My dear Mr. Stanley-Brown:-

You may have forgotten, but I have not, that weeks ago we talked about the Log Cabin on the Titusville Golf Links and that my sister promised to send you a picture of it. Well, she did not return to Titusville as soon as she expected when you saw her, and after she came back she found distracting household conditions which have kept her tied up almost constantly since. I came home a few days ago and she immediately spoke about it, said she had secured only one picture, which I send you, but that if this interested you enough so that you cared for details, she would have them taken. It is really a dear place, though, as you see, very modest.

I am sorry that I did not see you before I left New York. I went to Washington the first of May, and have only been in town two or three days since. I expect to be back a short time at the end of June and the first of July, and perhaps then you will be good enough to run down and see me.

Very sincerely yours,

Lulu M. Peabell
