

In Mullett: Singing Memories 390 West End Ave.
October 20, 1933

Dear Miss Tarbell:-

I want you to be among the first to have Mary's Singing Memories, which reached me only yesterday.

I can never tell you how much your foreword pleases & appeals to me. With each reading I am more conscious of its complete perfection, & more proud in knowing that no book was ever introduced with such genuine & beautifully expressed understanding.

I have kept the book I brought you from Edinburgh, to read with the Singing Memories. Even though you may have seen what must be the world's most impressive memorial, I know the descriptions & illustrations will prove interesting.

How happy I would be to have you join Janet & Mary Lewis for dinner here soon! I hesitate about asking you for any special date because I know the demands on your time far exceed your strength. Should you ever have time and inclination for such a quiet meeting together, please believe that I am literally "yourself to command". -

I am eternally grateful to you, for what you have done for Mary - in this forward. -

Faithfully yours

Sally B. Drake
