily be mistaken for a student. The error would be understandable, for it was only five years ago that Harold "Buck" Newsome left Allegheny to join the U. S. Marine Corps. Young, energetic, Mr. Newsome is vitally interested in the job of presenting Allegheny to the public.

The first time Mr. Newsome appeared at Allegheny, he entered on a freshman prize scholarship. On campus he took an active and leading part as a member of singers and playshop. President of M. U. C., he was also a member and onetime V. G. P. of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity. Athletics claimed most of his interest. He played freshman basketball, and lettered two years on the football team. He swam, too, until the wartime shortage of manpower eliminated that activity. When Allegheny organized its first War Bond drive, Mr. Newsome took over as publicity chairman. In February of 1943 he was graduated with an A. B. in English.

He joined the U. S. Marine Corps, went to Parris Island and officers candidate school. Overseas he took part in the invasion of Iwo Jima and spent some time in Japan.

Mr. Newsome was discharged with the rank of first lieutenant. He spent two years in New York City as a public information officer in the Marine Reserves, attached to the Voluntary Training Division concerned with the training of staff officers.

Back in civilian clothes, Mr. Newsome spent eight months as a reporter for the Schnell Publishing Company. He then became assistant advertising manager of the Solvay Sales Division of the Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation. He was serving in this capacity when Dr. Benezet contacted him about the position of Director of Publicity at Allegheny.

Mr. Newsome is tremendously enthusiastic about his work. In a personal interview he stated that as yet his office has no definite program. However, it will be his aim to publicize all aspects of college life. So often the more glamorous activities, such as athletics, singers and play- (Continued on page 4)

Men Vote for Name Band

Larry Tompkins announces that, according to the poll of men students last Thursday noon, Allegheny will definitely have a name band at the Christmas dance December 11.

Of the 359 men who voted, 285, or 79.4% of those casting a ballot, preferred the name band, and 74, or 20.6%, the corsages.

EDITORIAL . . .

A Good Ticket

WIN!

This Allegheny Autumn marks a "harvest season" with a "crop" of unlimited possibilities. With the usual damp skies and falling leaves, the CAMPUS has watched the sowing of a new Allegheny president, an unexcelled athletic plant, an enthusiastic Freshman class, and a renewed coordination of faculty, student body and Alumni. All of these things have been planted, carefully cultivated and are now bearing fruit. A "bum per crop" is in prospect; one which even many "old" Alleghenians of '48, '49, '50 and before would never recognize. Too, Allegheny has a FOOTBALL TEAM, a winning team. All of these united, form a crop which we cannot define in a few words, but must call "Allegheny spirit". We have this spirit, why not harvest it? Replant it to endow the remaining year with something that can make us shout "Allegheny". Keep up the spirit!

PLACE?

Judging by Chapel attendance on November 3, N.S.A. was sown here last Spring in a rather barren, unfruitful place where its ultimate growth must be stunted and its fruit scanty. It seems a shame that Allegheny is unwilling to cultivate and harvest the possibilities of an organization which, like others, is as good as the nurture, care and support it receives. N. S. A., as an Allegheny institution, is worth more than just indifference or scorn. It is worth harvesting, too. It would appear that it must prove itself able to cope with its environment, however, as quite a few of those attending the assembly in which it was described, received no illuminating or inspiring reassurances in its favor.

SHOW!

As a political group, you might say we didn't show at all, to judge by the discrepancy between Allegheny's presidential choice and the ultimate emergence of Harry Truman, again waiting to be plowed back in the presidential furrow.

There is but one thing to add. Whether Democrat or Republican, the way is clear. Republicans cannot be Republicans alone and wait for another harvest four years from this autumn. Democrats cannot be Democrats alone and bask in the glory of a twenty-year reign. We must all be Americans together and begin our "harvest" now.

SIDELIGHTS of the Allegheny-Thiel College football fracas last Saturday . . . Reports from those Gator guys and gals who attended indicate that everyone got along "swimmingly." . . . The two teams looked more like mermaids or mud-puppies than stalwart defenders of their honor. . . . Gator swimming Coach Hanson was called upon at half time to teach the Alleghenians how to swim sidestroke and the trudgeon crawl. . . . The real reason why Bob Johnson didn't have the band perform at half time is the fact that there wasn't one qualified lifeguard in the crowd. . . . Rumors from administrative circles indicate that Allegheny will refuse to play Thiel next time unless that college drains its swimming pool first. . . . All things considered, the Allegheny-Thiel Water Follies were truly "classic."

WE'RE PROUD TO REPORT . . . that Phi Kappa Psi has regained its "voice." All last week the Phi Psi siren was missing from its hallowed resting place in the chapter house. Moreover, all week long the local contingent of "Pitchfork Boys" stalked the unknown culprits who purloined the sacred element, muttering oaths against all those who were considered "possible criminals" (which group included Phi Delta Theta, Phi Gamma Delta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, etc., down the line). Also on the list of "accused" stood Kappa Kappa Gamma, Alpha Gamma Delta, Kappa Alpha Theta and others too numerous to mention. In fact, the only local group who was not considered "possibly guilty" was the ACC. Finally Thursday the siren was heard wailing plaintively from various points around the campus. Several of the more enthusiastic Phi Psis tumbled out of bed, armed themselves with wrenches, clubs, broken bottles and other such tools of war, and piled into this reporter's shiny new 16-cylinder Cadillac. We toured the campus thoroughly, to no avail, and finally decided to hide in the alley behind the chapter house. A few moments later a car came roaring down North Main Street, from whence came noises that left no question as to the siren's location. In hot pursuit, we followed the gangsters through town and out into the back hills of Crawford County. We finally overtook the vehicle and discovered, much to our chagrin, that the culprits were two "brother" Phi Psis who had removed the object at an earlier date. After we pushed the car back home, we sounded the siren in front of the Phi Psi domain and in a few seconds were surrounded and attacked. Several of the local Phi Psis were badly mauled by irate brothers who could not recognize each other in the early morning darkness. Finally all was explained, a huge cheer went up and the siren was repaired once more to its original resting place, while your reporter was left to piece together all that remained of his omnibus. . . . In closing, may I offer for sale four tires, slightly used; a darn good car radio, and one bucket of assorted bolts?

Playshop Dramatizes

Andersen Fairy Tale

Tin soldiers, dolls and teddy-bears bears all come to life when the Playshop presents its first children's play November 19 and 20.

The play is "The Steadfast Tin Soldier." It was adapted from the Hans Christian Andersen fairy tale by Dorothy Holloway. Although the show is for children, eight-year-old Derry Bird is the only non-college student in the cast. He is acting the part of the little boy Peter who discovers his toys playing by themselves.

The college cast includes Nellie the nurse, played by Margaret Clement; Peter's mother, acted by Selma Mehlman; Lysa, the paper doll, is Janet Schulmeister; Popeyes and Pigeontoes, the two teddy-bears, are played by Betty Pappenhagen and Marilyn Ullman, and Raggedy Ann is Sally Schwab. The tin soldier, Monty Mac, is acted by Lee Adey. Will Dicome is captain of the tin soldiers, and the other soldiers are played by Gordon Robinson and Fred Richardson.

The entire production is under the direction of Mr. John Collison of the speech and drama department.

Social Whirl

The week of the weeks has ended and once more the gals sit-hoping--"Will he - they (?) - reciprocate or not?" If only someone would give them a clue!

Fraternity doings just "weren't" last weekend; all activity centered around the Congo Bongo Ball. (It was revealing to say the least!) We must admit, however, there were a few conventional couples there! The big hit of the evening was the pig (later devotedly named "Herrmann") who was awarded to the most cannibalistic couple present.

Honorable mention plus to the decoration committee for the first all-out job of the year.

Sunday found the gals fortifying themselves for a heavy week of... hour tests!!! Many were viewed frantically calling home (collect, of course!) for an advancement on next month's check. "They never had it so good."

The Theta pledges took time off last Thursday evening to throw their annual kitten party for the actives. KAT - get it?

This coming weekend the Phi Psi house will be the scene of two pledged dances - the Phi Psi's own (Friday night) and the Alpha Gam's (Saturday evening). Big doings are planned for each.

On schedule, too, is the Theta and Alpha Xi father's weekend - including the game, dinner, and parties. The Theta U's are planning a pajama party Saturday--Means big feed, gals!

Terrace Street will be enlivened Saturday evening when the Phi Delt hold their renowned Monte Carlo party. (Get with it, fellows!) And Sunday afternoon the Phi Gams will fling wide their portals for their first open house of the year! Come one, come all.

CWEN CONVENTION . . .

Hescamp, Slosser Report

On "Blue Grass" Country

We settled back in the bus seats with sighs of relief and started immediately to think of all the absolutely necessary things we'd left tucked away in Brooks Hall. Our worries vanished quickly, though, because we had waited for a long time to go to Kentucky and nothing could stop us now. We counted our money and thought fondly of how hard all of the Cwens had worked selling football programs and doughnuts to finance this trip for the two of us.

Playshop Starts

New Film Series

The second Sunday night Playshop film series begins November 14 with "Les Miserables."

This dramatization of Victor Hugo's novel stars Charles Laughton and Frederic March. Second film to be shown on November 21 is the "Seventh Veil". This is an English picture starring James Mason and Ann Todd. Frank Capra's "Meet John Doe" is the third film in the series. Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck lead the cast of this movie which will be shown November 28.

The Italian film "Shoe Shine" is scheduled for December 5. Selected as last year's outstanding foreign picture, it deals with two young Italian boys who become involved in the black market. The final selection of the series is "Cheers for Miss Bishop". This story of an English school teacher stars Martha Scott and William Gargan. It will be shown on December 12.

Season tickets for the series are available at the Playshop box office. They are $1.50 plus tax for all five pictures. Individual tickets are fifty cents apiece. The films begin at 7:00 p.m. every Sunday evening.

Near the Vale

We got up Monday morning to start absolutely one of the worst days that we have ever had. It all started off in a nice sort of way with us getting up about a quarter to nine, brushing our teeth, and ambling to the Grill for a five minute breakfast before being ten minutes late for our nine o'clock.

We walked into the Grill and turned right around and walked back out. It first occurred to us that we had made a horrible miscalculation in our sleepy stupor and had inadvertently walked into Isaly's. We then ascertained that we were at the Grill and so we walked back in. O multichromatic wall !!! O ultra-commercialized Grill!!!

We walked up to the service counter and searched diligently for five minutes to try and discover Martha. Indeed, what with this changing world of ours, we were sore afraid that stable Martha had left. But no. O bright spot in our day. There was Martha, cleverly concealed behind a sign that offered all sorts of frozen delights at a price left utterly to one's imagination.

So glad were we to find that good old Martha was still with us that we decided to fling the fact that it was breakfast to the winds and order some of the iced delights. So we ordered a fresh raspberry sundae such as we saw cleverly placed in a tipsy position on the swinging door. But a clerk informed us that they had none of those. Undismayed, for dismay is not one of our weak points, we ordered one of the gigantic strawberry sundaes that was displayed over the counter amidst an assorted orchard of other flavors. A clerk informed us that they had none of those. Well, we aren't people who allow minor things to upset us. We swept the wall with one color blinding glance and saw cherry pie with ice cream advertised in at least five different places. Now we were sure. Now we were ready. We ordered the pie. A clerk informed us that they had none of that.

We quickly sat down and hit our knees with a knife handle. Never in all our life were we so glad to see reflexes. Reinforced by this sign that we were, after all, fairly normal, we decided to go up and order something that couldn't miss. It wasn't advertised so we logically decided that they must have it. We scurried to the counter and laid down six cents and politely asked for a coke. To think that breakfast should end with this. Alas Any-

Ruth Slosser and I were chosen as Allegheny's delegates to the National Witan (that's "convention in Cwen language) of Cwens which was held on the large and beautiful campus of the University of Kentucky in Lexington from October 29 to October 31.

After a crazy all-night drive from Cleveland with frequent stops for coffee and picnic lunches, we arrived in Lexington at 6:00 Friday morning. Poor Ruth had my little brother's head on her lap, my sister leaning on her shoulder and the box of fruit jars at her head. Travelling with the Heskamps can prove dangerous. We all sing very loudly though, especially at 3:30 A.M.

The campus of the University of Kentucky is spread out over the city, and it seemed funny to take a taxi from one building to another. Our first banquet was held in the Student Union which is a huge, modern, very impressive-looking building where students, faculty and guests can go to relax, recreate, eat or dance--Allegheny's grill on a larger scale. At this meal we met representatives from the twelve other national chapters of Cwens. Girls from the University of Mississippi, Penn State, Miami University in Oxford, Ohio and other colleges all mingled together and compared notes on their journeys and schools. Perhaps the most common remark, "You certainly do talk strangely." Those Mississippi gals really took a lot of teasing.

The Kentucky chapter of Cwens had every minute planned for us, and we spent a busy week-end attending forums, business meetings and programs. Ofcourse, the main topics of the discussions pertained to Cwens and how we, as sophomore women, can help to foster activities for freshmen and sophomores, encourage good scholarship and carry out various service projects on our college campuses.

Such speakers as Sarah Blanding, President of Vassar College; Everett Ross Clinchey, President of the National Counsel of Christians and Jews and Dr. Herman Lee Donovan, President of the University of Kentucky showed us what a great part the college students of today must play in helping to build and maintain peace.

There was plenty of entertainment for us in the form of dances, teas, openhouses and informal parties. The honorary fraternities on campus supplied dates and transportation for the dances.

On Saturday afternoon, sixty of us climbed into a bus for a tour of the famous bluegrass horse farms. This was real Kentucky to us--miles and miles of beautiful white fences surrounding green pastures (the "blue" comes out in the way, we ordered the coke, they took our six cents, and we got nothing in return. Now that is where we draw the line. We didn't mind not getting anything when we didn't pay anything, but this was too much. However, a container was pointed out to us and we shuffled over there to serve ourselves much in the manner of an A & P Store. It was warm so we had to order a glass and some ice.

As we returned with our coke and containers, we could stand it no longer. It wasn't our Grill. The elections were bad enough, causing us to take to our bed for three days with a bad case of the vapors, but this threatened to lay us up for at least the winter.

We rushed from our table on the verge of spilling tears. We bolted up the steps on the edge of a nervous collapse. We hurried to our room to shut ourselves up for we could bear it no longer, but at the same time we were much relieved at not having found two plaster nudes and a waterfall on top of Bentley Hall advocating that we all buy Bond (two trouser) suits.

Volleyball Notes: Sheets have been posted on the Brooks Gym bulletin board, so now is the time to sign up your volleyball team of ten. Practice sessions and games will be held on Mondays from 7 to 10 P. M., and Tuesdays from 8:30 to 10:00 P. M. in the Montgomery Gymnasium. Betty Green is the student manager for the intramural competition which starts on November 15.

Felicitations to Jeanne Bockel, Janet Klein, and Judy Smith who graduated from Minor to Major Terrapin last week.

Ladies! You have until November 17 to play the first round of the singles ping-pong tournament and the first round of the doubles competition must be completed by November 13. Let's see some scores on that big chart in the gym!

SOCCER SCENARIO

Last night I had a dream, or rather, a nightmare. For some wierd reason, eleven Gateottes had gotten themselves involved in a soccer game. And who were they playing? Eleven other girls, you say? Chickened. Those mighty madams had taken on the varsity team and were actually mangling it.

When the ball was first kicked off, Sue Johnson gave it a terrific wallop. It hit halfback Red Ketchan in the stomach and knocked him cold. The ball was winged to Ginny Bowman, who dribbled it (Some Seniors never grow up) toward the varsity goal. At this point, center forward Virgie Lou Oehlmer zoomed in from nowhere in particular, smiled at the goalie Sum Nichols, naturally causing him to collapse, and proceeded to score the first Gateotte goal.

By this time, the girls had the fellows in complete confusion. Jay Huff picked up the ball with his hands, which simply isn't done in polite soccer society, and thus the Gateottes got a "free kick". Tiny "Tommy" Thoma unleashed a kick that traveled 60 yards through the air, and our gal Hershey caught it on her head. Freshie Jo Waldruff had a lovely time playing with the ball as she covered the remaining yards for another goal. From here on, the fellows went into a major collapse and goals were made left and right for the Gateottes.

The main casualty of the afternoon was Ginny Pratt, who backed into a fast ball and had to be carried off the field by three stalwart men.

At the end of the half, the guys had been completely annihilated and the game was called because of a series of fainting spells on the part of the remaining varsity members. Final score--25 to 0. Better luck next time, boys.

Needless to say, I woke up screaming.

Speaker at Dinner

Faculty members have a real treat in store for them this coming Monday. At that time a dinner meeting of the American Association of University Professors is scheduled at 6:30 in the small dining room at Cochran Hall.

The main event of the evening will be a speech by Thomas H. Hamilton, vice-president of Pennsylvania College for Women, located in Pittsburgh. A.A.U.P. officers feel that the evening should be very entertaining as well as thought-provoking if the title of the speech is any indication. Mr. Hamilton's oration will be on "Do College Administrators Make Any Sense?"

spring.) We visited three of the horse farms near Lexington and saw Man O' War's grave with the beautiful bronze statue of that famous racer over it. Also, we saw--in live flesh--such horses as War Admiral and Jet Pilot.

The people of Kentucky extended a warm welcome to the Twelfth National Witan of Cwens, and we all appreciated the wonderful opportunity to enjoy Kentucky--the state which Nature has treated so beautiful.

Victorious Gators To Meet Underdog Earlham Eleven Here In Season's Finale

Gridders Seeking Sixth Triumph

The Allegheny College football team, 6-0 victors over Thiel, play host to Earlham College Saturday on College Field. Chances of winning the finale appear to be very good for the Hilltoppers. Earlham has had a rough year so far and has not managed to win a single game. Last Saturday the Quakers were outscored 19-12 by Hamilton College, a team that bowed to the Golden Gators in the season's opener by a 19-0 count.

A victory this weekend will give the proteges of Bill Daddio a record of six won and one lost. This tabulation has not been equaled since 1923, when the Gators took seven out of eight contests. The total points scored and scored against stand at 66 to 26, an accumulation that should be improved Saturday. Little damage was inflicted during the Thiel conflict, which marked the first time in ten years that the gridders have beaten their nearby rivals.

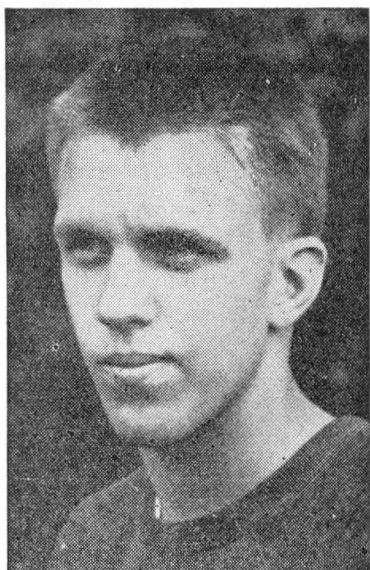

GATOR DEFENSIVE PLAY OUTSTANDING

In the quagmire that was Thiel's new $50,000 football field, Gator linemen charged hard and remained alert despite mud-caked dispositions. Thiel tried very few running plays through Bill Jack, Russ Spanard, and Ed Rylander, a trio that formed a brick wall on the left side of the line. Rylander charged through to block a Thiel punt early in the first period, and Jack picked up the ball on the five-yard stripe and raced over the double stripe for the only score of the game.

Allegheny fumbles and pass interceptions kept the tension very prevalent throughout the game. Both teams were presented with three or four scoring opportunities, but neither seemed to capitalize on them. Midway through the initial period, a Gator flat pass was intercepted and run back ten yards to the Allegheny 27. However, Bill Jack diagnosed the next play, a wide left end sweep, and rushed in to nail the runner for a ten-yard loss. On second down, an off-tackle cutback got through the line, but Jerry Watson emerged from his linebacker position to display one of his special bone-crushing tackles.

On the following play, the Tomcats attempted a fake field goal-pass play that was about as deceptive as the mud on the field. The pass receiver was in the clear, but the oval was thrown five yards over his head. A fourth-down punt rolled out on the five-yard line, and the Hilltoppers could not get out of the hole until Bob Carman's kick was downed on the Thiel 45-yard stripe.

Jerry Watson continued his show by intercepting a pass and running it to the Thiel 37. One first down was executed to the 24, and nine yards were covered in two plays. However, a fumble, the second of six Gator bobbles, gave Thiel the ball on their 13. Bob Carman returned a punt twenty yards to the 30 on a beautiful run on a slippery field. Jerry Watson gained ten yards on a cutback, but a sweep and a plunge were halted. Carl Hermann hit a Gator receiver in the stomach behind the goal line, but the ball, which had the consistency of a cake of wet soap, fell to the ground. That completed the action in the first half.

BILL JACK, Gator left end, performed brilliantly on the defensive Saturday at Thiel. He scooped up the loose ball after Rylander blocked a punt, and scored the sole touchdown of the game.

THIRD QUARTER MARKED BY FUMBLES

The third quarter was a myriad of fumbles and intercepted passes. The attention was monopolized by the vicious blocking on the part of several Blue-and-Gold gridmen. Watson projected two open-field crossbody blocks that echoed for minutes after the play. Frank Pollard and Chuck Wright blocked very effectively for the powerful single wing attack utilized by the Daddio men.

Halfway through the third stanza, Thiel had a pass intercepted, recovered the pigskin on a fumble, surrendered the ball on another interception, but again regained possession on another Gator fumble. Two consecutive first downs brought the ball to the Allegheny 27, but a fumble lost the ball two plays later. A long punt and clipping penalty set the Gators back to the five-yard line at the conclusion of the quarter. However, a flat pass good for 40 yards minimized the risk.

ED RYLANDER, 200-pound left tackle, proved himself the deciding factor last Saturday when he blocked a punt deep in Tomcat territory.

Allegheny was given two more scoring chances on two fake fumbles, but they could not seem to dig in and gain the necessary yardage. The halfbacks obviously were having a hard time getting started, except for one instance when that old reliable freshman, Jerry (Nature Boy) Watson, skirted the sidelines and evaded two men for a nine-yard gain. Bob Tiett's plunges deserve mention, as did the defensive play of Eddie Yarbenet at the back-erup position. Charlie Wright was injured quite badly, and he may be sidelined in the season's windup with Earlham.

Soccer Team To Complete Season Against Kenyon

by Bob Davis

The Allegheny soccer team entered its final week of play yesterday as it journeyed to Pittsburgh to meet the Carnegie Tech Tartans. In both the 1947 and 1946 contests, the Gators gained 1-0 decision.

Saturday morning at 10 o'clock the booters play the Lords of Kenyon College in the closing game of the season at Eberhart Field. Kenyon is the only newcomer to the 1948 Gator soccer schedule.

During the past week the Blue and Gold dropped a pair of contests to the strong University of Rochester and Oberlin elevens. Rochester scored once in the opening period and added three more in the second last Wednesday to score a 4-0 home victory. Outstanding in his game was the excellent play of lineman Tom Gray of Rochester. Gray, who tallied three times in last year's contest, score once and was instrumental in setting up each of the other three goals. Second half play was even as both squads substituted frequently.

Saturday morning the Oberlin Yeomen "swam" to a 2-0 victory at muddy Eberhart Field. Center "Beebe" Ballota tallied once in the first and again in the fourth period for the only scoring of the game.

The contest was close and hard fought until the last few minutes when Ballota added the clincher. Gator Captain Frank Ferraracio played an outstanding game at his left halfback post.

Students Welcome At AUC Meetings

The A.U.C. would like to publicize a list of all its members for the benefit of the students who have any problems or ideas concerning the college and the campus. If such problems do arise, the A.U.C. urges the students to contact the member representing their organization, and ask him or her to present it at the meetings.

Last week's grid battles were limited in number by the weather. All three of the games played on wet fields, which held down the scoring and created some exciting contests.

Phi Gamma Delta remained in the unbeaten column with an 18-12 victory over the Phi Psis. Both teams struggled through a scoreless first half and then opened up in the second half with a see-saw battle, a Fiji victory not being assured until the closing whistle.

The Sigs toppled the Phi Deltas from their mythical football throne by a 12-6 count last Thursday. In a bruising conflict the SAE squad managed to outlast the Terrace Streeters and thereby set themselves up as would-be champions of the football league. Only one hurdle remains for the Sigs, and that is the Phi Gam game this week. On the other hand, the Phi Deltas have yet to meet the Phi Gams and Phi Psis, two powerful aggregations.

Alpha Chi Rho again managed to add a safety and two points to their score, and this time it spelled victory for them over the Deltas by an 8-6 count. Both touchdowns came in the fourth period, the Chi Rhos having led all the way by virtue of a safety in the first few minutes of play.

The A.U.C. also wants to impress upon the student body that meetings are open to everyone, excluding none. Therefore, if any students are interested, they are strongly urged and are welcome to sit in on the meetings, which are held every Sunday night at 6:00.

Also the A.U.C. would like to add, that those members, who cannot possibly attend the meetings themselves, are asked to send a substitute to take their place.

shop, are apt to obscure work being done in other departments. He hopes to awaken the interest of the students as well as outsiders to the many phases of campus life.

Mr. Newsome commented on the high caliber of both students and faculty at Allegheny. He considers Allegheny unique in its excellent student-faculty relations. However, he feels that even these may be improved by the publication of information on the position and activities of faculty members. Some of the students do not realize fully both the personal and professional importance of the faculty. Through his office, Mr. Newsome hopes to correct this situation and so foster the appreciation which will accompany this knowledge—appreciation which the faculty so justly deserves.
